DEMOCRATS ACCEPT SUBSIDY CHALLENGE, BUT EXPECT PASSAGE

House Has Lively Exchange When Byrnes Is Ironical on Harding's Letter.

MONDELL RETORTS SHARPLY

BUT MANY WON'T URGE IDEA

Harding, However, Is Sure Country Will Back Him—Stand on Extra Session Cleared.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 21.—President Harding's letter of yesterday urging discussion of the Administration ship subsidy bill and action on the measure when the House of Representatives reassembles after its recess formed the subject of a spirited debate in the House today. It was apparent that the President's desire that the question be made a leading issue was to have an affirmative response from some Congressmen at least.

Today's debate was begun by Representative Byrnes, Democrat, of South Carolina, who expressed the opinion that the people were against the subsidy and that the President would be obliged to do more than write a letter to bring about a change of popular sentiment. Mr. Byrnes was answered with vigor by Representative Mondell, Republican floor leader, to whom the President's letter was addressed. Although accounted lukewarm on the subsidy bill, if not an opponent, Mr. Mondell spoke today in a way to indicate that he stood with the President in his effort to obtain action at the present session of Congress.

Representative Garrett, acting floor leader of the Democrats, also took part in the debate, while Representative Mann, former Republican floor leader, appealed to the Democrats to join with the Republicans in some plan to make the fleet of merchant ships owned by the Government of use to the people.

The exodus of Representatives from Washington will begin in earnest tomorrow in the knowledge that a recess of about a month will be ordered next week. Those who have primary contests on hand or are certain to be renominated will devote the recess to electioneering. The tariff and the bonus will be foremost subjects of discussion, but President Harding has injected the subsidy measure as a major issue.

The President is "going to the country" on the subsidy measure. He will not take the stump for it because he feels that such a course would not be "seemly," to use one of his favorite expressions. At the same time he has impressed on Republican Congressmen that he desires them to explain the subsidy measure to their constituents and obtain an expression of sentiment from them.

Just how the President expects the subsidy question to become a campaign issue in every district unless he takes means personally to keep it before the country is not understood at the Capitol. Many Republican Representatives are opposed to it and are expected to show reluctance to bringing it to the attention of their constituents during the recess.

There were indications today from what was said by Democratic Congressmen that they were anxious to accept the President's challenge to make the measure a major campaign issue. They intended, they said, to bring up the question in their campaign speeches during the recess. It seems to be the impression of the Democrats that the House will pass the Ship Subsidy bill, but it is predicted that the President and the Republican leaders will not have an easy time.

Some of President Harding's friends in the House, who are opposed to the bill, said today that while they could not advocate its provisions they would try to carry out the President's desire that the measure be explained to the people. They will call attention to President Harding's advocacy of it and let it go at that.

The President, judged by what he has told people with whom he has discussed the subsidy issue, has confidence that the country will indorse the pending bill. His heart and soul are behind the measure. Nothing on the Administration's legislative program has such cordial approval at the White House as this effort to upbuild the merchant marine.

The impression seems to have become widespread that, if Congress defeats the bill at the present session, he will call an extra session at once for a resubmission of the measure. The President, it is said, has not given that impression. All he asks is that Congress shall consider and act on the bill before the adjournment of the current session, that is, accept it or reject it. The President has let it be known, however, that if Congress does not follow his recommendation to consider and act on the bill prior to the session in December he will call an extra session.

The Congress to be elected in November would not assemble under ordinary circumstances until December, 1923, but the President can call it in extra session as early as March. There is every reason to believe that he will call an extra session for the early Spring of 1923 if Congress fails to act on the Ship Subsidy bill prior to the ending of the present Congress on March 4. It is equally clear that if Congress should adjourn in August or September, or even in October, the President would be in-

Paging Guests by Radio Tried in a Boston Hotel.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Mass., June 21.—This city now boasts paging by radio in one of its first-class hotels. The plan is operating most successfully at the Hotel Essex, near the South station.

Manager McCarthy of the Essex declares that the radio paging system is a great help in giving more efficient service. There is no longer a "flock" of noisy boys running through the main dining room shouting names of various guests wanted at the telephone desk. Instead, the soft but distinct voice of the telephone operator is sent out to various parts of the hotel through devices from the telephone switchboard.

"Mr. Brown is wanted on the telephone—Mr. Brown on the telephone," calls the operator into a transmitter beside her switchboard, and out in the hotel her tones are carried by amplifying apparatus, causing Mr. Brown to drop his knife and fork at once and hurry to the telephone desk.

PALESTINE MANDATE DEFEATED IN LORDS

British Government's Policy Is Condemned, 60 to 29, Despite Balfour's First Plea There.

HE POINTS TO OUR ACTION

Fears That Zionists Would Usurp Political Power Are Unfounded, He Says.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, June 21.—The Earl of Balfour made his first speech in the House of Lords this evening in circumstances of uncommon interest with an unfortunate result. The die-hards did not treat him kindly and the Government was defeated 60 to 29. He had to reply to a motion by Lord Islington condemning the mandate of Palestine on the ground that it violated the pledges given by the Government to the people of Palestine and was opposed to the wishes of the majority of the inhabitants. It was therefore its acceptance by the council of the League of Nations should be postponed until it was modified by being made to comply with the pledges given by the Government.

There was a select, but not large gathering of peers to hear Lord Balfour address the House for the first time.

Lord Islington said that if the mandate was ratified it would impose on Britain the responsibility of the trusteeship for a Zionist political predominance where 90 per cent. of the population was non-Zionist. The mandate, he said, was a distortion of the mandatory system. A small proportion of the population would be given preferential treatment, he declared, and British authority was to enforce the system. The mandate, he asserted, would give rise to the most bitter hostility on the part of the Arabs.

Lord Balfour did not find himself in a friendly atmosphere in replying, although the Lords gave him a hearty cheer at the outset. He declared that the existing mandate was supported by America and the other associated and allied powers, with the assent and approval of the League of Nations. Lord Islington, he said, had declared it was impossible to establish a Jewish home in Palestine without giving to the Jewish organization political powers over the Arab races. That was a poor compliment, he said, to British government and the League of Nations. He could not imagine any political interests being exercised under greater safeguards than those of the Arab population in Palestine.

"Under the British mandate no form of tyranny, racial or religious, will ever be permitted," he declared. The resources of the country could only be developed by capitalists, and, having regard to the enthusiasm of the Jewish community throughout the world, he believed that as soon as the mandate question was settled its members would come forward and help in the development of the Jewish home.

"It is not going to be a great speculative investment that will prove wildly exciting on the Stock Exchanges of London and New York," he remarked. "It is going to be carried out by those who desire to help forward great idealist designs, rather than for the purpose of earning dividends."

Lord Balfour defended the Ruthenberg

WEEKS COMES OUT FOR WINE AND BEER; FINDS LAW HARMFUL

Secretary Declares That Prohibition Is Responsible for Widespread Unrest.

SEES COUNTRY FOR CHANGE

SCOFFS AT HINT TO RESIGN

Special to The New York Times.

CHESTER, Pa., June 21.—The belief that "regardless of the ethics involved, prohibition is responsible for widespread unrest" throughout the country was expressed today by Secretary of War Weeks, in an interview while he was here to attend the commencement exercises of the Pennsylvania Military College, where the honorary degree of Doctor of Laws was conferred on him.

"If I were in Congress now, I would vote for a modification of the Volstead act, permitting light wines and beer," he said. "I see in the times a more liberal interpretation of the Eighteenth Amendment.

"The people eventually will have their say and sentiment undoubtedly will manifest itself in the next election. I find that sentiment is against the strangling restrictions of the Volstead law. In my opinion, candidates who favor amendments to the Volstead act are sure of election."

Not Deterred by Public Opinion.

"I don't care for public opinion, I speak my mind," Mr. Weeks said at the outset of the interview in reply to comment on the effect produced in Washington by his recent address in Cleveland. "Naturally I would be criticised because I criticised the trend of Government."

He was told that it was reported that Senator Capper would like to see him resign from his Cabinet position.

"That is not surprising," replied the Secretary with a smile. "I can't agree with every one, and I would expect that from Capper. However, he didn't appoint me."

Then turning his attention to Congress he said:

"In the public mind opinion of Congress is at a lower ebb than it ever was. The Congressman is a delegate, not a representative of the people. Congressmen too often 'pass the buck' back to the people when they should be the spokesmen of the people. One reason for that is that the people are too little organized and not sufficiently informed on various questions.

"I believe that we in this country today are getting away from representative government. It takes training to be a legislator. The Representatives in Congress should co-operate in measures of political expediency."

Citizen Army Now Sought.

In his address at the commencement Mr. Weeks said:

"We are trying to save out of the expense and sacrifice made in the last war those things that may be used in times of emergency. The country is not disposed to maintain a large army, substituting for it military training of the citizen at camps and in institutions like this one. We are trying to make citizens and make them fit to be soldiers in time of war. We are going to try to do that in a large way in the future.

"God forbid that we should ever have another war. But human nature has not changed, and civilization is but the thinnest veneer. That was illustrated when the policemen struck in Boston in 1919.

"It is necessary to maintain some sort of military force. But the best that we can have will require the best possible leaders. In realizing that purpose the Government needs support and backing."

Senator Pepper and Manuel Chamorro, Minister from Nicaragua, also received the honorary degree of Doctor of Laws. Colonel Charles E. Hyatt, President of the institution, who presided, suggested Senator Pepper as a Presidential possibility in the next campaign.

Confederates Assert Lincoln Forced War; Call for "Fair" School Histories in South

RICHMOND, Va., June 21 (Associated Press).—"The war between the States was deliberately and personally conceived and its inauguration made by Abraham Lincoln, and he was personally responsible for forcing the war upon the South," declared a report submitted today by the Historical Committee and unanimously adopted by the United Confederate Veterans. The report recommended a history written by Colonel Ruger W. Jackson of Curryville, Ga., and published by Miss Mildred Rutherford of Athens, Ga., be used in the schools of the South.

"Your committee would especially commend for use in the schools of the South a pamphlet by Colonel Ruger W. Jackson of Curryville, Ga., the 'Truth Against the World,' and published by that great-hearted Southern historian, Miss Mildred Rutherford. This presents the official evidence gathered principally from the United States Government's archives, which proves the Confederate war was deliberately and personally conceived and its inauguration made by Abraham Lincoln, and that he was personally responsible for forcing the war upon the South."

The States of Mississippi, Texas, the Carolinas and Louisiana are now using histories "fair to the South," the contracts of mittee report stated, adding that it was "gratifying that this statement is sweeping over the South and the various adopting boards seem determined to allow in their schools only such histories which fairly teach the magnificent history of the Southern States."

The report, which was submitted by C. M. Walker, Chairman, concluded by saying that "the young children of the South will now be taught that the South was right, eternally and everlastingly right, in fighting for principles upon which our glorious country was founded."

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., June 21 (Associated Press).—Defending the memory of Abraham Lincoln from the charge made today by the United Confederate Veterans at Richmond, Va., that "he was personally responsible for forcing the war upon the South," Henry B. Rankin, aged 85, who studied law in Lincoln's law office and has written books about him, tonight declared the charge, "a lie."

"No man that ever lived," Mr. Rankin said, "was more lied about as to his personal manners and purposes of life. He was most essentially a man of peace. He detested war. During the war he went with Seward and met the Confederate Cabinet and challenged them to take a white sheet of paper and write whatever conditions of peace they desired, except secession, but nothing came of it."

'Say It With Soap,' Latest Idea for Hearst Campaign.

A person not lacking in commercial sense drifted in yesterday afternoon at the Hotel McAlpin headquarters of William J. Conners, promoter in chief of Mr. Hearst's political fortunes.

"I have a little campaign novelty," said the stranger. Whereupon he held up to the expectant gaze of Mr. Conners's aids an oval cake of white soap, having on its face an elevated tablet, also soap, on which appeared this legend in red and blue:

A Real Man for the People
William Randolph Hearst
Vote for Him.

"The inscription will not wash off," said the stranger.

"It's very neat," said Mr. Conners when one of his lieutenants showed him the device, with the suggestion that free distribution might net many votes.

ENO BEQUEST IS $272,000

Income to Be Devoted to Research Expeditions, Including One to Mongolia.

Gifts of $1,000,000 by John D. Rockefeller Jr. and $250,000 by George F. Baker to the American Museum of Natural History were announced by President Henry Fairfield Osborn at a meeting of the Executive Committee of the Board of Trustees yesterday afternoon.

The receipt of $272,000 from the estate of the late Amos F. Eno was announced. This included the gift of $250,000 with interest of $22,000 during the period that the Eno will has been in litigation.

The gifts of Mr. Rockefeller and Mr. Baker were both unrestricted. Following his custom, Mr. Rockefeller caused a long study to be made, before deciding on the gift, of the educational value of the work of the museum in connection with the public schools. The report on this work was so satisfactory that it resulted in the gift announced yesterday, the largest single gift ever made to the museum.

Mr. Baker has been interested in the work of the museum for years and recently gave $100,000 to it for the building of Morgan Hall, which is a memorial to the late J. P. Morgan, a close personal friend of Mr. Baker for many years.

To Aid Research Expeditions.

The income from the gifts may be used to extend the direct educational work of the museum or its research expeditions which have been sent to many parts of the globe, the most important of these at present being the party which, with the help of seventy-five camels and five specially constructed automobiles, is penetrating the great Mongolian desert, a tract which is almost virgin soil for the archaeologist and palaeontologist. A statement from the museum yesterday described the terms of the gift of Mr. Rockefeller as follows:

"John D. Rockefeller Jr. wrote President Osborn that he had long felt that the American Museum of Natural History was an important factor in the educational and scientific life of New York City, and that it gave him pleasure to contribute $1,000,000 toward the permanent endowment, the income from which was to be available for any of the current needs of the museum.

"Mr. Rockefeller stated that he realized the unwisdom of seeking to forecast the requirements of the distant future and was fully conscious of the dangers attendant upon the establishment of any endowment fund in perpetuity and, therefore, it would be agreeable to him, if in the judgment of the Trustees it was wise, to have the whole or any portion of the minimum principal of this gift devoted to the corporate purposes of the museum."

Trustees Thank Rockefeller.

The Trustees yesterday adopted the following resolution:

Resolved, That the Trustees accept with grateful thanks the splendid gift of $1,000,000 presented to the Museum by Mr. John D. Rockefeller Jr. for its corporate purposes and hereby take pleasure in applying it to the Permanent Endowment Fund, the principal to be kept invested and the income only to be expended for the work of the institution.

This munificent gift, valued at more than a million dollars, is the more appreciated because it is received at a time when the increase of the permanent endowment by at least $2,000,000 stands as the paramount need of the Museum, in order that its scientific exploration and research may not be curtailed and in order that it may continue to render to public education, especially through the school system of the city and country, a service which is increasing in importance and is receiving universal approval of educators.

Mr. Rockefeller's attitude in his generous terms of gift and in his liberal-mindedness with respect to the use of this fund is a further source of deep satisfaction and encouragement to the Trustees because it indicates his hearty endorsement of the aims and purposes of the Museum and of the Trustees' policy in its development and expresses his belief in the present and future service which it can render to science and education for all the people.

Votes Gratitude to George F. Baker.

The following resolution relating to the gift of Mr. Baker was adopted:

WARD INDICTMENT CHARGED TO ANIMUS OF JURY FOREMAN

MAKES ATTACK ON EVIDENCE

Says Prosecution Failed to Show That Ward Killed Peters —May Ask Release on Bail.

CASE TO BE ARGUED TODAY

May Grand Jury Is Held Over and May Reinvestigate in Event of a Dismissal.

Allan R. Campbell, attorney of record for Walter S. Ward, charged yesterday that Ward's indictment for murder in the first degree for killing Clarence Peters was partly due to personal animus against Ward by Auckland B. Cordner, foreman of the Grand Jury. According to Campbell, Cordner was biased because Ward had won the appointment three years ago as Police Commissioner of New Rochelle—an appointment which Cordner had coveted, according to Campbell—and displayed such hostility to Ward during the Grand Jury proceedings that he insisted on witnesses answering questions which the law said they were not obliged to answer.

Campbell made this accusation in an affidavit filed with an application for a court order requiring District Attorney Weeks to show cause why the defense should not be permitted to inspect the Grand Jury minutes. Justice A. H. F. Seeger signed the order at White Plains yesterday. It is returnable before Justice Joseph Morschauser at White Plains at 10 o'clock this morning.

To Ask Dismissal of Indictment.

In his affidavit, Ward's attorney said he desired a copy of the minutes as a basis for a motion to dismiss the indictment on the ground that it was found on insufficient evidence, and therefore violated the defendant's constitutional rights. He contended that the prosecution had failed to present any competent evidence that Ward had killed Peters. Even if it had presented such evidence to the Grand Jury, the lawyer argued, it must have been of such a nature as to establish that the killing was justifiable. Consequently, he said, he would move that even if the Grand Jury was justified in indicting Ward, it was not justified in indicting him for first degree murder. In these circumstances, he said, he would move that Ward be admitted to bail.

A spirited battle between the prosecutor and counsel for the defense is expected over the admissibility as evidence of the statement made by Ward's lawyers when he surrendered himself. Mr. Campbell announced that the defense would contend that the statement was not competent evidence, and that if it was competent, it must be accepted in full, and the facts placed in evidence through the admission of the statement must be accepted as proving that the killing was justifiable.

Problem Confronting Prosecution.

In other words, the prosecution is confronted with the possibility that it may be unable to prove that Ward killed Peters without introducing the statement in evidence, and that if it does introduce the statement, it may be unable to disprove that Ward shot Peters in self-defense while he was being blackmailed and threatened with exposure and death.

Mr. Campbell began his affidavit with the statement that unless the June term of Justice Morschauser's Court was extended Ward could not be tried until October and that it was unjust to keep Ward in jail without bail until then while refusing him a prompt trial.

"On information and belief," the affidavit continues, "no evidence of any eye-witness to the alleged homicide was presented to the Grand Jury, nor was any evidence designed to connect the defendant with the alleged homicide presented to the Grand Jury, except:

"1. A document, a copy of which is annexed hereto, introduced as a whole as having been issued by the defendant's counsel.

"2. Testimony by the District Attorney, stated in the public prints to be that on May 22, 1922, he asked Ward 'What kind of a gun he used, and Ward is said to have replied that it was a .38-calibre automatic.'"

No Evidence of Premeditation.

Saying that the defense believed that all the evidence submitted to the Grand Jury was in the hands of the prosecutor when Ward was originally held in $10,000 bail, Mr. Campbell went on:

"It is respectfully submitted that even if all of the evidence just mentioned is competent evidence against the defendant, it is no evidence that the defendant killed Clarence Peters or had a design to effect his death, or that there was any deliberation or premeditation, and, further, that if there was any evidence whatever connecting the defendant with homicide, such evidence in itself established that any such homicide was justifiable.

"On information and belief, no evidence was submitted to the Grand Jury tending to contradict any statement of the facts in the document above referred to, annexed hereto as an exhibit."

Quoting newspaper reports as confirming his analysis of the paucity of evidence against Ward, Mr. Campbell went on:

"Besides this, I have had inquiry made of most of those witnesses as to the extent of their testimony, and their answers show none of them testified before the Grand Jury to being an eye witness of the homicide and none of

5,000 STRIKERS STORM ILLINOIS MINE, FORCING SURRENDER UNDER WHITE FLAG; 14 REPORTED KILLED, SCORE WOUNDED

Union Leader Says Men Will Fight It Out If It Takes All Summer to Win Coal Strike

CINCINNATI, June 21.—The 680,000 striking coal miners are determined to "fight it out if it takes all Summer," William Green, Secretary-Treasurer of the United Mine Workers, declared in a statement here tonight.

Warning that a coal shortage was inevitable this Fall and Winter, Mr. Green said it was incomprehensible why the representatives of the Government and the public as well could not foresee this impending situation. He expressed the hope that before the strike had gone too far "reason, sense and good judgment will so influence the minds and actions of the coal operators as to bring about a conference and settlement that will be fair and just to all concerned."

"Along with the suffering of the miners," said Mr. Green, "must inevitably come great inconvenience to the public and perhaps suffering as well. If this coal strike is to continue, the supply will be wholly inadequate to meet public requirements when Fall and Winter comes."

Officials of the United Mine Workers organized in the anthracite coal fields, who arrived today to attend the convention of the American Federation of Labor, predicted that the 150,000 hard coal miners would declare a strike on July 1.

Thomas Kennedy of Hazleton, Chairman of the anthracite Wage Scale Committee, said that all negotiations had ended, and that the referendum vote now being taken by the membership was overwhelmingly for the declaration of a strike.

MARION, Ill., June 21.—Following an afternoon of labor warfare, in which fourteen men are reported to have been killed, two others probably fatally injured and a score slightly wounded, and which terminated in the unconditional surrender of a mine stockade and more than 100 strikebreakers, a peace conference was under way here tonight and hostilities had apparently ceased.

Troops, it was announced, will not be called unless further need arises. The strikebreakers employed at the scene of disturbance, a mine operated by the Southern Illinois Coal Company, midway between Marion and Herrin, Ill., will be given safe conduct beyond the strike zone. The mine will cease operating.

The majority of the dead are said to be mine employes recruited on Chicago's West Side for strikebreaking duties. These were killed when they charged en masse in the mine pit to repel invaders.

Worry was constoned officials watching the situation late tonight when all wires leading into the nucleus of the strike zone were either cut or torn down. At the same time rumors were circulated that mobs of miners from Johnston City, Herrin and West Frankfort were prowling the hills searching for more trouble. These rumors were, however, discounted by authorities.

Today's battle came suddenly after a week of operation by the mine on a non-union basis, when probably 5,000 strikers stormed the property. Apparently this was occasioned by the receipt of a message from officials of the International Union that the workers in the mine, although declared to be members of the Steam Shovel Men's Union, had no status as far as the miners were concerned. This was at noon. At 3 o'clock a truck load of workers sent from Chicago by the Hargreaves Secret Service was waylaid on a road nine miles north of Carbondale. There were ten men on the truck. One is dying at the Carbondale Hospital, two others are there seriously wounded, one was captured and six escaped into the hills with strikers pursuing.

Mob Gathers From Whole Countryside.

The news of this affray, spreading by grapevine telegraph all through the mining district, brought instant action. At Herrin, Carbondale, Johnston City, Crainville, Carterville and a dozen other smaller mining communities orators mounted vantage points and declaimed on the "injustice" of the situation.

As they talked knots of men gathered, then dispersed again. Many went to their homes, whence they appeared with rifles, shot guns, revolvers and clubs. A slow but certain movement in the direction of the Illinois company's mines was discernible over the entire district.

At Herrin a crowd numbering 200 invaded the hardware stores of the Bray North Company, the Herrin Supply Company and the Turner Hardware Company and demanded arms and ammunition. These were refused. The miners then held up the proprietors and clerks, bound and gagged them and rifled the stores of everything in the nature of weapons and explosives. It is estimated that more than $1,000 worth of supplies were taken.

At West Frankfort a mob of 500 miners quickly formed. As at Herrin the stores were stormed for weapons. All but one merchant had concealed his supply; the stock of that one was quickly confiscated. At Marion it was estimated that fifty automobiles loaded with miners visited the city during the afternoon in search of arms. None was sold.

By 5 o'clock the march toward the mine assumed gigantic proportions. One spectator estimated the number of strikers to be in the neighborhood of 5,000. Others, more conservative, put the total at 1,000.

Defenders Hold Council of War.

When the declaration of the miners' strike came on April 1, officials of the mine constructed a heavy stockade around it. When, a week ago, strikebreakers were imported, armed guards were posted at all vantage points on the stockade. After several days of inactivity, these guards were withdrawn at the request of the county officials after a conference between State Senator William J. Creed and Samuel N. Hunter, representing the Adjutant General of the State Militia.

As advanced detachments of the miners' army appeared in the hills surrounding the mine a heated council of war was held by the defenders. Gossip

BEGINNING SERIOUS WORK

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, June 21.—The formal presentation at court tonight of Chief Justice and Mrs. Taft has led to the making of an important ruling which has assigned permanently to ex-Presidents of the United States precedence at the British Court second only to that of royalty.

This has come about through King George's personal feeling that it was not fitting that Mr. and Mrs. Taft should pass before the King and Queen with the customary bow and curtsy. If Mr. Taft were merely the Chief Justice there would have been no difficulty about it for the highest judicial officers of this country make the usual obeisance. But Mr. Taft has been President, and it was felt that the fact that he had held this high office entitled him to special honor.

So the King referred the matter to the Lord Chamberlain and the American Ambassador for their consideration, and they recommended that ex-President and Mrs. Taft should have the same status as that accorded to the former Chiefs of State of European powers. Consequently they did not tonight pass before King George and Queen Mary like the rest of those attending Court, but were received privately in the picture gallery half an hour before the public ceremony by their Majesties and the other members of the royal family. Then they accompanied the royalties to the throne room and were assigned to places at the right of the King and directly opposite the Ambassadors and their wives, at the left of the Queen. As soon as the presentations were over the ex-President and Mrs. Taft accompanied the King and Queen to the supper room reserved for the royal circle.

Mr. Taft as Chief Justice wore his judicial robes, and Mrs. Taft was in full court dress. Colonel Oscar Solbert, the American military attaché, attended Mr. Taft as aid, and Mrs. Solbert was with Mrs. Taft as lady-in-waiting.

Mr. Taft has already begun his inquiry into English legal procedure, with the idea that he may discover methods of expediting justice which may be adapted usefully to American conditions. Describing today to THE NEW YORK TIMES correspondent the kind of thing in which he is interested, Mr. Taft referred especially to the Masters of the Court. These are officials before whom all litigation comes before it is brought into court and who do much to clarify and prepare the issues, so as to save the time of the Judges.

Thus, when an action is entered in an English court, in all save commercial cases, the parties must come before the Master in chambers and inform him as to its nature. If a statement of the claim is necessary, he determines the period within which it must be served on the defendant and the time within which the defendant must reply. He also determines what documents either litigant has a right to demand from his adversary and can listen to contentions that all or a certain number of claims filed are vexatious and can order them to be stricken out. In this way the Masters prevent many unnecessary and deliberate delays and reduce the issues to be tried in court to the really essential points.

Mr. Taft today said that he understood that the English plan had brought about a very considerable reduction in the number of cases which came to trial, but of course it must not be assumed that a plan which worked well in England would be applicable to the United States.

In the same way Mr. Taft is interested in the English method of paying much judicial [illegible] regulated by rules of

SLOW STRIKE VOTE ALARMS RAIL UNION

MANY AGAINST A WALKOUT

A Further Labor Board Ruling Against "Farming Out" Will Remove One Grievance.

CHICAGO, June 21 (Associated Press).—Although expressing hope for a rush of ballots the rest of the week, union headquarters, where the strike vote of railway employes is being tabulated, today admitted disappointment over the volume of returns in the nation-wide referendum of shopmen and other rail workers on the question of a walkout in protest against wage cuts ordered by the United States Railroad Labor Board.

Reports on the balloting at the Burnside shops of the Illinois Central were to the effect that the boilermakers there had voted overwhelmingly against a strike.

But five days remain before the general committee of ninety representing the rail workers meets in Chicago to canvass the returns. The General Chairmen are expected to arrive Friday and Saturday, intending to begin the ballot count on Sunday.

Rail executives today expressed the opinion that there would be no strike, but John Stott, Secretary of the Railway Employes Department of the American Federation of Labor, said:

"From what I have seen of the first 50,000 ballots, there is no question but that the final result will be overwhelmingly in favor of the strike."

Railway executives said that the vote would be in the nature of a vote of confidence in the union leaders and would simply place upon them the responsibility of calling a walkout, if one is called.

B. M. Jewell, head of the Railway Employes' Department of the American Federation of Labor, who urged the union voters to return their ballots early, so the result could be announced at the same time the $138,000,000 wage cuts become effective, July 1, is expected back from the Cincinnati convention tomorrow to take charge of headquarters during the closing days of the referendum.

Rail workers and their leaders today were digesting the reply of Ben W. Hooper, Chairman of the Railroad Labor Board, to the nine union chiefs who informed the board that a strike would be authorized if the referendum favors a suspension of work on the roads.

What effect Mr. Hooper's statement that the proposed strike would be disastrous to the railway unions, unfortunate for their members and unjust to the public, would have on the balloting the remainder of the week was a matter of conjecture.

Mr. Hooper's letter, which was addressed to Mr. Jewell, said the strike vote should not be taken on any misunderstanding of the action or attitude of the board, and asserted that the ultimatum of the union chiefs manifested "a strikingly distorted conception of what the board has done and why it did it."

Mr. Hooper said although he felt no reply was required, he also felt it his duty to answer the union leaders, in the interest of railway peace and because the threatened strike "contains such possibilities of loss and detriment" to the strikers.

"Farming Out" Ruling Near.

CHICAGO, June 21.—"Farming out" of railroad work under the contract system is due for another jolt from the United States Railroad Labor Board, according to trustworthy reports today in rail circles. It is expected to remove one issue in the present controversy and knock off one of the prongs in the three-pronged strike ballot now being taken by the shop crafts.

Seventeen contract cases filed against various roads by the unions have been heard by the board and findings are said to be almost completed. Indications today were that the decisions will be handed down within the next week or ten days, and that the contracts of which the men complain will be de-were hurriedly replaced at the stockade and the majority of the workers took shelter in the mine pit, where several massed steam shovels afforded some protection.

Reports from the field of action tonight did not say positively how the battle started, but there were only a few scattering shots at first. These brought the hurrying miners quickly to the scene. The mine was surrounded. The staccato of the gun shots soon blended into a steady roar. Some of the miners ventured close to the stockade and one or two climbed over. These buried bricks and stones and lumps of coal at the defenders.

Other miners, armed with rifles, stationed themselves on the hilltops and in adjoining trees in an attempt to pick off the mine guards.

For four hours the battle raged. The firing at times was audible in both Herrin and Johnston City, each six miles away. More and more miners constantly appeared on the hillsides as the fray progressed.

A Missouri Pacific Railroad train crew, sent with their engine to carry away an outbound shipment of coal, was at the mine when the shooting started. During the melee they escaped. It was this train crew who, when questioned later, said that they had counted four-teen dead and many others injured in the mass of miners who were entrenched in the mine pit proper. This report could not be verified later because of the confusion.

Operators Resist White Flag.

As the defenders of the mine realized that they were hopelessly outnumbered, and as frantic calls for troops brought word that no aid could be expected before the following morning, a surrender was decided on and a white flag was hoisted.

This was promptly followed by a lull in the firing while leaders of the attacking forces conferred. Then came an order for cessation of hostilities. Heads of the strikers and mine officials met just outside the stockade. It was said that the mine officials agreed that the strikebreakers should be turned out and that the mine should cease attempts at operation until the walkout was satisfactorily settled by the International unions.

The first casualties from the battle reached Herrin shortly after six o'clock. The body of Jordan Henderson, 45 years old, a miner, was the first to arrive. He had been shot through the head and was instantly killed. Joe Pitchovic, a Herrin miner, and James Morris, a miner of Johnston City, were taken there badly wounded. At midnight despite efforts of Coroner McKeon of Williamson County, these were the only names which had been learned of dead or wounded from the mine battle.

At Carbondale Sidney Morrison, 1,325 North California Avenue, Chicago, who is reported to be dying, and John Jordan, 3,128 South State Street, Chicago, and P. W. King of Allentown, Pa., occupants of the truck first attacked north of the city, were badly wounded.

Sheriff Melville Thaxton of this city and Colonel Samuel N. Hunter of the Adjutant General's Staff, accompanied by a dozen Deputies, left for the scene of the fighting immediately after the first reports had been received. They, with State Senator Sneed and mine union officials are now in conference at Herrin as to a declaration of peace in the district.

As strikebreakers and mine guards at midnight had been housed into the mine office, it was reported. The steam shovels and the stockade have been abandoned and are now being patrolled by armed strikers, who have promised their aid to the Sehriff in keeping order. Roads leading into the strife district are likewise patrolled by strikers. It is not expected that fighting will be resumed.

"Strip" miners, as they are known, were not directly affected by the strike. The unions, however, agreed to walk out in sympathy with their brother workmen. The Southern Illinois Company's men quit work.

Officials of the company shortly after the declaration of the strike went to Union made and asked permission to develop their properties by stripping the earth layer from the coal in preparation for the resumption of operations when the strike ended. This was granted. The steam shovelers began work, but when they had stripped about 15,000 tons of coal it is charged that they then began digging the coal itself. One hundred new laborers recruited in Chicago were brought in later. Forty guards furnished, it is said, by the Hargreaves Secret Service of Chicago, were imported to protect them. The Chicago, Burlington & Quincy furnished a train of boarding house box cars for their use. The presence of the strikebreakers and their operations caused feeling to run high in the strike district.

Newspaper Reports Seven Killed.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., June 21 (Associated Press).—Hal W. Trovillion, member of the Illinois Commerce Commission and editor of The Herrin News, received word from his managing editor over the long distance telephone tonight that seven men had been killed in the labor trouble at Herrin, six of them union strikers and one a mine guard.

CHICAGO, June 21 (Associated Press).—Appeals for aid in quelling disorders at the Southern Illinois Coal Company's mine between Marion and Herrin, Ill., were telephoned late today by officials at the mine to William J. Lester, President of the company, who is in Chicago.

According to the communications to Mr. Lester, the trouble began after receipt of word by striking miners from John L. Lewis, President of the Mine Workers, that miners working in the company's stripping mine should be considered "common strikebreakers."

A crowd began gathering shortly after Mr. Lewis's message was received, it was said, and a march was started to the mine. A clash with guards followed, in which several persons were reported to have been killed or injured.

The mine had been idle since the strike up to within the last two weeks, when it was put back into operation, it was said.

DISORDER IN PENNSYLVANIA.

Special Officer Is Beaten by Striking Miners at Uniontown.

Special to The New York Times.

UNIONTOWN, Pa., June 21.—Harry Stehle, a special officer at the Footdale Mine of the H. C. Frick Coke Company, six miles southwest of here, was severely beaten by a mob of twenty-five or thirty striking miners last night at the No. 2 mine of the Thompson-Connellsville Coal and Coke Company, near Footdale.

A riot call was sent to the detachment of State police stationed at New Salem. They responded and quickly dispersed the crowd, and took Stehle to a doctor's office, arresting eleven of the alleged rioters.

Nearly 1,900 Fayette County coal miners and their families have been evicted since the inception of the strike last April, and, according to information received from the office of Sheriff Ira I. Miller of Fayette County, many more miners will be ousted.

Tented settlements are located near practically every coal and coke town, while provisions are being made for the erection of tents in wholesale numbers.

A bomb explosion, believed to have been caused by striking miners, wrecked the tipple of the H. J. Myers Coal Company mine in Stewartsville Hollow Road, Versailles Township, shortly after last midnight, entailing a loss of $1,000.

County detectives investigating found over 100 feet of wire stretched along the hillside, where it is believed the dynamite was set off by a battery. The mine is non-union. It has been supplying the Connellsville Hospital, Connellsville municipal buildings and schools with coal since the strike.

Strikers Threaten at Glasgow, Pa.

CRESSON, Pa., June 21 (Associated Press).—Word reached here today from Glasgow, Cambria County, that a large crowd of men gathered at the Glasgow Coal Company's mine there last night and threatened working miners as they were returning to their homes. The Glasgow Company resumed operations yesterday after a suspension since April 1, when the strike began.

Today the mine was not operating and company officials said they had appealed to Sheriff Kellar to protect the miners who want to work. They said the mine would reopen again tomorrow.

Company Cuts Off Water Supply.

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., June 21.—The Rosedale Coal Company has turned off the water supply to company houses occupied by striking union miners, it became known here today when counsel for the United Mine Workers took the situation under advisement. The miners have been served with eviction notices but are occupying the houses pending appeals.

The union attorneys planned to go into court and seek an injunction to restrain the company from shutting off the water supply, and if this move fails they said they would appeal to country health authorities, contending that the action of the company has endangered the health and lives of women and children.

Officials of the Rosedale company declared the water had been shut off after a newly furnished home of a non-union miner had been entered, water thrown on the furniture and household goods and dirt scattered over the waters soaked property. "We turned the water off to keep them from temptation," the company announced.

CHARLES TOWN, W. Va., June 21 (Associated Press).—Miners who gathered at Marmet last Summer said they were going to Logan County to kill Sheriff Don Chaffin, according to Harold M. Richards, State rebuttal witness in the trial of the Rev. J. R. Wilburn. Wilburn was indicted for killing Deputy Sheriff John Gore during the industrial troubles.

Richards described events during the fighting along the Boone-Logan border, and said that before the march began shots were fired and about Blair, created excitement in the mining camp.

A. R. Browning of Blair, on cross-examination, testified that Deputy Gore had a good reputation about the Logan-Boone line and was not noted as being given to violence and disorder.

FIND MINERS IN NEED IN NEW RIVER FIELD

BECKLEY, W. Va., June 21.—The committee invited by coal operators to investigate conditions among miners of the New River coal fields of West Virginia today completed its third day. This committee, appointed by Rabbi Stephen S. Wise, head of the Free Synagogue of New York, made its first statement tonight for publication. The statement read:

"The committee is finding much actual need among the striking miners in the New River coal field. Owing to the interrupted employment that prevailed for nearly a year before the strike, this need is more acute than it would otherwise be. During that year many towns were idle for months at a time and in others the miners worked only two or three days a week. This used up savings, exhausted credit at local stores and tended to deplete other resources upon which families might have relied in time of need. Wages were generally reduced last November and December. Some employment is found outside of the mines, but the amount of this appears to be small.

"If it were not for the relief being distributed by the union a large number of people would be facing starvation. The relief is not adequate. Many families are receiving less than 30 cents a week for each person. Milk for babies and children is one of the great needs.

"Some of the mines have reopened by offering the men the 1917 wage scale. Men have gone back to work at this scale lately in increasing numbers. In not a few instances they have been induced to take this action because their families could no longer stand the privation to which they have been subjected."

The committee is composed of the Rev. Father John R. McGowan of the National Catholic Welfare Council, Washington, D. C.; Dr. Sidney A. Goldstein, associate rabbi of the Free Synagogue, New York, and Winthrop D. Lane, New York writer. The committee will spend a week at its task.

REPLIES FOR MINE OWNERS.

President Ogle Says Statement by Lewis Is Unfounded.

A. M. Ogle, of Washington, D. C., President of the National Coal Association, composed of bituminous coal operators, issued a statement here last night in reply to a statement from John L. Lewis, President of the United Mine Workers of America, dealing with the coal strike. Mr. Ogle challenged the statement by Mr. Lewis that conferences with the coal operators have been sought in vain by the mine workers, and added:

"The fact is that operators in every union producing field affected by the strike have repeatedly and insistently urged that the miners' officials meet them in State or district conferences to negotiate a settlement of the wage contract. Mr. Lewis, as head of the United Mine Workers of America, has, however, arrogantly refused.

"Conferences to determine the wage contract and bring about an end to the strike in each district not now producing coal, can be started tomorrow if Mr. Lewis consents."

Scott Coal Company Gets Injunction.

Special to The New York Times.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., June 21.—Copies of a temporary restraining order, signed by Judge W. H. S. Thomson in the United States District Court, enjoining officials and members of the United Mine Workers of America from interfering with the operation of the Scott Coal Company, near Bridgeville, are being served on twenty-nine persons by Deputy United States Marshals. Since April 17, it is alleged that the coal company has been interfered with and prevented from carrying on the business by the defendants or some of them.

Soft Coal Output Increases.

ALTOONA, Pa., June 27.—Reports received by the Central Coal Association here today indicate an increase in coal production in the Central Pennsylvania bituminous field. For the week ended June 17 a total of 3,677 cars were loaded, according to the reports, as against 3,456 for the week ended June 10.

DAUGHERTY FINDS LACK OF ANTI-MERGER FACTS

Invites 'Legitimate' Opposition in Statement Considered Somewhat Ironical.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 21.—It was indicated at the Department of Justice today that little opposition had developed to the proposed mergers of independent steel companies, which were the basis of a Senate resolution calling upon Attorney General Daugherty and the Federal Trade Commission to pass upon their legality.

The Department has been holding hearings during the last month upon the merger of the Bethlehem Company with the Lackawanna and of the Midvale with the Republic and Inland. Today it issued the following statement:

"In regard to the two steel merger cases now before the Department of Justice, it was announced today that the Department of Justice would be glad to hear from any dependable person who has any legitimate argument to offer against the merger."

No comment was made at the Department upon this statement, which was considered somewhat ironical. It was not brought out whether any opponents of the mergers had appeared at the hearings, nor, if they had done so, what their arguments had been deemed "legitimate."

The statement was generally accepted as indicating that no legal barrier thus far had been found by Attorney General Daugherty to the proposed mergers, and that before he completed his report to the Senate he was desirous of giving every opportunity to all sides to be heard. One of the most outspoken critics of the mergers has been Samuel Untermyer, counsel to the Lockwood committee of New York, who has left for Europe.

Should Attorney General Daugherty place his approval upon the Bethlehem-Lackawanna merger, his opinion would be in direct contradiction of the report already filed by the Federal Trade Commission with the Senate. That body has declared the merger to be a combination in restraint of trade and has called upon the corporations to show cause why they should not cease and desist from joining.

BROTHER THREATENS KING OF JUGOSLAVIA

George, Who Was Forced to Renounce Succession, Writes Alexander From France.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, June 21.—The Belgrade correspondent of The Daily News telegraphs:

"A great sensation has been caused by the receipt here yesterday of threatening letters written by Prince George, brother of King Alexander, and addressed to the King, M. Pasitch, the Premier, and a number of other prominent politicians.

"Prince George, who is a year older than King Alexander, renounced his rights as Crown Prince in 1900, and the recipients of the letters were for the most part participants in the plot which forced him to retire in favor of Jugoslavia's present ruler.

"I am informed officially that M. Pasitch will approach the French authorities—Prince George being at the moment on French territory—with a view to getting him placed in a sanatorium. It is realized that his popularity among army officers may otherwise lead to trouble. King Alexander, too, may intervene personally."

The Daily News adds that Prince George's doings as Crown Prince, it may be recalled, were the subject of endless stories. He shot a young Macedonian with whom he quarreled on a shooting excursion; he was turned out of the principal music hall in Belgrade for throwing champagne bottles at the orchestra and making love to an actress on the stage, and on one occasion he led a midnight raid on a convent, breaking in the gate and killing the watchdog with his sword.

Shoe Plants to Go on Full Time.

BROCKTON, Mass., June 21.—The W. L. Douglas Shoe Company announced today that beginning June 27 its men's shoe factories would run on a full time schedule of forty-eight hours weekly. The plants have been running on a forty-hour schedule since early Spring.

DAUGHTER DOOMS POETESS SLAYER

Mme. Bessarabo, Convicted in Paris, Forgives Young Woman in Motherly Outburst.

GIRL CONFESSES IN COURT

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, June 21.—A sentence of twenty years' penal servitude was passed this afternoon by the Central Criminal Court on Madame Marie Bessarabo, the jury finding that nearly two years ago she shot her husband and to avoid discovery packed the body in a trunk and sent it by freight to Nancy.

Special interest has attached to the case as, apart from the circumstances of the crime, Madame Bessarabo had formerly some repute as a poet and a writer of strongly feminist novels and also because in the dock with her there appeared, accused as an accomplice in the crime if not the actual murderess, her twenty-year-old daughter by a former marriage, Mlle. Pauline Jacques.

In an impassioned speech for the defense yesterday, Maitre Moro Giafferi, the defender of Landru and one of the most powerful pleaders at the Paris bar, declared that even yet there was no certainty as to which of the women, if either, committed the murder. He challenged the jury to return a verdict of guilty while that doubt existed. But today the girl, hysterically sobbing, told her story to the Court.

She said that she had been aroused from sleep by the sound of a shot, and, going to her mother's room, saw her stepfather dead on the bed. In all her mother's plans to pack the body in a trunk and send it to Nancy, she said, she had taken no part. The mother, she declared, had maintained to her, as she had done in court, that there was some secret about the husband's death and that it was not she who had killed him.

"I believed her," the girl sobbed, "until that moment in the trial when she called to me in Spanish to be silent when she thought that I was about to tell the truth as I am telling it now."

After this last emotional outburst the jury unanimously acquitted the girl, and she left the court, after nearly two years' imprisonment.

Mme. Bessarabo, in a cold voice, thanked the jury for having acquitted her daughter. For herself she maintained to the last that her husband was still alive and in New York; that she had received a letter from an American General telling her so, and that the body in the trunk was not that of Bessarabo.

"I suffer," she cried, "because my daughter has shown fear and bowed her head. I carry my head high because I am innocent." Yet from the bottom of my heart I thank you for having at least acquitted my Paulette. This woman whom you have proclaimed a murderess has still the heart of a mother."

Defends Daughter After Confession.

PARIS, June 21 (Associated Press).—Mme. Bessarabo, writer of feverish verse and sensational stories under the name of Hers Mirtel, when she heard her daughter's confession today that meant her conviction for killing her husband, became her daughter's defender. She implored the jurors' mercy for the daughter.

The mother turned livid when her daughter left the dock, before the jury went out, offered to tell the truth, then arose and waited until the last word of the confession had been spoken and pleaded with the jurors.

"Forgive my daughter," she begged them. "Pardon this child. As for me, who am old and withered, I abandon myself to you. This is not a reproach. A woman should remain young. Punish the old one, for she has had youth and has lost it in work doing her duty. She is guilty because she is old."

Mother to the last, she remained also bitingly sarcastic, saying to the jury and Judges:

"I see only men here. There are 15,000 women in your prisons, but none among my judges."

An hour later, when the verdict was read, she smiled when she heard that her daughter was freed, with a tenderness that amazed those who had watched her studied coldness, her hard face, throughout the trial. She told the jurors:

"I thank you for having acquitted my daughter. As for me, I am innocent."

The jurors apparently voted only seven to five for conviction, as five jurors immediately signed an application for the mother's pardon, and the attorneys hope to win over the others.

DENIES SLUR ON D. S. C.

Dr. Ogilby of Trinity College Silent on War Hero's Exit.

The Rev. Dr. Remsen B. Ogilby, President of Trinity College, Hartford, Conn., denied yesterday that he had said the Distinguished Service Cross "meant nothing" to him. The doctor was quoted in Hartford dispatches as expressing himself thus while engaged in escorting E. R. Hampson, Waterbury war hero and Trinity alumnus, from the hall of science, on the third count. The exit of Mr. Hampson, according to the dispatches, occurred because he appeared in a business suit instead of evening attire, thereby "insulting the patronesses" of the dance.

"Nothing to say," was the reply when reporters first confronted Dr. Ogilby at the Episcopal Missions Building, 281 Fourth Avenue, as he came out of conference of Episcopal educators. He was shown the clipping of the Hartford episode and asked to amplify his three-word communiqué.

"Of course," he said, "I didn't say that the Distinguished Service Cross meant nothing to me. I simply didn't say it. The D. S. C. means a great deal to me. I was in the army as a chaplain, first at West Point and then at Debarkation No. 5, the hospital in the Grand Central Palace. I fought like the devil to get overseas, but I couldn't make it."

IRISH REPUBLICANS PLAN TO CARRY ON

Mellowes Says Fight Will Continue Until Their Cause Triumphs.

DE VALERA IS ALSO BITTER

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

DUBLIN, June 21.—The result of the count in the Irish elections tonight was:

Pro-treaty Coalition	55
Anti-treaty Coalition	32
Labor	15
Independents	6
Trinity College	4
Farmers	6

About ten seats are still undecided, including that of Michael Collins, whose return will complete the return of the entire outgoing Ministry. The outstanding feature today was the defeat of Erskine Childers for Kildare, Wicklow, and editor of the organ, Republic of Ireland. He was at the bottom of the poll with only 600 votes. The position of his colleague, Robert Barton, is still uncertain. The defeat of Mrs. Pearse in County Dublin is another severe blow to the anti-treaty party. Her departure reduces the woman Deputies in the new Dail to two.

In Wexford Labor ousted the panel candidates, Dr. Ryan and Etchingham, anti-treaty, and O'Byrne, pro-treaty, the successful ones being two Labor, one farmer and one anti-treaty. In Louth and Meath Labor ousted a panel treatyite, but the constituency has three other treatyites, including Home Affairs Minister Duggan and one anti-treatyite, O'Kelly, who recently visited America in the republican interest.

It seems now that the treatyites in the new Dail will number 59, the Republicans 35, Labor 16 or 17.

Speaking in County Kildare General Liam Mellowes said the outlook was black but that Republicanism was not dead. They would continue the fight until the cause triumphs. He declared the republic continues as long as the Declaration of Independence exists, and they will defend it with their lives if that is necessary. Republican leaders present included Generals Rory, O'Connor and Traynor, Count and Countess Plunket, Harry Boland, Countess Markievics, Mrs. Clarke and Miss MacSwiney.

Childers Condemns Constitution.

Erskine Childers's paper says:

"The new situation destroys all hope of unifying the army. It seems truly impossible to us that any Republican should co-operate with those who stand for this Constitution and mean to impose it on Ireland. It seems impossible that the important body of men, army officers and others, who have turned the scale for treaty solely on the guarantee of their leaders that the Constitution would be on Republican lines can stomach this surrender to King and empire."

Eamon de Valera made his expected statement on the Constitution this evening. He, in part, said:

"As it stands it will exclude from public service, and practically disfranchise, every honest Republican. Its test code is as comprehensive against Republicans as the test acts of the Clarenden and Shaftesbury code against Catholic and dissenters in the reign of Charles II. It is, as Burke described the penal code, a machine of wise and elaborate contrivance, a complete system, well defined and well composed in all parts, and peculiarly fitted to the end in view, namely the degradation of a people, and directed not against the few but against the many. The Dail Eireann will not dishonor itself by passing it."

Referring to the elections, de Valera says: "The results indeed seem a triumph for imperial methods of pacification, namely outrage, murder and massacre, then a threat with the concession policy of a kick and then with a kick in reserve. Ireland is not free and will never be at rest or genuinely reconciled with England. England's game is for the moment only. England's difficulty will still be prayed for as Ireland's opportunity."

Results in County Cork Still Unknown.

DUBLIN, June 21 (Associated Press).—Ten seats for the new Dail Eireann remain to be filled, two in Kildare and Wicklow, and eight in County Cork; these are not likely to be announced until tomorrow.

It is thought that Waterford and Tipperary returned Cathal Brugha (Charles Burgess), former Minister of Defence, on the third count. The constituency has shown itself to be overwhelmingly pro-treaty, and the two rejected candidates are the most significant in the whole election. Seamus Robinson, active dissentient army leader, was early eliminated; but more remarkable was the defeat of Daniel Breen, who was fighting against the British in 1920 and 1921, and no man was more eagerly sought by military and police. He reached America and wrote home from Chicago after peace negotiations began an uncompromising Republican letter which was published in the press. On his return to Ireland he was identified with the dissentient section of the army, but on the attempt at unification he joined with Michael Collins and Richard Mulcahy in an endeavor to effect it.

When the Collins-de Valera pact arranged for a joint panel, each side picking its own nominees, Breen was the only name on both lists. His defeat, therefore, was due to the average elector refusing to be influenced even by the joint recommendation of Michael Collins and Eamon de Valera.

The Republicans are generally surprised and disappointed over the results, but assert that these were due to the defective register, and they anticipate a more successful fight on the new suffrage, comprising adults of both sexes. Labor's evident opposition to them would appear to negative this hope, but they expect friction over the constitution between the Labor members and the treaty party.

Labor has its own objections to the constitution, and the Republicans will claim the support of labor in the debate on grounds based on the election manifesto of the Laborites. There are, however, sufficient treaty supporters to defeat any possible combination against the constitution.

Elections Bring New Line-Up.

The elections have caused a distinct change in the future prospects of the Irish Government. After the Collins-de Valera compact it was assumed, however numerous the successes of the independent candidates, nothing could prevent the Joint Sinn Feiners from having a majority well over thirty in excess of the newcomers, and the coalition counted on the certain support of any policy on which the leaders agreed.

A majority for the Joint Sinn Fein is not in doubt. If they agreed they would outnumber all the others by forty-four, but the prospects of an agreement are disappearing, and the division of the Dail now seems more likely to follow the essential division between those who support and those who oppose the treaty. On both sides there is pessimism as to the possibility of forming any coalition.

New Ireland, edited by Patrick Little, head of the Republican publicity department, has not yet given up hope; he is of the opinion that all depends on the shelving of the Constitution, but the Republic of Ireland, edited by Erskine Childers, the official organ of the party, fills its issue to be published tomorrow with a detailed analysis of the Constitution, which, it contends, is "a shameful document."

The paper bitterly attacks Michael Collins for "flagrant breach of his compact with de Valera." It reveals that two Free State Deputies violated it in voting for the National University candidates, the ballots being captured by the army dissentients and scrutinized.

On the treaty side there is declared to be no question of shelving the Constitution to please de Valera. The provision of the compact establishing the coalition, with four de Valera men in the Cabinet, is recognised as binding, but it is seen to be impracticable, because under the terms of the Free State Agreement act, all Ministers must in writing accept the treaty. This de Valera and his colleagues refuse to do. The statement is made that there will be only one Ministry, not two as has been suggested.

THREE MORE SLAIN IN ULSTER.

Arrests Are Made by Police of Armagh, Down and Belfast.

BELFAST, June 21.—Two constables belonging to the "B" Specials were shot and killed from ambush last night while on their way to join the patrol on the Armagh-Monaghan border. Another man was shot dead near his residence in Belfast tonight.

A number of Protestant railroad employes residing in Demesne Terrace, Dundalk, underwent a terrible experience early today when their dwellings were attacked with rifle fire. There were women and children in each house. The walls, windows and doors were riddled, but no casualties were caused.

A signal cabin near by was raided for the signal man, but he made his escape.

Constabulary raided several houses in Armagh this morning. They arrested Frank McKee, an auctioneer, who is a nephew of James MacMahon, the Under Secretary for Ireland. Two large Sinn Fein flags were seized.

Special constables made a round-up during the night at Kilkeel, County Down. They arrested numerous persons, including James Morgan, who was serving a ten-year sentence when the truce last year brought about his release.

Maurice Sullivan, member of the White Cross Committee, was arrested in Belfast yesterday. The charge against him was not stated. Six weeks ago, when Sullivan was abroad, his business premises in the Falls Road were raided. Two other members of the White Cross Committee were arrested at that time.

Bitter complaint was voiced in the Ulster Parliament today by border members over continual raids on the railways. They urged the Government to take steps to remedy the situation.

Sir James Craig, the Premier, expressed sympathy with the complaints. He said if the experiment the Government was endeavoring to apply to the Belfast salient proved successful it might be possible to try the same plan on the Donegal border, which now was the centre of the trouble. He hoped, however, that saner counsels would prevail, which would be the cause for rejoicing in the north.

ASSAIL TREATMENT OF LOGUE.

Catholic Bishops Also Condemn Persecution of Minorities.

DUBLIN, June 21 (Associated Press).—The Irish Catholic hierarchy at Maynooth has issued a condemnation of the action of the Ulster constabulary in holding up Cardinal Logue on three occasions. The Bishops declare they deem it their duty to "lay before the Holy Father and the civilized world a faint outline of the barbarities heaped upon the beloved head of the Irish Church."

The hierarchy declares that the deadly effect of partition has been to ruin Ireland, and that the British Government is now backing its "Turkey in Ireland."

The persecution of the minorities in the South also comes in for vigorous condemnation by the Bishops, who urge that the primary duty of a stable Government will be to crush the lawless element. A strong appeal is made for national unity founded on the solid basis of deference to the national will.

Return of Sun's Army to the City Feared—Leader Said to Have Been Captured.

SHANGHAI, June 21 (Associated Press).—Between 10,000 and 15,000 northern forces sent against Sun Yat-sen's army in Kiangsi Province mutinied at Kianfu, burned portions of Kianfu and other near-by cities, and killed thousands of residents, according to unconfirmed but apparently authentic reports from various sources at Hankow and Nanchang. The troops were under command of General Tsai Chen-haun, military commander of Peking.

The rebellious soldiers are reported marching back northward and nearing Changshukl, a city about 100 miles north of Kianfu and 50 miles north of Nanchang.

A dispatch from Hankow says the British gunboat Cockchafer is speeding up the Kan River toward Nanchang to bring out the foreign residents. The American gunboat Monocacy is coaling at Kiukiang and will proceed to Nanchang as soon as possible. The American gunboats Isabel and Quiros and the British gunboats Bee and Foxglove are in readiness at Kiukiang to rush to the disturbed area, if necessary, to protect nationals.

The situation at Canton is quiet but ominous. Messages from adherents of Sun Yat-sen's Southern Government at Canton and Hongkong say Sun has ordered his main force in Kiangsi to abandon the expedition against the North and return to Canton. Dr. Sun, Wu Ting-fang and other leaders of the Canton Government are reported to be still aboard Chinese warships in the neighborhood of Canton, awaiting the return of the Kiangsi army.

If Dr. Sun persists in his determination to regain control of Canton from Chen Chiung-ming, who drove him out last week, the return of these troops may precipitate serious fighting for possession of the city.

The report that Sun's army is to return to Canton was given color tonight by a report from Hankow and the Kiangsi cities of Kiukiang and Nanchang, indicating fighting in Kiangsi Province between the Northern and Southern troops had ceased. The report that the Northern army had mutinied and was returning northward also tended to confirm belief that Sun's forces are returning to his capital.

The protest of the American Consul at Canton against bombardment of the city by Sun's gunboats will, it is believed, insure cessation of his firing on the city.

TIENTSIN, China, June 21 (Associated Press).—General Wu Pei-fu's Twenty-sixth Division, stationed at Hsinho, last night attempted a mutiny which was quelled. A gunboat patrolling the river opposite the division's camp crushed the plot and seized the mutineers' ammunition.

The Twenty-sixth Division has been known generally as an unreliable unit.

Representatives of Chang Tso-lin, defeated War Lord of Manchuria, and Wu Pei-fu, his conqueror, signed an armistice at Chinwangtao today. The negotiations were begun last week aboard a British warship there.

PEKING, June 21 (Associated Press).—Dr. Sun Yat-sen, formerly President of the South, ended republic has been taken prisoner by the United China forces, and is being held captive on the Chinese cruiser Haichi in the West River, near Canton, according to advices received by the Foreign Legation here from Canton.

SLOW STRIKE VOTE ALARMS RAIL UNION

charged in violation of the Transportation act. In a decision on May 9 against "farming out" contracts on the part of the Indiana Harbor Belt Railroad, the board declared point blank that the remaining cases would be decided upon the general principles set forth in the Indiana Harbor Belt finding. The principles enunciated were that such contracts "violate the spirit and purpose of the Transportation act, and in effect set aside the wages decisions of the Railroad Labor Board to which the carrier was a party and which the carrier put into effect."

Thirty additional contract cases during the day were posted for hearing next Monday in conformity with the announcement of the board prior to its last wage-cut decision.

The strike ballot on which the shop crafts are voting contains three issues—the wage cuts, certain rules promulgated by the board, and the contract system under which some of the roads have been "farming out" work in the wood and freight houses and in the maintenance of way department, the contractors in general paying wages below those set by the board. One effect of a decision holding that "farming out" is at variance with the law in the seventeen cases now ready for disposal, it is pointed out, would be to wipe out one of the three grievances on which the shop men are taking a strike vote.

The seventeen "farming out" cases which are now growing in importance as the day for decisions approaches, run mainly against the following roads: New York Central, Erie, Chicago Great Western, Chicago & Northwestern, Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul; Colorado Southern, Great Northern, Missouri, Kansas & Texas; St. Louis, Brownsville & Mexico; St. Louis & San Francisco.

They cover a wide variety of forms of work. In the case of the Chicago & Northwestern, some ordinary track work was farmed out to a contractor. One of the New York Central cases involves the question of piecework in the shops, which the unions declare was forced upon the men by compulsion. In the complaint against the St. Louis, Brownsville & Mexico Railroad, the carrier had engaged a padrone, it was charged, to hire Mexican women to clean the cars at Brownsville on the border.

The biggest fight is over the Erie, which is alleged to have contracted out shop work extensively. One of the shops involved, in Marion, Ohio, was an issue in a recent municipal campaign.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., June 21.—Members of Syracuse Lodge, 1006, Brotherhood of Railway Carmen, met tonight to discuss the threatened rail strike. Following the meeting the last of the strike ballots were forwarded to Chicago. It was learned today that the vote of the five-cuss members of the six shop crafts and of the maintenance of way unions was almost 100 per cent. for a strike. Railway clerks, who are waiting for their ballots to arrive also will vote unanimously to strike, it is predicted.

gus gift of $250,000, which constitutes the initial contribution to the much needed enlarged endowment for the growth and development of the museum. The trustees deeply appreciate not only the intrinsic value of the gift, but especially the generous attitude of the donor in permitting the unrestricted use of the income of this fund—an action which is indicative of his confidence in the administration of the museum and the aims and purposes of the institution. In recognition of Mr. Baker's earlier contributions, the trustees had previously elected him a benefactor, and can therefore merely express their gratitude to him by extending their heartfelt thanks and best wishes for continued good health and happiness.

President Osborn Going to Asia.

The statement issued by the museum continued:

"To the above sums is to be added the amount received from the Eno bequest by which, according to the settlement of the contested will, the museum receives $272,000, of which $200,000 will be added to the endowment fund.

"In thus furthering the scope of the museum's work and the Trustees' policy in its development, our citizens endorse a worthy prospect. In its scientific and research work it stands foremost in the country. As an adjunct to the educational life of New York City, it has received the highest endorsement from the city Administration.

"Only recently Edward C. Moore Jr., who had been a life member of the institution for a number of years, without solicitation forwarded his check for $1,000, expressing the hope that the sum would be invested for the benefit of the museum, and stating that he had long felt that the returns he was receiving from the museum were too much for the sum he had already given.

President Osborn also announced that it was his intention to leave New York on Sept. 16 on an extended trip to China, where he would meet the members of the Third Asiatic Expedition and advise and direct them in their field work. During his absence the affairs and administration of the museum will be represented by an ad interim committee of the Trustees, consisting of Messrs. Childs Frick, William Averell Harriman, George F. Baker Jr. and A. Perry Osborn."

The Great Mongolian Expedition.

The Mongolian expedition, which started last April, is one of the greatest scientific expeditions ever undertaken by any institution. With a great staff of scientists, with camels, automobiles and airplanes, the purpose is to explore from every scientific point of view that part of the world which is believed by many scientists to have been the original home of the human race. Many important discoveries have already been reported by the expedition.

The use of automobiles was expected to speed the march of the expedition at a fourfold rate, although the use of motor-driven vehicles for desert exploration is entirely new.

SOVIET DELEGATES ON WAY TO HAGUE

COMMITTEE HEADS CHOSEN

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

THE HAGUE, June 21.—The Russian delegation to The Hague conference are at Riga today, having left Moscow before receipt of the official notification from The Hague dispatched yesterday morning. A request for visas received by the Dutch Foreign Office shows that the Soviet delegation includes Litvinoff, Krassin and Rakovsky.

In view of the loud proclamations here that this is to be a conference of experts only, one is permitted to ask in what line Rakovsky is an expert except in propaganda. But all three leaders of the Russians are diplomats and politicians, and it must be said that the calibre of the Soviet delegation appears above that of the delegations of other countries represented here.

In the atmosphere of uncertainty, if not indecision, shown so far the prospects for high doings by the Russians is not bright if they pursue any such policy as they followed at Genoa. In fact, all prospects of Hague accomplishment hinge on a change in the Russian attitude. Despite a surface appearance of harmony due to avoidance of basic issues in the preliminary discussions, the countries headed by France which at Genoa stood for respect of private property and against credits to Moscow hold the same position today at The Hague. If the Russians stand where they did at Genoa, there is no chance of agreement.

No one here knows what the Russians will do. Some think they will swing one way and some another. Experts in the same delegations differ. Some argue that Lenin is the most moderate of the Russian leaders and with him out the activity of the Russians will be more extreme. Others believe that the Soviet learned a lesson at Genoa and will be more reasonable at The Hague. There is another faction which believes that a big change is at hand at Moscow and that this change will make it possible to reach arrangements. The English delegates incline to this view, while the French remark that if the chances of the conference's success depend upon a change in the Russian regime the best thing to do is to adjourn and wait for the change. The truth of the matter is no one has any idea what will be done at The Hague meeting or how it will be conducted.

The first meeting with the Russians is scheduled for Monday next.

The leaders of the delegations held a short meeting at the Peace Palace this morning to name the chairman of the different commissions. Outside that no conference work is being done.

Delegates Prepare for Long Stay.

M. Alphand, the chief French expert, who has made a special study of foreign property holdings in Russia, said tonight that Premier Poincaré's original memorandum to England would be the basis of France's negotiations at The Hague, and France was ready to stay here for an indefinite period in an honest attempt to attain some working accord with the representatives of the Soviets.

This hint that France is ready to remain at The Hague for practically a limitless times seems to be borne out by the other delegations, which are making preparations not only to stay all Summer, but all Winter if necessary. Nobody is going to hurry the Russians into decisions, and nobody will permit the Bolsheviki to hurry him. The uncertainties crowding the internal political situation in Russia will doubtless cause the non-Russian experts to proceed with the greatest circumspection.

Information in responsible quarters tonight indicates that France and England have not yet reached a close working understanding on the various technical questions to be discussed with the Russians. Their positions are so far apart that differences may arise between them when the time comes to enter into details with the Bolsheviki.

Committee Presidents Chosen.

THE HAGUE, June 21 (Associated Press).—The selection of the heads of the central commission and the three sub-commissions of the conference was made today. The list follows:

M. Patyn, Holland, President of the Central Commission; M. Cattier of Belgium, Vice President.

M. Alphand of France, Chairman of the Sub-Commission on Debts.

Baron Avezano of Italy, Chairman of the Sub-Commission on Credits.

Spokesmen for the nations forming the Little Entente let it be known that they were not entirely satisfied with the announced decision to have the four presidents form a steering committee for the conference. They voiced their apprehension that the "Big Four" thus created would practically dominate all the negotiations with the Russians. If this proved to be the case, they favored increasing the membership of the steering committee so as to include others besides the heads of the commissions.

LITVINOFF HOPEFUL OF ACCORD AT HAGUE

But Says Soviet Attitude Is Unchanged—Lenin Plans Long Rest in Russia.

RIGA, June 21 (Associated Press).—Offers to reduce Russia's army by half will be made by the Soviet representatives at the proposed conference of delegates representing the States bordering on Russia, provided these neighboring countries agree to do likewise, said Maxim Litvinoff, who is in Riga on his way to The Hague today.

The Soviet had not yet received official replies from Poland, Finland, Esthonia and Latvia, Litvinoff continued, but it had reason to believe all of them would accept and the conference was likely to begin late in June or early in July.

Litvinoff, who is Chairman of the Soviet delegation to The Hague, departed tonight for Holland accompanied by M. Sokolnikov, Assistant Commissar of Finance. Leonid Krassin and M. Rakovsky both have been delayed in Moscow. They intend to start for The Hague next week.

Litvinoff said he was hopeful that an understanding would be reached. This would be possible if the other side was willing to meet the Russian delegates half way and make no attempt at insisting upon a change in the present Soviet régime. The Soviet still stood by its memorandum of May 11.

The principal task confronting the Soviet delegates would be to find a group willing to grant Russia credits. If this problem was solved, a goodly portion of the purposes for which the conference was called would have been accomplished. Litvinoff believed the stumbling block at The Hague, as at Genoa, probably would be France. Unless France had changed her attitude, he declared, it was a foregone conclusion that The Hague meeting would be a failure as far as Russia was concerned.

Regarding Premier Lenin, M. Litvinoff said he was able to be about and was reading and writing a great deal. Litvinoff himself had not seen Lenin, as the Premier had not been to Moscow, but he had read a letter Lenin personally had written during the last few days saying he would continue to rest for several months and would visit various parts of Russia. Litvinoff added that there was no intention on the part of Lenin to visit other countries, as had been reported.

Discussing commercial affairs in Russia, M. Litvinoff says the foreign trade monopoly had been reorganized by the Government, which retained control only of exports and imports. In consequence of this step private concerns and cooperative societies now were allowed to export or import goods at will simply by holding Government permits.

Foreign companies of friendly nations were permitted under the new ruling to establish branches in Russia, to import goods and sell merchandise and to erect warehouses, provided such concerns received Government permits for the transaction of business.

WIRTH TO DEFINE REPARATION POLICY

Is Expected to Tell Reichstag Today That Germany Can Go No Further.

By CYRIL BROWN.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, June 21.—Chancellor Wirth is stated to speak in the Reichstag tomorrow on the reparation problem, and Foreign Minister Rathenau probably will do likewise. The so-called "big day" is awaited with the liveliest interest in political circles, as it inaugurates an important general debate in the Reichstag which is expected measurably to clarify Germany's present position and future course toward reparation.

Cumulative indications are that the Government will sound a "thus-far-and-no-further" keynote anent the reparation problem. In other words, Dr. Wirth and Dr. Rathenau will enunciate the proposition that the Government's "policy of fulfillment" and loyalty has been carried to the limit of the possible.

The Government's new tactics toward the Guarantee Committee reported last night created a deep impression in financial circles this morning. At first accepted as a mere "feeler" or "propaganda," the possibility that Germany might default in the July and August gold payments in an attempt to stabilize the declining mark was taken more seriously on the Boerse and was directly responsible for a sharp stump of the mark from .315 at the opening to .328 at the closing.

The first discussions between the Government and the Guarantee Commission began this afternoon. The question of finance control probably will play the most prominent role both in these discussions and the Reichstag debate.

As a curtain raiser to the big general debate Dr. Rathenau in the Reichstag this afternoon delivered an attack against the League of Nations, though couched in a perfectly polite form. Answering a Centrist and Communist interpellation regarding the conditions in the Saarre he recited half a dozen serious charges against the governing commission's administration of the territory which according to Dr. Rathenau constituted violations of the Versailles Treaty.

"Since the Governmental Commission is responsible to the League of Nations," Dr. Rathenau concluded, "the German Government has repeatedly lodged protests with the League regarding these violations of the Treaty, but so far without result. The League of Nations contents itself with declaring the standpoint of the Governmental Commission justified. Regretfully the German Government cannot help but feel that its notes of protest do not receive the attention they deserve on the part of the League of Nations."

ASSAIL MOSCOW TRIBUNAL.

Belgian and German Socialist Leaders Appeal to All Workmen.

RIGA, June 21 (Associated Press).—Emile Vandervelde of Belgium and Theodor Liebknecht and Kurt Rosenfeld of Germany, who went to Moscow recently to defend the socialist revolutionaries on trial there, arrived in Riga today, returning to their homes.

The Socialist leaders issued a statement saying they desired to inform the world's proletariat that the supreme revolutionary tribunal in Moscow had ignored the Berlin compact of the Third Internationale and that the Berlin compact was not binding. The statement added that the lives of the accused social revolutionaries they had gone to Moscow to defend were endangered.

"We appeal to the workmen of all countries," said the statement, "to lend everybody protest against the punishment by death of the defendants."

The three men left tonight for Berlin.

SOVIET CHIEFS STAGE ANTI-TREASON SHOW

NO DISORDERS IN CROWDS

Spectators Fail to Show Hostility to Red Regime Which Was Evidently Expected.

By WALTER DURANTY.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MOSCOW, June 20.—Blazing red banners, like giant poppies above a field of upturned faces, thunderous music of revolutionary songs chanted by thousands of voices, the bright magenta breeches and blue caps of the special squadron of cavalry holding back the eager crowd with steady pressure, sleek, well-trained ponies—such was the picture of the great demonstration this afternoon in Red Square, outside the walls of the Kremlin, against the Social Revolutionaries who are being tried for high treason.

Although the banners bore such fiery inscriptions as "Death to the Counter-Revolutionary Plotters!" "Down With the Spies of the Entente!" "No Mercy to the Social Revolutionary Traitors, Enemies of the People!" &c., it was not merely a demonstration against the accused, but a commemoration of the death of Volodarsky, one of the high Bolshevist officials in Petrograd, who four years ago today was shot down by a Social Revolutionary assassin in the village of Forefarova, on the outskirts of the former capital.

And the demonstration was something more: It was a warning to Russia and the world that Bolshevism had ceased to be a party and had become a régime—the régime of the ruling Communist organization, independent of and superior to other mere parties in the country. The Social Revolutionaries will be condemned for their attempt to overthrow that régime, as radicals in America were condemned for attempts to overthrow the democratic régime.

Many foreigners here have wondered why this trial, with its farcical incidents, to say nothing of today's demonstration, is being conducted as it is. The answer is that these men were the prime leaders of the Social Revolutionary Party, which at the time of the Bolshevist revolution were numerically far stronger than the Bolsheviki, especially among the peasants, and which, though steadily dwindling in numbers and influence in the past five years, still has its open and secret sympathizers. With their usual political acumen the Soviet leaders have made of the trial and today's demonstration a test as well as a proof of their power.

The Communists throughout Russia are watching the reactions on the peasant masses. In this district, it was whispered, the Social Revolutionary influence was still strong, in that there was a report that the seizure of church property had roused considerable hostility against the Government. What will be the attitude of the people in face of the present situation? What will be done by Moscow's new bourgeoisie?

So far as the Soviet capital is concerned, the reply cannot fail to be reassuring to the Government. True, there is grumbling among the employers of labor that the special holiday increases the difficulty of fulfilling contracts delayed by over-independent workmen and short hours. True, many workers in cooperative enterprises complain that it is already hard enough to make a profit under the heavy taxes, and some declined to close their shops in obedience to the appeal of the official newspapers "to the workers of the proletariat to protest against traitors." But there was no hostility in the faces of the crowd that pressed against the cavalry ponies, eager to hear what Kameneff and Lunacharsky were saying to the Communist and Labor Federation demonstrators packed in the square beneath their blood-red banners. The crowd was just interested in the show, pleased with the extra holiday, gratified by the rolling music, whose chorus it sang under the warm June sun.

Not the least of the Soviet safeguards is that the Russian masses have been treated to such an overdose of politics in the last five years as would have choked any people less fond of talk for talk's sake, less childishly interested in any new thing. But now they weary and want relaxation after the tension of the past years. Once the peasants followed the Social Revolutionary banner because the Social Revolutionaries promised them land. Now that they have it from the Bolsheviki they desire to enjoy its fruits in peace and prosperity. If the Soviets give them that they may shoot a thousand revolutionary leaders, for all the peasants care.

POGROMS REPORTED IN UKRAINE TOWNS

Four Jewish Communities Are Said to Be Wiped Out—Soviet Investigation Promised.

COPENHAGEN, June 21 (Associated Press).—A Helsingfors message to the Berlingste Tidende says that terrible pogroms have been carried out in the Ukraine. The entire Jewish population of four towns is reported to have been massacred.

This report has not been confirmed from other sources.

BERLIN, June 21 (Jewish Telegraphic Agency).—The reports of a fresh series of outbreaks against Jews by White Russian and Ukrainian bandits will be sifted by the Soviet Government. This statement was made today by the Jewish Public Committee, a semi-official Soviet body established here.

Reports of massacres of Jews filtering through from the various sources since the latter part of May have caused Jewish and Russian circles here to become seriously alarmed, and the result was a demand for an official inquiry. A Riga dispatch, which did not give full details, was received recently, telling of the surrounding of the town of Welisch by bandits, with the massacre of scores of Jews. Ruvim Kahan of Marionbude, Government of Tchernigov, is reported to have been killed in an attack with three members of his family. Members of the family of Menasche Slawatin of Sagoria are also said to have been killed.

After the murder of these families, the reports say, ten Jews concealed in the house of Baruch Kossoy were hacked to pieces, the bandits sparing neither women nor children. It is stated that not a Jew survived the massacre at Sagoria.

Twelve persons are reported to have been murdered at Ossipowka, while a whole family was wiped out in the village of Belayevka. A steamer carrying Jewish passengers from Kasatchow on the Dnieper River was stopped, and, according to advices from Riga, all the passengers were murdered.

Late advices confirm previous reports that seven Jewish children were among those killed at Betochna.

PARACHUTE STORY DOUBTED

Experts Call Escape of Three From Plane in "Tail Spin" Improbable.

WICHITA, Kan., June 21.—Local aviation experts expressed doubt tonight that three persons could have escaped death by leaping from an airplane which went into a tail spin at 3,000 feet, as narrated here today by R. H. Norman, professional parachute jumper of Oklahoma City. Norman could not be located tonight.

"In my opinion it would have been impossible for the type of airplane that is supposed to have been used to have left the ground with three passengers, because of the weight," said E. M. Laird, President of a local airplane company.

According to his story told to a local newspaper, Norman, with a pilot and a woman passenger, narrowly escaped death by jumping at a height of about 1,000 feet, parachutes which had been strapped to their bodies before the flight, as an emergency precaution.

The airplane was said to have been virtually demolished, with the exception of the engine. The three were said to have received slight bruises but otherwise were uninjured.

Efforts by a Mulvane (Kan.) newspaper man to locate witnesses to the accident, as well as efforts to find the wrecked plane and survivors, were unsuccessful tonight.

RECORD IN FORD OUTPUT.

Factory Produced 144,469 Cars, Trucks and Tractors in May.

Special to The New York Times.

DETROIT, Mich., June 21.—The Ford Motor Company established a new monthly record in May with the production of 144,469 cars, trucks and tractors in all the plants, domestic and foreign, it was announced today. Production was divided as follows:

Grand total, 144,469.

Ford company officials said that while they have no means of computing exactly what the June production will be, they are confident it will be far in excess of the May output.

PRINCE OF WALES WELCOMED HOME

ROYAL FAMILY AT STATION

So Glad to See His Grandmother That King Has to Remind Him There Are Others to Be Greeted.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, June 21.—England gave the Prince of Wales a royal welcome today. From the moment he stepped off the cruiser Renown at the Plymouth dockyard until he disappeared into his own home in St. James's Palace, cheers rang in his ears and fluttering flags and waving handkerchiefs were before his eyes. It was not only in London and Plymouth that he found crowds awaiting a glimpse of him. All the way across England from Devonshire, at the big stations, in small villages and even at the crossroads in the open country, people gathered to shout to him as his train sped past.

The climax came at Buckingham Palace. It was a perfect Summer afternoon, with bright sunshine and a moderate breeze. Just a sufficient touch of pageantry was given by the King's Guard of Grenadiers in their scarlet uniforms drawn up in the palace courtyard. Only the police held the public in their places. Along the roadway through the ranks of the populace came the glittering escort of Life Guards in burnished steel cuirasses and plumed helmets and behind them in an open carriage was the Prince, sitting beside the King, with his brothers, the Duke of York and Prince Henry, opposite them. Cheers rose in one long, mighty shout; handkerchiefs fluttered and the police were hard put to it to prevent a surge forward of the wildly enthusiastic crowd.

A few minutes' pause and then the cheers broke out again. The Prince had appeared with the King and Queen and Queen Alexandra and Princess Mary and other members of the royal family on the balcony over the central archway of the palace. The Prince bowed his acknowledgments and must have felt that with such a welcome it was indeed good to be home again.

Cheered by Renown Crew.

His day throughout was a happy mixture of ceremonial and personal touches. For eight months he had been aboard one of the finest ships of the British navy and had been in the closest intimacy with her crew, so before his official program began he bade farewell to his shipmates on the Renown. The crew were mustered fore and aft and to them he spoke a few words of thanks for the happy voyage they had had together. Then as he stepped ashore, the crew manned the rail and gave him one more lusty cheer.

The Mayor and other dignitaries of Plymouth, including Lady Astor as one of the members of Parliament for the borough, received the Prince and presented to him an address of welcome. In his reply he touched just the chords to appeal to every Devonian's breast. He spoke of "the wonderful and varied experience" of his eight months' tour, but he added that yesterday when the Renown entered Plymouth Sound it could not but feel the thrill of my homecoming. With such a wonderful West country welcome, I realized that I was home indeed."

A drive of three miles through Plymouth's streets took the Prince to the station and gave thousands from all the country round a chance to see him. Then as his train traveled through some of the fairest counties of England Plymouth's welcome was repeated a hundredfold. As he passed the seaside resorts of Dawlish and Teignmouth bathers ran from the sea to cheer. Exeter platforms were crowded with passengers eager for a glimpse of him. At little villages flags were hung out and bells rung and at all railway places little knots of school children or groups of track workers were to be seen waiting to wave their welcomes.

London, it so chanced, was celebrating "Hospital Saturday," the day on which street collections are made for the hospital fund of which the Prince is chairman. Queen Alexandra always drives through the streets to encourage collectors and every one from Dukes and Cabinet Ministers to errand boys and track workers on street car lines to buy roses to help the hospitals and honor the royal patrons of the fund. The homecoming of the Prince was taken full advantage of by the Collection Committee to swell their funds. To wear a rose was an act of homage to the Prince and London in its enthusiasm bought liberally. For it had been gathering along the Prince's route from Paddington to Buckingham Palace from early in the morning.

Greets the Royal Family.

Inside the station itself every possible point of vantage was seized by railroad employes and the general public. As the train drew in the cheering began and almost before it stopped a slim young man in naval uniform, bronzed by the sun and looking older and more serious than when he went away, stepped quickly out.

Without ceremony he advanced to the King and gripped his hand. Then turning to the Queen he took off his hat and kissed her on both cheeks. Princess Mary with her husband, Viscount Lascelles, were close behind and brother and sister embraced each other tenderly. It was a family greeting of plain, old-fashioned sincerity. A choir of railroad men were singing "God Bless the Prince of Wales," the band was accompanying them with all their power and every man and woman in the station was cheering his loudest, but the Prince seemed to have forgotten everything. His grandmother, Queen Alexandra, was next to be kissed and as they spoke together the King had to step up to the Prince and remind him that at even such moments of meeting there were official duties to perform.

From his own family the Prince turned to the Japanese Ambassador and shook hands with him, and then he passed to the great men of the kingdom—the Prime Minister, the Lord Chancellor, the Archbishop of Canterbury, Earl Haig and a score more. To each he spoke a few words and then he passed out to take his seat in the carriage beside the King to receive for three long miles one terrific roar of welcoming cheers.

Later in the day the King issued the following message:

"The Queen and I are greatly touched at today's remarkable demonstration: our joy in welcoming our dear son was increased by the affection and enthusiasm of his reception from the vast crowds assembled to greet him. He was safely returned from a long and responsible tour, and I am confident that my people share in our humble thanks to God for this happy and memorable day."

WOULD KILL AMERICANS.

Hostile Cuban Newspaper Talks of Extermination.

HAVANA, June 21.—The propaganda of hatred against North Americans which has been directed by the Cuban newspaper La Nacion since the new Cabinet was announced reached the inflammatory stage tonight. Double-page headlines declare "the hatred of North America will be the religion of the Cubans."

In parallel columns is published a story dated Washington and purporting to be from a special correspondent who asserts that military plans have been made by the United States to seize Cuban roads and fortifications.

"The day will have to arrive," says La Nacion, "when we will consider it the most sacred duty of our life to walk along the street and eliminate the first American we encounter, and if at a ball to leave the side of our companion to annihilate the intruder who has for years and years annoyed us."

court and not by statutes. There are, of course, procedure statutes in England; but there is also a system by which the rules followed may be modified by a committee consisting of Justices and Masters, which seems to lead to useful flexibility and expedition.

Besides consulting with English barristers, judges and court officials, Mr. Taft hopes to be able to watch English courts in actual operation, including the House of Lords and the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council, which has a jurisdiction in many ways analogous to that of the United States Supreme Court. He will give his conclusions before the American Bar Association at its meeting in August.

"They have one advantage over here," he said, "in the fact that some of their chief judges, like the Lord Chancellor and the Law Lords, as well as the Attorney and Solicitor General, are members of the Legislature. This helps them in getting legal reforms. But our own American Bar Association does pretty well when it makes representations to Congress, and I hope we shall be able to get whatever reforms we recommend accepted."

Mr. Taft was the guest of the Archbishop of Canterbury at luncheon today. With his host, he participated in the welcome to the Prince of Wales this afternoon.

PRESENTED TO KING GEORGE

Mrs. Beck and Mrs. Hayward Among American Women at Court.

LONDON, June 21 (Associated Press).—The court held in Buckingham Palace tonight was a largely attended and an unusually brilliant function.

King George wore the uniform of a colonel of the Scots Guard. Queen Mary was dressed in a beautiful creation of cream and gold lame velvet, with a train of especially woven English brocade of the same colors, embroidered with diamonds and draped with old Point de Flandres lace. She wore an emerald and diamond coronet and neck ornaments.

The only notable absentees from the royal circle were the Prince of Wales and Princess Mary and Viscount Lascelles. It is hoped they will attend tomorrow's court.

Among the Americans presented tonight by George Harvey, the American Ambassador, and Mrs. Harvey, were Mrs. James M. Beck and Miss Beck, wife and daughter of United States Solicitor General Beck; Mrs. Ollie M. James, Mrs. Ogden Hammond, Mrs. William Hayward, Mrs. S. S. Howland, Mrs. Adrian S. Joline, Mrs. James W. Corrigan, Mrs. Allen McLane, Miss Gertrude Cuthbert, Miss Marcella Chalkley and Miss Nancy Sellers.

Mrs. Harvey wore a gown of blue and gold brocade, trimmed with turquoise and diamante embroidery, and a train of the same brocade lined with gold tissue.

WARD INDICTMENT CHARGED TO ANIMUS

them testified to any statements by the defendant unless such testimony was given by the Sheriff or the District Attorney, whom I have not interviewed on the subject. The persons so interviewed are Lulu Barrows, Amy Mild, Beryl Ward, Frank Cody, Camillus O'Brien, Edward M. Hohman, Lester A. Condon, Robert Jones, Irma Ziegler and Ralph D. Ward.

No Evidence to Sustain Charge.

"The indictment for murder in the first degree was, therefore, found without any evidence to sustain it. The finding of the same can be explained only through a combination of circumstances, all of which operated to the prejudice of the defendant, viz:

"1. Upon information and belief, the Grand Jury was at no time instructed by the Court with reference to this case as to the degree of homicide and voted said indictment almost immediately after completing the hearing of testimony and without any due deliberation or consideration of the legal effect of the above evidence as sufficient to form the basis of an indictment and particularly of an indictment for murder.

"2. Upon information and belief, the foreman of the Grand Jury, one Auckland E. Cordner, who was its most active member, had a bias against the defendant growing out of the fact that said Cordner had been a candidate for the office of Police Commissioner of New Rochelle and had failed of appointment because of the appointment of the defendant, Walter S. Ward, in consequence of which said foreman has displayed from the outset hostility against the defendant, even to the extent of insisting upon witnesses answering questions in the Grand Jury room after the Court and the District Attorney had both declared that the refusal of such witnesses to answer such questions was legally justified, and thereby an atmosphere against the defendant was created through extraneous forces stimulated by resentment against the defendant's wife and brother for standing on their legal rights.

Raders to Newspaper Articles.

"3. Throughout the sittings of the Grand Jury, and for some time prior thereto, the New York City newspapers circulating in the homes of the Grand Jurors had been conducting a front-page campaign to obtain for their news columns an elaboration of the defendant's contention respecting blackmail, and had used the fact of the defendant's misfortune in being involved in these criminal proceedings as a means of pressure upon him to declare more fully the nature of his defense, at the peril of being indicted for failure to do so. Comment was frequently made in the papers on the silence of the defendant and his counsel regarding his defense and the failure of the defendant to appear before the Grand Jury was evidently treated as evidence against him, although it is perfectly apparent from the statements of the evidence taken by the Grand Jury hereto annexed that no case against the defendant for murder in either degree was established by it."

Referring to a specific newspaper report, Mr. Campbell said:

"The statement that the defendant's counsel have refused requests by the District Attorney or Sheriff for information was untrue. No information requested of us by the District Attorney or Sheriff Werner has been refused.

Rights Violated, He Says.

"Referring back to the analysis stated above in this affidavit of the evidence before the Grand Jury from all sources available to the defendant except the minutes themselves, the defendant desires to move to dismiss the indictment on the ground that the same was found in violation of the constitutional rights of the defendant in that there was no evidence to support such an indictment. For the purpose of such a motion the defendant needs a copy of the minutes of the proceedings before the Grand Jury as a record basis for such motion to dismiss, set aside or quash the indictment. The defendant further desires to submit upon such a motion that given, if it should be held that there was any competent evidence sufficient to warrant an indictment of the defendant for homicide, there was no evidence warranting any indictment for murder as there was no evidence of any design and therefore an application of the defendant to be admitted to bail, which application the Court has heretofore refused to consider because of the degree of homicide charged in the indictment, should be entertained by the Court and the defendant admitted to bail.

John E. Mack to Aid Weeks.

When the order is argued before Justice Morschauser this morning, Ward will be represented by Campbell, Ellwood M. Rabenold, John F. Brennan and former Justice Isaac N. Mills. District Attorney Weeks will argue against the right of the defense to inspect the Grand Jury minutes. John E. Mack, who will act as special counsel for Mr. Weeks at the trial, is not expected in White Plains from his Poughkeepsie home before Friday or Saturday.

The May Grand Jury, which was held over into June to consider the Ward case and is still being held over after the indicting Ward, is believed to be waiting to see whether Ward wins his fight to dismiss the indictment. If Justice Morschauser dismisses the indictment, he may then order the case resubmitted to the Grand Jury, in which case a superseding indictment might be expected, based on more evidence than was available when the indictment of June 15 was voted.

District Attorney Weeks and Pinkerton operatives are trying to unearth evidence either to prove that Ward's whole story is false and that the shooting had nothing to do with any blackmail plot, or to discover exactly what were the circumstances of the blackmail and its relation to the shooting.

The Pinkertons have already established beyond any question that Peters could not have arrived in New York until about twelve hours before the three fired by Ward for the shooting, and that he could not have participated in the six week's blackmail Ward said preceded the shooting. They believe that Peters never knew Ward and was never known to Ward before the night of the shooting.

Organized Blackmail Ring Sought.

It was learned last night that District Attorney Weeks had received information originating in an anonymous source that Peters was only a tool in the hands of a highly organized blackmail ring, directed by a "master mind." According to this theory, Ward was being forced to pay money to keep quiet his relations with a woman pawn of the gang, and Peters was simply drawn into the affair through a chance meeting with the conspirators. His part in this theory was to do the "dirty work" in return for a small sum of money—enough to get him back home and a few dollars besides.

A third line on which the investigators are working involves a two-room and bath apartment which Ward sublet in the Pancinias, at 434 West 120th Street, during July, August and September last year, while his wife and children were in Canada. The Pinkertons have found that Ward entertained many women at gay parties in this apartment, and believe that his relations with one or more of these women may have formed the basis for the blackmail plot. Employes of the house have told the detectives that sometimes as many as five women a day visited Ward there. So far the detectives have been unable to identify any of Ward's women visitors.

It was pointed out that Ward went to live in the apartment at the same time he said his connection with the blackmailers began. However, Ward's story is that he began to visit the Empire City race track to play the horses on Oster's information at that time, and that Charley Rose, one of the tipsters, began blackmailing him first over bets on the races, then over his affairs with women, and finally over his father's married life. Racing sheets, such as tipsters use, were found in the 120th Street apartment after Ward left, according to the Pinkertons.

Bootlegger Visited Apartment.

The authorities are investigating to see whether Ward maintained similar apartments in New York during other absences of his wife and family.

The Pinkertons say two men used to visit Ward's apartment. One was apparently a bootlegger, the other seemed to be of Ward's own class socially. This man friend was accompanied by three women on one occasion. Employes of the house said the visitors departed very much under the influence of liquor.

Evidence along these lines, and perhaps others, will be presented to the Grand Jury if a superseding indictment is needed. The Grand Jury met from 10 to 12:30 o'clock yesterday, hearing Dr. O. H. Schell, who attended Ward the time he took iodine; E. H. Stolz, a Sutton Manor neighbor, who played poker in Ward's home until 1:30 A. M. on May 16; Mrs. Alfred J. Hook and Mr. and Mrs. Waldo I. Shuman, neighbors. Their stories have been told in the newspapers. The Grand Jury adjourned until June 26, two days before the end of the June term of court.

The hearings before Justice Morschauser, sitting as a committing magistrate, on the charge that Ward's father, George S. Ward, is guilty of conspiracy to defeat the ends of justice in evading a Grand Jury subpoena by staying out of the State, have been postponed because of the inability to find Ward's mother-in-law, Mrs. N. Willard Curtis. She is wanted as a witness, but is believed to have left the State.

Prosecutor Weeks said the witnesses before the Grand Jury yesterday were not witnesses in the case against Walter S. Ward. He refused to affirm or deny that he intended to ask for the indictment of George S. Ward. Asked if he had heard from the father, he shook his head. George S. Ward was in Cleveland, Ohio, at last reports.

Weeks Not Ready for Trial.

Mr. Weeks said he would not move the case against Walter Ward for trial until he was ready, and that he was not ready yet. He and Sheriff Werner both denied Campbell's statement that Ward's lawyers had not refused to give information to the authorities. According to Weeks, the lawyers' stock reply to questions was, "There's our statement and we stand on that." Mr. Cordner, the foreman of the Grand Jury, criticised by Campbell, refused last night to comment aside from calling the lawyer's charge of bias "ridiculous." Mr. Cordner is a well-to-do insurance agent living in New Rochelle. He is a Democrat.

The Westchester County Republican Committee, meeting yesterday in the Palace Theatre, White Plains, designated District Attorney Weeks for the nomination for that office to succeed himself. Mr. Weeks, who is also Mayor of White Plains, has been District Attorney or Assistant District Attorney for twenty-one years.

Earl P. Hilts, a White Plains lawyer, told the committee that a man was wanted who would not be "stampeded by public clamor or swayed by maudlin sentimentality," and that Weeks filled the bill. William L. Ward, the county Chairman (not related to the baking company Wards), said:

"The Republican organization does not go before the voters in any spirit of apology. All our officeholders have conducted themselves with marked dignity and ability." When Mr. Weeks was informed of his designation, he declined to say whether he would accept. There have been rumors that he wished to retire.

Fundamentals

The Essential Principles of Tenant Ownership of Apartments

THERE is no good reason why the purchaser of a home in an apartment house should not use the same wisdom in making his investment as does the purchaser of an entire building, who expects to sell at a future profit.

Where certain fundamental conditions obtain, and are observed, tenant-ownership of apartments showed greater economy with equal comfort, as compared either with the ownership of a house or the rental of an apartment, and is a sound investment. These fundamental conditions, briefly stated, are as follows:

First—A Fair Price.

Second—Safe Financing.

Third—A Neighborhood of Established, or Increasing Values.

Fourth—Careful Selections of Tenant-Owners so as to Insure Harmonious Relations.

Fifth—Expert Management.

Erected on a firm foundation of Sound Finance, Careful Selection of Tenant-Owners and Good Management, Jackson Heights to-day is the largest co-operatively owned City Apartment section in the World.

SHIP LIQUOR SALES UP TO WASHINGTON

No Enforcement Action Until Department of Justice Rules, Says Haynes.

STARTS ON WESTERN TRIP

Agents Trap Restaurant Owner After Policemen Fail—Fine and Jail for Cafe Owner.

No action will be taken by the Federal Prohibition Department to prevent the sale of liquor beyond the three-mile limit on board vessels of the United States Shipping Board until there has been a ruling on the subject from the Department of Justice, which is expected soon, according to Roy A. Haynes, Federal Prohibition Commissioner, who was here for a few hours yesterday.

The Commissioner was accompanied by E. C. Yellowley, chief of the general prohibition agents of the country. The two left together in the afternoon on a Western trip. While here they conferred with both Ralph A. Day, Federal Prohibition Director for this State, and Zone Chief John D. Appleby, in charge of the general agents of New York State and New Jersey, on several matters pertaining to enforcing the prohibition law in this division.

Commissioner Haynes declined to say what brought him to New York City at this time, but asserted that his visit had nothing to do with the controversy regarding the sale of liquors on steamers which enter American ports. Chief Yellowley was equally reticent, but it is known that the two are making the trip to obtain first-hand information on several important matters under investigation.

Late Tuesday night two Federal prohibition agents, working under the direction of Chief City Agent Chris J. Fortman, matched wits with three policemen of the West 123d Street police station. The Government sleuths won.

Accompanied by two women, Agents Charles Guttman and Harry Drescher entered the Golden Gate Restaurant, 315 West 111th Street, for supper. Three patrolmen in plain clothes entered at about the same time and served a search warrant on Harry Russo, one of the owners. No wine or whisky was found.

Meantime the agents were conversing with the policemen, who assured the agents that they need not be uneasy, that guests would not be disturbed. When the policemen left Russo also chatted with the agents and laughingly remarked that the police would never find his supply, which was stored upstairs.

The agents, resuming their meal, asked for wine, were served and then purchased a quart to take with them, they allege. Revealing their identity, they left summonses for Russo, Antonio Navarra, also a part owner; Ralph Guardrina, head waiter, of 131 East 122d Street, and Theodore Moore, a waiter, of 5 East 116th Street.

The same agents yesterday served a search warrant on James Jordan, owner of a saloon at 781 Columbus Avenue, and said they seized seven quarts of whisky. Summonses were left for Jordan and his bartender, Edward J. Gillen.

James Jones, a café owner of Fourth Street, Brooklyn, was sentenced to thirty days in jail and fined $200 by Federal Judge Chatfield in Brooklyn yesterday after a plea of guilty to a charge of selling whisky. On three previous occasions Jones had pleaded guilty in Federal Court and was fined. The first time he was fined $250 and the second and third times $50 each. Federal agents said they had arrested Jones eight times.

Henry Leflanier, a grocer's clerk, was sentenced to four months in the penitentiary and fined $500 yesterday in the Federal Court, Brooklyn, upon pleading guilty to violating the Volstead act by selling liquor to employes of the Kings County Hospital.

RAPS ANTI-SALOON LEAGUE.

Doctor Says 80 Per Cent. of Profession Considers Whisky a Medicine.

CHICAGO, June 21.—What he termed misrepresentation on the part of the Anti-Saloon League of the attitude of the medical profession toward whisky for use in illness was denounced by Dr. H. N. Stevenson of Baltimore, Md., a Trustee of the American Institute of Homeopathy, in an address before the institute last night.

"The Anti-Saloon League's contention that only 30 per cent. of doctors regard whisky of sufficient value as medicine to secure a permit for prescribing it is downright falsehood," he declared. Thousands of specialists and physicians who work in hospitals have no occasion to use whisky in their practice and thousands more work in States where they are forbidden whisky, he said.

"Subtract this number and you will find the percentage of doctors who do apply for permits to prescribe whisky nearly 90 per cent.," he asserted.

Whisky, he added, is a valuable tonic for aged people or as a remedy for a sudden shock. Most physicians, he added, hope for a time when much of the present "red tape" is eliminated and when they will be trusted enough to prescribe whisky as they would any other medicine.

Excessive use of cosmetics is coming to be a national menace, not only to complexions, but to health as well, Dr. William Lathrop Love of Brooklyn told the convention. Diet, exercise and "oxygen on the hoof," are essential in securing a clear complexion, he said.

Drys' "Evidence" Explodes in Court.

PHILADELPHIA, June 21.—The trial of Jacob Feldman on charges of having violated the prohibition law was delayed today when a bottle of "evidence" held between the knees of A. J. Mitten, Government chemist and star witness for the prosecution, exploded, spraying the courtroom with its contents. Mitten escaped with slight injuries to one of his ears caused by the cork.

WEEKS FAVORS SALE OF WINE AND BEER

sion of the college who died in the World War.

Senator Capper of Kansas, in a dispatch to The Topeka Daily Capital, yesterday declared that Secretary Weeks's resignation might be very properly requested by the President, and that it has long been quite apparent that as a Cabinet officer Mr. Weeks is out of tune with the Administration."

The dispatch dealt particularly with Secretary Weeks's address made in Ohio last week to a graduating class and attacks statements regarding prohibition and the primary laws. "It was a singular time and place and occasion for a high official of the Government to attack popular government generally and the direct primary and the prohibition law in particular," Senator Capper wrote.

FRENCH INVESTIGATOR SAYS DRY LAW FAILS

Ernest Guy Reports to France the United States Is Bound to Return to Wines and Beer.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, June 21.—"Ten years hence the world will thank America for her courageous attempt to grapple with the drink question, because by then she will certainly have discovered the best way to treat the problem," said M. Ernest Guy to THE NEW YORK TIMES today. M. Guy knows America well. His sister is married to Professor Seth Bingham of Columbia University. He was during the war attached to the economic section of the French Mission and has just returned from America after a two months' trip, during which he has been studying prohibition. He was invited by the Marquis de Polignac, Comte de Mun and other great French wine growers to give the result of his observations.

M. Guy said, like most Frenchmen, that he did not believe in prohibition and that the trip had not converted him. The first impression on a Frenchman arriving in the United States today, he declared, was one of profound admiration for a wonderful social experiment. The reasons for action were in his opinion excellent ones. The saloons were a terrible social evil. Indeed, at the risk of displeasing some of his French friends, he declared that if it were a question of choosing between prohibition and the saloons he would undoubtedly accept prohibition. But he was convinced that was not the case and America would inevitably arrive at another solution sooner or later.

This was inevitable, he said, because in attempting to suppress one social evil several fresh social evils were created. It had been stated that prohibition was the cause of the increase in drug habits and the great crime wave in the large cities. However much the advocates of legislation concerning wines, beers and other light drinks might like to jump at this argument, Guy felt bound to say a careful inquiry had proved to him that the growth of these two evils were unconnected with prohibition. He was convinced they were only results of the war. This was shown, he said, by the fact of similar conditions in other countries.

The evils he said he had seen in prohibition did not be that way. What shocked a Frenchman, he said, was the fact that Americans, who hitherto were noted as most law-abiding people in the world had now become habitual and flagrant lawbreakers. Everywhere was violation of the law. "In great cities you could drink anything," he said. In Washington itself one can obtain every conceivable kind of cocktail. Such conditions must surely undermine both private and civic morality in the whole country. It is also shocking and immoral to find bootleggers today, comparatively speaking, earning more money than anybody else in the whole country.

But what perhaps most of all shocked a democratically minded Frenchman was the inequality created, owing to the fact that the rich inevitably follow their desires and tastes against the poor and that in a free country one half of the population was violently forcing the other half to accept its opinions.

"Prohibition is anti-democratic and for that reason alone I predict the legislators, whether they like it or not, will be forced to take action, and because it is practically impossible to establish machinery to enforce the law in a country with a vast frontier, or put a stop to home brewing, that action will undoubtedly take the form of modifying the present total prohibition laws."

Mr. Guy believed the solution would, therefore, be to allow wines and beers. The position had been wrong from the start. The real enemy, he said, was whisky. The best way to fight that enemy, he declared, is to teach people to drink rational healthy drinks like in France.

"Develop a taste for wine and you will lessen the taste for whisky," he said. "What little drunkenness found in France is in the districts where the least wine is drunk. The only tangible result of total prohibition has been to develop whisky-drinking as against wine and beer. A three years' trial has shown that."

GIRL ROBBED IN LUNCHROOM

Twenty diners were in the Western Lunchroom at 548 Atlantic Avenue, opposite the Atlantic Avenue Station, Brooklyn, shortly before 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon when Miss Leah Soblow, 19 years old, the cashier, who lives at 289 Kosciusko Street, ran to the street and shouted that a hold-up man had just taken $80 from her. Two traffic policemen fifty feet away and four other policemen on near-by posts gathered about the young woman, but could find nobody who had seen the hold-up man or any information that would lead to an arrest. Then they summoned detectives from the Bergen Street Station.

Miss Soblow said she was counting the day's receipts when a young man, wearing a dark suit, and carrying a raincoat on his arm, arose from a near-by table and as he presented a check for fifteen cents made a threatening gesture to his hip pocket and said: "Don't make a noise, and hand over that money."

She had read so much about hold-ups, she said, that she became frightened and immediately passed the money to the man, who hurried out of the place before she could raise an alarm.

concessions, and said the whole scheme had been examined in the most critical spirit by the experts of the Colonial Office. They were quite unanimous that the terms and character of the undertakings were such that no better contract could have been obtained. There was nothing in the nature of undue favoritism in it, and if it could be carried into effect it would give economic advantages to Palestine which could be obtained in no other manner.

In replying to the charge that Britain had been unjust to the Arab forces, Lord Balfour pointed to the fact that it had been mainly through the British that the Arab race had been freed from Turkish rule. The policy of the allied powers had been and would continue to be most helpful to the Arab population.

Finally, after quoting Lord Islington's declaration that he had no feeling against the Jews, Lord Balfour said that he on his part had no prejudice in their favor. He submitted that this was a partial solution of the great Jewish problem and he concluded:

"We are giving the Jews something of a local habitation and a home where they may develop in peace and quiet under British rule those gifts which hitherto they have been compelled from the very nature of the case to bring to fruition in countries which knew not their language and belong not to their race."

This eloquent claim did not placate Lord Islington and his friends. Lord Sydenham proved himself an advocate of Turkish rule. Lord Lamington and Lord Buckmaster from different points of view demanded greater consideration for the Arabs.

The Government whips did not appear to have made any special efforts to obtain a majority. When Lord Islington challenged on his motion, therefore, he gained an easy victory. It was a blow for the League of Nations.

LONDON, June 21 (Associated Press).—The defeat in the House of Lords is not expected to involve the resignation of the British Government, but it is considered as damaging to the Government's political credit, coming, as it does, after similar incidents in both houses of Parliament. It probably will have some influence, however, on the Government's subsequent policy.

Something may develop tomorrow in the House of Commons when Sir William Joynson-Hicks, Unionist, raises debate on the question of the concession to Pinçus Rutenberg for harnessing the Jordan River, and Secretary for the Colonies Churchill is expected to make an important statement.

EPICURES

"Serenely full, the epicure would say: 'Fate cannot harm me, I have dined today.'"

Thus ends Sydney Smith's beautifully poetic and glowingly laudatory description of a salad.

"Serenely full"—what could better describe the feelings of a multitude of present-day epicures,

Lettuce and tomatoes, or lettuce and egg, salad with marguerites dressing.

EVEN MARCONI AWED BY FUTURE OF RADIO

Predicts Best Equipment of Today Will Be Obsolete in 10 Years at Most.

VIEWS SCENE OF TRIUMPH

Inspects New Brunswick Station, Which Sent First Trade Message to Europe.

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., June 21.—Guglielmo Marconi spent several hours today inspecting the rebuilt cross-Atlantic transmitting station of the Radio Corporation of America at New Brunswick and, standing amid new equipment which cost more than $500,000, predicted that the advancement of wireless science in the next few years would be so rapid that the immense new sets of apparatus would be obsolete in a few years. He placed ten years as the maximum of usefulness for a costly plant which embodies now all the latest experience in radio communication.

Only ten years ago Marconi selected the site for the New Brunswick station as a unit for the Marconi Wireless Telegraph Company, and the advancement of the science has been so rapid since then that the station virtually has been rebuilt nearly three times at a total cost of nearly $3,000,000. First it was a spark-transmitting set and the thunder of the sending apparatus could be heard for miles. Then a second transformer apparatus was used and finally Dr. Alexanderson, the chief engineer of the Radio Corporation and formerly of the General Electric Company, invented a new alternator and the plant became obsolete almost over night.

Members of Marconi's party pointed out today that when the New Brunswick plant was constructed with a spark set it represented the last word in radio development, but now there is only one large spark set in existence. Norway, Italy, Japan, the United States and all other countries have scrapped the expensive spark sets, 50 kilowatt and 200 kilowatt transformers, and now have the alternators contrived by Dr. Alexanderson.

The wireless wizard pointed out that since 1912, when the New Brunswick station was projected, the wireless had been speeded up from eight to ten times.

Development Beyond Imagination.

With the development of the last ten years in mind and the thought that radio communication is still in infancy, Marconi thinks that it is beyond the power of the mind to picture what man will be doing with the thunderbolts in radio even ten years from now, to say nothing of a century hence. But in all this there is not a word about communication with Mars, except the humorous remark of an engineer of the Radio Corporation that the first message to Mars will be a Mars-conigram.

He said he believed that one of the greatest steps in advancement might be taken in the further development of the electron tube providing a wireless transmitting station with great seas of power to force its message through the ether, despite static and all the vagaries of electric waves, when loosed from a wireless set with the speed of a sunbeam.

"A very great impulse has been given to radio telegraphy and telephony by the discovery and utilization of the oscillating electron tube or triode valve, based on the observations and discoveries of Edison, Fleming, De Forest, Meissner in Germany, Langmuir and Armstrong in America, and H. W. Round in England, who have also brought it to a practical form as a most reliable generator of continuous electric waves.

"As the electron tube, or triode valve, as it is now generally called in England, is able, not only to act as a detector, but also to generate oscillations, it has supplied us with an arrangement which is fundamentally similar for both transmitter and receiver, providing us also by a simple and practical method with the means for obtaining best reception and an almost unlimited magnification of the strength of signals.

Regulating the Frequency.

"A result of the introduction of the triode valve has been that the basic inventions which made long distance radio telegraphy possible have become more and more valuable.

"Aside from the question of efficiency, great attention has been paid to maintaining an extremely constant frequency, and this can now be guaranteed to an extraordinary degree of constancy. Simple and reliable methods of high speed keying have been developed which, on the shorter waves, can be used up to over 200 words a minute and on the longer waves to whatever speed the aerial constants will permit.

"In high speed transmission we are maintaining public service at 100 words a minute to Paris and Berne, using a single aerial transmitter with two wave lengths on the same aerial. These two waves are working duplex to both Paris and Berne and practically all traffic is taken on printing machinery, although there are times when, because of static, reception has to be done on undulator tape and, in some rare cases, on the telephones, by sound."

Sight of the old plant stirred Marconi's memories of his early triumphs in the radio field and he became both reminiscent and prophetic, for the New Brunswick plant was the first to transmit commercial messages across the Atlantic from the United States. He told of the early battles to force an electrical wave to carry the human word across the ocean with the speed of a ray of sunlight, and then turned to the future.

He believes that the great field of the wireless now undeveloped is that of the short wave, for use in transmitting code messages, and the human voice across short distances on land or between land and sea, or between ships at sea.

Expects America to Do Much.

He looks to America to aid in the development of this field, in which his engineers already are experimenting. Marconi said that his first experiments were with the short wave, but he ceased his experiment with them about twenty-five years ago, because the demand for the safety of human life at sea made it desirable to develop a long wave radio apparatus which could be used for broadcasting at sea and for the flashing of the S O S call by stricken ships. It was due largely to his experiments that the Titanic and other sinking ships were able to call help.

Now he and his engineers are turning again to the short wave for the same purpose of saving life at sea. He has devised the "radio searchlight apparatus," which projects a beam of radio waves toward a desired point and may even cause them to rebound from another ship or dangerous obstruction in the path of the sending ship, and the steamship Pharos is now at sea off the English coast experimenting with the sending of these beams to each other ships at sea, and their automatic return.

He said that only the investigations of scientists could show the commercial value of the short radio waves, ranging from one meter to fifty in length, but Marconi by his "searchlight method" has hurled them 100 miles in a desired direction. Possibly they could be used to great advantage in both wireless telegraphy and telephony, he said, without "jamming" other apparatus on the long meter waves.

Marconi was escorted around the plant by the resident engineers there, and T. E. Keech and C. H. Taylor, assistant chief engineers for the Radio Corporation. He and Lady Marconi are accompanied on their inspection trip by the two engineers and J. W. Elwood, Secretary of the Radio Corporation, as well as by Major A. G. Mathieu, Marconi's chief radio engineer on his yacht Elettra; Commandante Laura of the Italian Navy, who commands the yacht, and others of his personal staff. Tomorrow the party will visit the old German station at Tuckerton, N. J., where engineers of the Radio Corporation have experiments in progress.

REMARKABLE SALE OF

Warm Weather Frocks for Women

At prices that are made possible only through extensive purchases and intensive preparation. In every case the values are without parallel.

At 10.95

Delightful Frocks of Tissue Gingham Voile—a woven fabric that is not often obtainable in frocks at this price—made with fagotting insertion and white voile trimming on pockets, front and cuffs. In green, blue, orchid and tan. Sizes 34 to 44.

Also frocks of navy blue or black voile, with tiny polka dots of color—in overdress model with side drapery, and dainty collar of embroidered net. Sizes 34 to 46.

Frocks of Natural Shantung Pongee—a serviceable fabric for Summer, since it launders beautifully and keeps one cool. And the idea that it must be laundered is carried out in the simplicity of the model, with detachable panels buttoned on the sides with pearl buttons. Hemstitching is the only other adornment. Sizes 34 to 42.

Frocks of crepe de Chine with enough hemstitching to make any other trimming unnecessary. Cascade flanges on each side add grace and length, and fall almost to the ground. In white, black, navy and orchid. Sizes 34 to 42.

Frocks of Foulard Silk—as cool as a breeze, and exceedingly practical. Made with cascade draperies on the sides, and a profusion of tucks and roses. In blue with tan figures or red ones—in black with white. Sizes 34 to 42.

Crepe de Chine Afternoon Frocks that are as dainty as a Summer frock can be—which is saying a good deal. Much fagotting is used to permit breezes to enter, and narrow self flying panels not only give lengthened lines, but a touch of vivacity. In navy, black, white and gray. Sizes 34 to 44.

Georgette Crepe Frocks over twill foulard—one of the most engaging models of the season. The Georgette crepe is pleated, and falls in panels over the foulard. In navy and white, as well as black and white. Sizes 36 to 44.

YALE BESTOWS ACADEMIC HONORS

PARTY DOCTOR OF SCIENCE

SMALLER CLASS GRADUATED

Dr. Hadley Returns to Receive an Ovation—Pleads for a New Interest in World Affairs.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, June 21.—Yale's 221st commencement exercises were held today, when 570 degrees were conferred by President James Rowland Angell. Gifts amounting to nearly $5,500,000 were announced, John T. Blossom of Cleveland, a former baseball captain, was named as the new athletic director, and at the annual alumni banquet Sir Robert Alexander Falconer, President of the University of Toronto, and former President Arthur T. Hadley of Yale voiced American's outlook as one of international rather than national scope.

Yale's award of honorary degrees included Sir Robert Falconer as a tribute to the largest Canadian university as well as Yale's international viewpoint, and Russell H. Chittenden, long Director of the Sheffield Scientific School, whom President Angell referred to as oneof the greatest scholars of the age. These two received the degree of Doctor of Laws. That President Harding was not on the platform to receive a similar honor was due to his inability to leave Washington.

Yale paid a tribute to letters in its award of a degree of Doctor of Letters to Edwin Arlington Robinson, poet and playwright. Its tribute to the Church included the degree of Doctor of Divinity to the Rev. Dr. Willard Learoy Sperry of Boston and Murray Shipley Howard of Buffalo.

It honored science in its award of the degree of Doctor of Science to John Campbell Merriam, President of the Carnegie Institute of Washington, and John Joseph Carty of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company.

The award of the degree for achievement, termed Master of Arts, embraced 24 recipients Francis P. Garvan of New York, Alien Property Custodian during the war and Dean of the Fordham Law School; Lloyd Warren, architect and artist; Charles Joseph Bennett, road-builder of Connecticut; Fu-chen Yen, Medical Director of the Yale College in China; Adolph S. Ochs, publisher of The New York Times; Clifford Whittingham Beers, founder of the National Society of Mental Hygiene, and Mary Adelaide Nutting, pioneer and international organizer of nursing and social science service.

Award of Honorary Degrees.

Professor William Lyon Phelps presented the candidates for honorary degrees. Of Sir Robert Falconer, he said:

"One of his books is called 'Idealism in National Character,' which would be an appropriate title for his biography. He has received honorary degrees from almost every important university except Yale, so that today's ceremony is in the nature of a climax."

Of John Joseph Carty, he said:

"A high authority states that his original researches published in 1880 demonstrate the preponderating effect of electrostatic induction in producing cross-talk on adjacent telephone circuits. Cross-talk in presumably used only in a technical sense. He invented the method of common battery work now in general use throughout the world. The bridging telephone was designed by him; this forms the basis of all farmers' party-lines, thus adding social knowledge and delight to the existence of farmers' wives. He is a leader in the movement to encourage research in pure science at the universities."

The degree of Doctor of Science was conferred on John Campbell Merriam, as "a leading authority in fossil reptiles and fossil mammals of Western North America and of general historical geology of the Pacific Coast region."

Edward Arlington Robinson was presented with the tribute:

"In an age of self-advertising, where many prefer notoriety to obscurity and would rather draw attention by any means than remain unknown, Mr. Robinson has invariably permitted his poems to speak for themselves. He has won fame not by discords, but by singing in tone better than any one else. The result must be almost as gratifying to him as it is to all judicious lovers of literature. He is generally regarded today as America's foremost living poet."

Introducing Mr. Garvan at the head of the group receiving the Master of Arts degree, Professor Phelps praised him as a "first-rate citizen, and in the war a first-rate patriot."

Of Lloyd Warren he said: "Few in this country have done more for education in the fine arts, and particularly in architecture."

Charles Joseph Bennett, Professor Phelps said, "has built admirable roads under difficult conditions, and has given the State full value for money expended."

Fu Chun-yen was "a devout Christian gentleman who had devoted his life to improving the health of China."

Presenting Adolph S. Ochs, Professor Phelps said:

"In 1896 he bought THE NEW YORK TIMES, which seemed to others at that time not a bold speculation. The contrast between its condition when he bought it and its condition today is one measure of its owner's ability. As a collector of the news of the world THE NEW YORK TIMES is in the front rank of journalism. It has all the news that is fit to print, and seems able to maintain its huge circulation without carnival, humorous columns or special features. Those who take THE TIMES take it because they find it an indispensable part of the breakfast table."

President Angell in conferring the degree on Mr. Ochs said:

"In recognition of the service rendered the nation by great journalism, which strives to print the truth and to enrich with insight, intelligence and impartiality, and for your achievement as a representative of such journalism in the upbuilding of a great newspaper, gaining wide public confidence, we confer upon you the degree of Master of Arts and admit you to all its rights and privileges."

Clifford Whittingham Beers was honored for having "labored incessantly in the cause of mental hygiene."

The only woman to receive the Master's degree, Mary Adelaide Nutting, was presented as an authority on nursing, whose "devotion, courage, faith, skill and magnificent perseverence have made her one of the most useful women in the world."

Yale's total of 570 degrees is nearly 100 smaller than the usual number, because of the extension of the course in the Sheffield Scientific School from three to four years, thus creating a break between the courses, the present class of only about seventy-five is composed of a sophomore class when the course was increased to four years in length. Only 202 graduates from the academic department and seventy-seven from the Sheffield Scientific School today received degrees.

Yale's record-breaking year of financial gifts, it was explained by President Angell at the alumni banquet this afternoon, included a $3,000,000 donation from the Harkness Estate last year, on condition that Yale itself secure $2,000,000 more. This has been done. Announcement of $400,000 for the Medical School the last year evoked enthusiasm. President Angell stated that today he had received a pledge of another $100,000 anonymously, to be devoted to the Lauder Foundation.

The re-election of Otto T. Bannard of New York and of Chief Justice William Howard Taft as members of the University Corporation was announced at the dinner. There was practically no contest over the re-election of Mr. Bannard, who received more than 5,000 votes to succeed himself. Justice Taft, who resigned from the corporation to be a professor of law at Yale ten years ago, received 2,020 votes; Alfred Lawrence Aiken of Boston, 1,837; William Wallace Attarbury of Philadelphia, 980; Henry Wade Rogers, 248; John Hampton Barnes, 175, and Judge John Lee Gilson of New Haven, 147.

Hadley Pleads for World Consciousness.

Ex-President Hadley's reception by the alumni was an ovation and his plea for the efforts of Yale to be thrown into the scales for better international understanding which would have the effect and authority of a definite League of Nations, evoked applause.

Dr. Hadley's tribute to the classes of Yale who have poured out their life and treasure in the World War added a patriotic touch to the reunion of the graduates. Dr. Hadley said:

"These classes should have been in the front seats at our commencement when you alumni were at the front five years ago. The centre of interest was then not the exercises of commencement, but the artillery school. We of Yale felt rejoiced that our undergraduates had shown that they could meet the test of their country's call. How well Yale men met it is a matter of history. Our recollection of the sons of Yale who paid the price is still in the foreground of our mind whenever we recall the World War.

"There is a larger, instead of a smaller, world of problems today. Yale men need less specific training for them, yet they are more complex and place a heavier burden upon the young men of the present.

"We see clearly that our entrance into world and European problems was not a transient, but a realization that Yale must take its place in helping to settle world problems. The size of the world we live in is smaller today. We think of Germany and France not as places remote, but of spots where we are, where we have been, and with which we are going to be in contact. The Yale graduate of today must think in world terms. He must take his American geography and history simply as a part of the world. The man who is to lead us in the future must think in terms of the civilized universe. We must learn the psychology of the men of all nations.

"President Falconer said that he and his fellow-Canadians understood the people of the United States better than any one else understood them because of their close blood relationship, that the two great republics of North America had no ferocious designs on each other or on any one else and that Canada and the United States standing together for the common civilization was a colossal world force.

"Our common literature," said Sir Robert, "is of great genius and purpose in which sympathy for the common man is expressed widely. Love for justice and conception of liberty under the law is our common heritage. We who speak the English tongue are turned toward these ideals. Unconsciously we drift together. Our friendship should lead us to a new world at which no nation may take dread. We turn by instinct to our mutual motherland, and we of Canada feel that perhaps we can interpret the life of England a little better to you than perhaps you can yourself. We hope that we may avert misunderstandings in the future, should they arise, and that together we may resent and defend any aggression against the common civilization which we have inherited."

APATHY A MENACE, DR. FARRAND WARNS

Cornell's New President Urges Graduates to Play Live Parts as Citizens.

Special to The New York Times.

ITHACA, N. Y., June 21.—"Cornell's last message to you as you graduate is: Play your part as citizens of the Commonwealth, give of your services freely, devotedly and unselfishly, and so order your lives as to inspire these less privileged than yourselves to act in such a way that the democracy shall live," were the parting words to Cornell graduates of Dr. Livingston Farrand in his first commencement address since becoming President of the university.

There were 327 seniors and winners of advanced degrees at the fifty-fourth commencement this morning.

The greatest national menace, Dr. Farrand said, was apathy and complacency toward public affairs. The worst indictment against America was, first, the ignorance, and, second, the indifference with which the average American carried his local citizenship.

Commencement exercises were preceded by a parade of the graduating class and candidates for advanced degrees across the university campus. Rain fell, but did little to mar the effect of the brilliant picture.

Colonel J. C. Nichols, U. S. A., commander of the Cornell Reserve Officers' Training Corps, presented the names of fifty-two seniors commissioned Second Lieutenants in the United States Army Officers' Reserve Corps.

Besides the diplomas, Cornell conferred twelve war alumnus certificates on students who left college to go into national service and could not finish their regular courses.

Alumni reunions and festivities brought more than 1,200 alumni back to their alma mater, including 35 of the Class of 1872, which observed its fiftieth reunion. Among the latter were David Starr Jordan, Major Lewis Livingston Seaman, Garrett P. Servias and John De Witt Warner, who was elected President of the class.

S. Wiley Wakeman, shipbuilder, of Quincy, Mass., and William Metcalf Jr., lawyer of Pittsburgh, were elected alumni members of the Board of Trustees.

BROWN HONORS GEDDES.

Kerensky Governor of Finland Also Receives Honorary LL. D.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., June 21.—Sir Auckland Campbell Geddes, British Ambassador to the United States, received the honorary degree of Doctor of Laws at the 154th commencement of Brown University today. Other honorary degrees conferred were:

Doctor of Laws—Baron Serge A. Korff, Assistant Governor General of Finland under the Kerensky Government and now Professor of Political Science and History in the Foreign Service School of Georgetown University.

Doctor of Divinity—The Rev. Frederick Lent, President of Elmira College, Elmira, N. Y., and the Rev. Augustus Phineas Record, Unitarian clergyman of Detroit.

Master of Arts—Harry Westcott Rockwell, Principal of the Buffalo (N. Y.) State Normal School, and Colonel Charles Warren Abbott, U. S. A., Adjutant General of the State of Rhode Island.

Degrees in course were given to 225 students, of whom 49 were students at the Women's College. Forty-five advanced degrees were awarded.

JUSTICE HOLMES GETS LL. D.

Amherst College Confers Honorary Degree on Him in Absentia.

AMHERST, Mass., June 21.—Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes of the United States Supreme Court received today in absentia the honorary degree of Doctor of Laws from Amherst College. Other honorary degrees were conferred as follows:

Doctor of Science—Dr. Walter W. Palmer of New York City, head of the new Medical School at Columbia University.

POOR PARIS STUDENTS FACING STARVATION

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, June 21.—The economic situation among the students of the University of Paris has become so acute that three Municipal Councillors today appealed to the Prefecture to aid the struggling undergraduates by turning an unused municipally owned building into free lodging quarters for students.

The need of prompt action to prevent thousands of young Frenchmen from being robbed of an education and a chance in life is shown by statistics. Whereas in 1913 the university had a population of 17,300, today it has only 10,600. Students of foreign origin are particularly hard hit by the post-war conditions. The enrollment of these students has fallen from 3,200 in 1913 to 1,700 in 1921.

"Our students of humble purses are literally dying of hunger and one after another are forced to quit the fight for education," the Councillors declare.

It is certain, if immediate steps are not taken by the city and State to aid the students, that this Autumn the university will suffer further depopulation and the situation among the poor but aspiring youth of the nation will be deplorable.

"Parents today cannot afford to give students sufficient sums to make up the difference in the cost of living," the President of the Student Association points out.

Formerly a student could live happily on 100 francs per month. He could get a complete pension for from 60 to 80 francs a month. Now the poorest room costs that sum, and meals double that amount. Whereas formerly a family could make economies that would permit it to support a son in Paris, now it is impossible."

The situation is so obvious even to foreigners. There is no more to be seen in Paris the student life once famous in song and story. The gayety that marked all the tiny restaurants of the left bank of the Seine no longer exists. The blue student cap is almost as rare as a bishop's mitre. The Paris student has been made far more sober by the results of the war than by the war itself. Instead of enjoying his spare moments he is "grinding" to complete his studies before poverty forces him to stop them.

DEMOCRATS ACCEPT SUBSIDY CHALLENGE

clined to call it into extra session immediately.

Representative Byrnes was ironical at the expense of President Harding when he began his attack upon the President's letter in the House today.

"The gentlemen who are in charge of the legislative program of the House," he said, "have evidently convinced the President that really, as a matter of fact, this bill is not of such great importance as he thought it and that it is of more importance that they return to their homes. I am satisfied that the President will have to do more than he has done in that letter before he can cause such a change on the part of the people of this country as will reverse the attitude of the members of the House on the ship subsidy question.

"I know that some gentlemen believe that, because they voted for $1,715,000 as an advertising fund for the Shipping Board, through the wise and discreet administration of that fund there would be a sufficient sentiment created for this Ship Subsidy bill as will enable them to get by. But when they return to their homes soon I hope they will explain to their people whether or not they knew when they voted $1,715,000 that the Shipping Board under the direction of the gentleman who is influencing the attitude of the President, Mr. Lasker, was going to spend that fund in advertising in foreign newspapers that alcoholic liquors were for sale, while failing to do so in the newspapers of the United States."

Mr. Byrnes declared that the bill, as it stood, would grant a subsidy to the United States Steel Corporation as well as the Standard Oil Company: "I want to ask the farmers," he said, "if they want to pay a subsidy to the United States Steel Corporation and the Standard Oil Company, using their own bottoms, guaranteeing them against loss in carrying on their own business, and I ask what the farmers have lost in the last few years. Who guaranteed them in their wheat and their corn and their cotton and their other agricultural products?"

Representative Mondell said President Harding's letter was "fine, clear, logical and convincing." He expressed surprise that it had "struck so deep or so seriously into the peace of mind on the Democratic side as it seems to have done." He went on:

"We are, all of us, responsible for the great fleet of merchant ships we have because, following our patriotic impulses during the war, we did what the Administration asked to have done in the way of appropriation and authorization. But you gentlemen and the Democrats are responsible for the awful waste and extravagance, the perfectly indefensible condition under which that fleet was created. And the least that you could do in common decency would be to join with us on some plan and in some purpose for taking care of, and making useful to the people the great fleet so built while your party was in power."

Representative Garrett asked Mr. Mondell if he could name a specific case of criminality in the Shipping Board under the Wilson Administration.

"I was not talking about prosecution," Mr. Mondell said. "I was talking about willful, wicked waste, most of it carried on under orders of the Administration, and, therefore, not punishable as a crime."

Representative Mann said that when the United States entered the World War, its greatest problem was one of ocean transportation. "Now," he continued, "the greatest problem which today is before the American people is the shipping problem, the question whether we shall abandon our merchant marine, or attempt to maintain an American merchant marine, and if so, how and upon what terms.

"Let us try to approach this subject as statesmen. All we can expect from the other side of the House is that they will be constantly searching for and trying to point out fly specks. That is the only service they render. We have the responsibility. Let us attend to it."

TWO INCOMES HERE ABOVE $5,000,000

A report made public yesterday by Collector of Internal Revenue Bowers shows that in 1920 nineteen persons in this State had incomes of $1,000,000 or more. There were only two persons who had incomes exceeding $5,000,000.

The following table shows the number of income tax returns of each class filed in New York State for 1920:

The report made public yesterday showed that the number filed was 1,047,634, representing net income amounting to $4,030,623,696 and a tax of $286,807,280. As compared with 1919 the figures given show a growth of 364,549 in returns filed, as well as an increase in total net income amounting to $504,280,517, but a decrease in the tax of $113,185,071.

The proportion of the population of the United States who filed personal income tax returns for the calendar year ended Dec. 31, 1920, was 6.85 per cent., whereas the proportion of the population of New York filing returns was 10.00. The average net income per return for the United States was $3,269.40, whereas for New York it was $3,847.34.

Payments on June instalments of the Federal income tax in the Manhattan district totaled $54,500,000 up to yesterday, when practically all of the payments due had been received. The receipts were only 36 per cent. less than those of June, 1921, when $84,000,000 was paid.

Federal taxes on capital stock for domestic corporations are due during July at the offices of Collectors of Internal Revenue. Corporations in the Manhattan district have received return blanks. The returns must be filed on or before July 31 to escape penalty, but, if on account of illness or absence of the officer charged with making the returns, the Collector may allow an extension of not more than thirty days.

The capital stock tax is an excise tax payable in advance for the privilege of doing business from July 1, 1922, to June 30, 1923. Every domestic corporation is required to pay an amount equivalent to $1 for each $1,000 of so much of the fair average value of its capital stock for the preceding year ended June 30 as is in excess of $5,000. For the purpose of the tax the fair value of the entire capital stock as a going concern is required. The book value, the kind of assets, the nature of the business, good-will, franchises, earning capacity, &c., are factors that are considered in arriving at the fair value.

The tax has been in effect since the income and excess profits tax first was imposed. Recently the receipts in the Manhattan district from the capital stock tax have reached about $20,000,000.

COMMUNISTS LOSE APPEAL.

Lloyd and 18 Others Must Go to Jail, Illinois Supreme Court Decides.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., June 21 (Associated Press).—The Supreme Court of Illinois today affirmed the judgment of the Criminal Court of Cook County which sentenced William Bross Lloyd, reputed to be wealthy and eighteen of thirty-nine other Communists to imprisonment for alleged attempts to overthrow the Government.

"Communists are a menace," the court declared.

146 Radcliffe Girls Take Degrees.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., June 21.—President Le Baron Russell Briggs conferred the Bachelor of Arts degree on 110 young women at the Radcliffe College commencement today. Thirty Master of Arts degrees were awarded and six women were made Doctors of Philosophy.

You Can Investigate

If you will only stop to think it will occur to you that you have never heard other than good of the Hupmobile. Your automobile investment should be analyzed on two main points.

First—the very highest type of transportation best suited to your requirements.

Second—the amount of your first investment and the known value of your investment in one, two or three years.

Such an investigation will easily bring out Hupmobile quality as we know it to be.

DR. FUNK IN SEARCH OF SIXTH VITAMIN

EXPLAINS RESEARCH WORK

Fifth Chemical Factor Found at Johns Hopkins — List Now Runs From A to E.

Dr. Casimir Funk, who ten years ago discovered the mysterious, unidentified chemical factors necessary to life for which he invented the name of vitamins, explained yesterday his discovery of Vitamin D. Dr. Funk is the head of the laboratories of ex-Controller Herman A. Metz, and a collaborator in the biochemical laboratory at Columbia University.

The new vitamin is one without which micro-organisms of yeast cannot grow. The absence of Vitamin D would be fatal to life, because life depends on the yeast, as the yeast in turn depends on the vitamin.

In addition to the new Vitamin D, and the fifth vitamin reported in cod liver oil after researches at Johns Hopkins, several other vitamins are likely to be discovered, according to Dr. Funk. Vitamin research, according to him, has barely started. Dr. Funk is working now on evidence that pellagra, a widespread disease in the South in this country and in many foreign countries, is due to the deficiency of a sixth vitamin—that is, due to a diet which furnishes the undiscovered vitamin in quantities less than that necessary to maintain normal life.

Process of Separation.

The existence of the substance now called Vitamin D has been suspected for a long time, but only recently was it isolated by Dr. Funk by its separation from Vitamin B. The process of separation is a curious one. One method is simply to start yeast growing in a solution containing the combined vitamins. The yeast absorbs the D vitamins. When it has absorbed them all, the growth of the yeast stops. The yeast is then filtered out.

The proof that two distinct vitamins have been separated is found by tests on rats and pigeons. The yeast alone is added to a diet otherwise deficient in vitamin B. The pigeon loses weight and shows incipient beri-beri. The fluid left behind after the yeast has been filtered out is then added to a diet deficient in Vitamin B. Again the pigeon loses weight. When, however, the yeast is combined with the fluid from which it is filtered and added to the same diet, the pigeon continues to thrive. Vitamins B and D also are separated by Fuller's earth, which absorbs one faster than the other.

Pasteur suspected the existence of the substance now called Vitamin D, according to Dr. Funk, because of the unaccountable variations which the great French scientist found in the growths of yeast.

Studied by Belgians.

"The idea was the subject of research in 1916 by Belgian chemists," said Dr. Funk, "but the results were not recognized at the time. It has been revived in the United States by Dr. R. J. Williams, who, when he was with the University of Chicago, described a method for testing the growth of yeast under the influence of vitamins which he considered identical with the anti-beri-beri vitamin.

"While the results were entirely correct, there has been a change in the interpretation since that time. The growth of yeast does not depend upon the presence of Vitamin B, but upon the presence of the new vitamin which I called Vitamin D, and which always accompanied the old B vitamin."

Regarding the studies at Columbia University which indicated that plenty of sunlight seemed to make up for the deficiency of one vitamin, Dr. Funk said there was no probability that the sunlight created vitamins, but that it enabled the rickety child to "utilize more efficiently" such vitamins as were in the blood-stream. The vitamin in this case is the long-suspected one whose discovery has just been reported at Johns Hopkins. It is the anti-rickets vitamin in cod liver oil.

The result of this work is expected to be to make rickets a thing of the past. The vitamins have been concentrated to 200 times the strength in which they were found in cod liver oil. This has so far only been done in the laboratory, but eventually vitamin pills will be administered for the cure of rickets, which is a very widespread disease among children, especially in large cities.

The powerful effect of vitamin administration in diseases caused by their lack is demonstrated by the fact that a strong dosage of vitamins B and D has cured a pigeon of beri-beri in forty-eight hours. In his work on the separation of vitamin D, Dr. Funk was assisted by Dr. Harry E. Dubin, Louis Freedman and Miss Olive Sheets.

The List of Vitamins.

Vitamin A—The anti-ophthalmic vitamin. It is associated with fats and has the chemical characteristics of a fat. Its absence causes an eye disease. On a diet lacking in this vitamin rats and pigeons contract the eye disease and eventually die.

Vitamin B—This behaves chemically like an organic nitrogenous substance, and in conjunction with Vitamin D prevents beri-beri.

Vitamin C—This is the vitamin against scurvy. It probably is also nitrogenous in nature, be soluble in water and associated with fats.

Vitamin D—The newly discovered substance which promotes the growth of yeast and is believed to be a nitrogenous substance simpler than Vitamin B in composition.

Vitamin E—The anti-scorbutic vitamin reported at Johns Hopkins.

Reports of vitamins in fresh meat have been made, according to Dr. Funk, but this supposition may be due to the fact that the deficiency of certain vitamins is less injurious, for some unknown reason, in the case of diets rich in meat.

Dr. Funk began at the Lister Institute in London in 1911 the researches which led to the discovery of vitamins. It was then known that a diet of polished rice produced beri-beri, and a diet of unpolished rice did not. The theory was suggested that an acid essential to proteins was missing from the polished rice, but might be found in the polishings. Dr. Funk found this theory to be wrong and made the discovery of vitamins, predicting that further study would show the existence of a series of such substances, the absence of which produced the so-called "deficiency diseases."

MERCHANT TO WORKHOUSE.

Sentenced to 3 Months for Issuing False Financial Statement.

A sentence of three months in the Workhouse on Welfare Island was imposed in Special Sessions yesterday on Ben Leipzig, 56 years old, a merchant of 1,621 Union Street, Brooklyn, who pleaded guilty to issuing a false financial statement.

Leipzig, who had been in business for twenty-two years in Jersey City, was accused of having caused the issuance of A. A. Auffmordt & Co. of 114 East Twenty-third Street, in January, 1921, by presenting a false statement on which he had his credit extended. He was a partner in the firm and quit first in February, 1921. Auffmordt & Co. are at 128 East Twenty-seventh Street.

MAN OF 65 IS SLAIN TO AVENGE GIRL OF 7

Whistle by Long-Time Resident of Neighborhood Is Signal for His Killing.

Savito Spordano heard the story told by his 7-year-old daughter, Lillian, last Monday, and brooded vengeance. Yesterday, in his home, 183 Sackett Street, Brooklyn, he heard a whistle and a man's voice saying, "Hey, Lillian!" Spordano seized an ax, ran to the cellar of his home and killed Thomas Meighan, 65 years old, the man named by the child.

Then Spordano walked to the Hamilton Avenue Station and surrendered, calmly telling the police he had avenged the name of his family. He was held on the charge of homicide.

Meighan had lived in the Sackett Street neighborhood for forty-five years, being one of the few old-timers who survived the influx of newcomers. For thirty years he was janitor of the three-story tenement where Spordano lives. In all the years he had borne a good reputation, being a particular favorite with the children, to whom he sometimes gave small sums of money. Two months ago he came in for a nominal inheritance, gave up his two rooms in the basement and went to live with a former employer at 2,008 Ocean Avenue, Brooklyn.

On all sunny mornings, however, Meighan returned to seat himself near the steps leading down to his former habitation, reading the newspapers or playing with the children.

Lay in Wait With Weapon.

In stories that Spordano and his wife later told to Assistant District Attorney Selvaggi, it appeared that on last Monday morning Lillian told her mother of mistreatment by "Jerry," the Italian neighborhood's name for Meighan. When the father first was told he became furious and force had to be used to prevent him from going out to seek Meighan. He was restrained, however, and remained indoors, brooding and planning. About 10 o'clock yesterday morning as he sat in the kitchen of his home he heard the whistle from the street below. Spordano, a carpenter by trade, tiptoed to the front door, axe in hand. He saw Meighan standing at the head of the stairs leading to the basement and he heard, he told the District Attorney, the man call to the little girl.

Spordano burst out upon Meighan, he said.

"What are you doing here?" he asked, the axe hidden behind him.

"Oh, nothing," Meighan replied, according to the story of the slayer.

Spordano then dealt Meighan a terrific blow on the back of the head with the keen axe. Meighan toppled down the steps and into the cellar. Instinctively, he swayed to his feet. But Spordano was at the bottom of the steps in one leap and five fury-driven blows were rained upon Meighan.

Slayer Describes Killing.

The axe was tossed behind empty, dust-covered wine barrels and Spordano went to the police. Later, when Mr. Selvaggi began to question him, Spordano shrugged his shoulders and said:

"Yes, I did it. On Monday Lillian complains about Jerry. I cannot sleep, and today I hear Jerry call, 'Lillian, come down.' I go down and take the axe. Lillian hears and I tell her to go back.

"Jerry is downstairs and I ask about Lillian. He says, 'You dreaming.' I hit him with the axe and he falls down to the cellar. I go down and hit him five, six times. I go to the police and tell what I have done. That is all."

After Mrs. Spordano had related her story to Assistant District Attorney Selvaggi, Dr. Ernest M. Vaughn, physician on the staff of District Attorney John E. Ruston, established the fact that there existed no evidence of an attack.

Spordano, who is the father of five other children, was locked up in the Kings County Jail. He probably will be arraigned in the Adams Street Police Court this morning.

NEGRO MILITARY BAND WILL PLAY AT HOTEL

The band of the Fifteenth Infantry Regiment will give concerts at the Park Avenue Hotel every afternoon between 4 and 5:30 o'clock, it was announced yesterday by Lieut. Col. Arthur Little, commanding officer of the regiment. The initial concert will be on Saturday and begin at 3 P. M.

Colonel Little said he realized that the band was essential to the life of the regiment, which is composed entirely of negroes, and added that the unemployment problem had made necessary some action to keep the musicians together. He said that George C. Brown, owner of the hotel, had consented to give to the band the entire proceeds from the cover charge, which will be twenty-five cents. People prominent in society, he said, among them Mrs. Harry Payne Whitney, have promised to take an interest in these concerts.

The Armory Board will open bids for the construction of the drill shed on Fifth Avenue, between 142d and 143d Streets, at 4 o'clock this afternoon at the City Hall. A delegation of the members of the Fifteenth Infantry, who served overseas in the World War, and the negro band, founded by the late Lieutenant Jim Europe, and now led by his assistant, Lieutenant Eugene Mikell, will furnish music.

CHEAP ELECTRICITY A DREAM OF HYLAN

WOULD RECLAIM CONDUITS

Water Power to Reduce Cost—Sees Doom of "Gouging Gas Companies."

Mayor Hylan admitted yesterday that he had had a dream in which he saw the city able to sell electricity so cheaply that the obnoxious special interests would be on their knees begging for mercy. He said although it all came to him in a dream, he was sure of the possibility of making it come true.

It all came about when the Committee of the Whole of the Board of Estimate gave a hearing on an application of the Rose Electric Protective Corporation for a franchise to operate a burglar alarm system throughout the city. The discussion which followed brought out the fact that some 5,000 miles of high and low tension electric conduits are now controlled by private companies. The Mayor said his dream showed him that the city might recapture the franchises and then distribute the electricity at cost.

"When the city gets control of these conduits," he said, "it will be possible to sell electricity so cheap that every poor family in the city will find it economical to light their homes and cook their food by electricity. This will drive the gouging gas companies out of business. I have been told that it is possible to send electricity from the hydro-electric plants along and near the Canadian border to New York City and sell it here at 4 cents a kilowatt hour. The entire province of Ontario in Canada lights its homes and cooks its food by electricity originating at Niagara Falls. The great waste of the Barge canal can be harnessed and supply almost unlimited hydro power for the benefit of the people. It is not beyond the range of possibility that some day our big engineers will be able to utilize the tides in the lower bay and Hell Gate and other currents for the production of electric power."

Just how the city is to go about to recapture the franchises held by the private conduit companies the Mayor did not indicate, but it was suggested that he might meet with the same difficulties encountered by other Mayors who have sought to get back the franchises since 1887. The Mayor said he would make the attempt, and ordered E. C. M. Rand, chief of the Division of Electrical Conduits of the Department of Water Supply, Gas and Electricity to prepare all necessary data for recapture proceedings.

Women Barred From Delorme Trial.

MONTREAL, June 21.—Women and girls were ordered from the courtroom today while Adelard Delorme, former priest, on trial for the murder of his half-brother Raoul, was examined as to his "moral sanity." Detective Riout of the provincial police was the chief witness today, his testimony bearing chiefly upon inquiries made by Delorme to him concerning a girl.

FLOEGEL WINS NEW STEP TO PRESTIGE

Alfred Floegel, the young artist who recently was helped by the rent law in winning a fellowship from the American Academy in Rome, received word yesterday from the Tiffany Foundation that he had been chosen as one of the art students of "exceptional qualifications" to spend the Summer at Laurelton Hall, Cold Spring Harbor, L. I., now the home of a colony of artists sustained by an endowment from Louis Comfort Tiffany.

Floegel had a number of his pictures, both rough first models and sketches, together with some of his finest completed works, on exhibition at the Tiffany Foundation Gallery at the Art Center, 65 East Sixty-sixth Street, during the earlier part of the year. From these it was judged by the Art Committee of the foundation that he was deserving of the scholarship.

Floegel's new home on the magnificent Tiffany estate will form an unusual contrast to his two gloomy little rooms at 210 East Eighty-eighth Street, from which he will move the latter part of the week. The property under the direction of the Tiffany Foundation includes about eighty acres and the country home of Mr. Tiffany. The picture gallery, chapel, studio and living apartments were furnished by the philanthropist for the foundation in addition to an endowment of $1,000,000.

The building in which Floegel will live has a number of large studios, although the artists are encouraged to do their work out of doors when the weather permits. There is also a designer's workroom, a jeweler's shop with electric furnaces and a carpenter's shop fitted with electric power. Mr. Tiffany's home includes a number of art collections of Chinese and Japanese paintings, bronzes and lacquer work, Persian ceramics and Oriental carpets. The chapel and picture gallery are near the house, the former being decorated with a Mosaic altar and stained glass windows, and the latter containing many modern American and Spanish paintings.

BATTEN

Don't stop wearing out shoe-leather

AS someone has remarked, "the telephone is a great convenience."

So are the push-button buzzer and the telegraph service and the postal service.

Yet a man with goods to sell through stores would be foolish to seclude himself in an office and there in solitary grandeur carry on his business by phone, buzzer, telegraph and mail—seeing no one face to face, going to see no one, making no study of the changing habits and needs of his customers.

Even a convenience and an economy can be overworked until it becomes an expense.

Advertising is perhaps the greatest time-saver of them all. Advertising has enabled men in ten years to build a business that formerly required three or four generations.

But neither the telephone, which does the work of hours in a few minutes, nor advertising, which does the work of a century in a few years, are complete substitutes for shoe-leather, which does the work of an hour in an hour.

Don't stop wearing out shoe-leather. Don't let your salesmen stop. You can count on your fingers the concerns of this kind for whom advertising has done all the work of selling. It is not often that advertising can take the place of salesmen, of a sales department, or of a sales manager who knows his business and who sees to it that a pair of shoes doesn't last a salesman too long.

Use your conveniences, speed things up, advertise your business; but don't hesitate to rise up and walk on shoe-leather and go and get the thing you really want, whether it's a railroad ticket or an order that will keep the wheels of your business turning.

Once a month, or more frequently, we issue a publication called Batten's Wedge. Each issue is devoted to a single editorial on some phase of business. If you are a business executive and would like to receive copies, write us.

WOMEN BEAT SAILOR FOR ATTACK ON GIRL

A crowd of five hundred men and women attempted to drag Ole Langset, 29 years old, a Norwegian sailor, from Policeman Austin Guinan last evening after the policeman had arrested him for attacking a ten-year-old girl at the Municipal Public Baths at the foot of West Fifth Street, Coney Island.

Langset tried to escape from the policeman when he was arrested, and the struggle drew the attention of the throng in Surf Avenue. When several women saw the little girl crying they went to the policeman's aid and beat Langset with pieces of driftwood which they had picked up on the beach.

A big man, recognized as an amateur boxer and wrestler, then took a hand in the struggle, and knocked the sailor down with a blow on the jaw. The policeman started with his prisoner for Coney Island Station, but women again surrounded Langset and began to pummel him. Men joined in the attack and kicked at Langset. Policeman Guinan blew his whistle for assistance. Before the arrival of other policemen he received dozens of blows that were intended for his prisoner. A cordon was formed around Guinan and the sailor, after the mob had been driven off with nightsticks.

When the little girl was questioned at the station she said she was Florence Domaruna and lived with her parents at 5 Woodhull Street. Langset, who said he lived at 567 Henry Street, denied that he attacked the girl but admitted that he took her to Coney Island after she came out of St. Charles's Parochial School, near her home, in the afternoon. Policeman Guinan said that several women had complained to him about the man's actions. The parents of the girl were summoned to the station and allowed to take her home. Langset was badly cut and bruised.

CINCINNATI, Ohio, June 21.—John Kidd, head of the Stewart & Kidd Company, pleaded nolo contendere in the United States District Court today to an indictment charging him with sending obscene and indecent literature in interstate commerce, the books complained of being the "Decameron" of Boccaccio and the works of Rabelais. He was fined $1,000 by Judge Peck. He paid the fine.

Postoffice Inspector Angier, who brought the charges against Mr. Kidd, told the Court that, posing as a high school student, he had entered into negotiations with the book company for the purchase of the unexpurgated editions of the two old classics. The books were shipped by express. Mr. Kidd was indicted by the April Grand Jury, but the charges were invalidated on a technicality. The June Grand Jury renewed the indictment.

In sentencing Mr. Kidd, Judge Peck said:

"The fact that the works of Boccaccio and Rabelais are classics does not exempt them from the law as enacted by Congress. The existence of expurgated editions of these works is conclusive evidence that certain portions of them are not fit to be read by the average person."

GERMANS OCCUPY SILESIA.

KATTOWITZ, Upper Silesia, June 21.—The German authorities today began taking over from the Interallied Commission the second zone of Upper Silesia, retained by Germany under the partition treaty. The Poles yesterday completed their occupation of the first zone. The new boundary tax regulation between Germany and Poland has already gone into effect.

So closely has the boundary been drawn that in some places the residents on one side of a street are in German territory, while those on the other side are under Polish jurisdiction.

Industry continues to hum despite the commotion of the transition period, and reports indicate that order is being maintained throughout the territory, although the Germans are gloomy enough at the loss of the territory handed over to Poland by the Allies.

ATTACK FRENCH SOLDIERS.

COBLENZ, June 21.—The American and French military police are investigating an attack by German civilians on two French soldiers who were returning to their barracks near Bernadorf.

The soldiers were roughly handled, their injuries requiring hospital treatment.

RUTH'S SUSPENSION TO COST HIM $1,500

BABE OUT FOR FIVE DAYS

Tells Dinneen He Will Never Get Into Another Argument With an Umpire on Field.

CHICAGO, June 21 (Associated Press).—Babe Ruth's argument with Umpire Dinneen yesterday before the Cleveland-New York game will keep him out of the game two days, in addition to the three days' suspension imposed yesterday, President Ban Johnson of the American League announced today. Ruth consequently will not be able to play until Sunday.

President Johnson increased the home-run king's suspension, originally three days, for disputing a decision made by Dinneen in Monday's game at Cleveland, to five days when he received a long report from the umpire today detailing remarks made by the outfielder yesterday when ordered off the field in compliance with Mr. Johnson's first ruling.

Mr. Johnson announced that Ruth is suspended without pay and that this feature of the decision will cost Babe $1,500, or $300 a day, which was said by the American League President to be the player's salary.

Mr. Johnson's statement that the suspension without pay would cost Ruth $1,500 was the first official statement that has been made concerning the home-run king's salary. At $300 a day, on a basis of 154 games, Ruth would receive $46,200 for the season's work. At the time he signed his contract, last Winter, it was understood that he also was to receive a substantial bonus for each home run. It was understood that any such bonus was not included in Mr. Johnson's estimate of the player's financial loss through suspension.

Umpire Dinneen, in the report which brought Ruth's original three-day suspension, said that the player had called him one of the vilest of names. In the report received today, the umpire stated that Ruth came to him before yesterday's game and repeated the epithet, adding several other profane words to it. When Dinneen resented the insult a fist fight was averted only by the interference of Tris Speaker, "Bucky" McInnis and other Cleveland players, who led Ruth away.

"There is no player in the American League who can call one of my umpires names like that and conduct himself in such a disgraceful manner on the ball field and get away with it," Mr. Johnson said.

"I want Babe Ruth to understand that right now, and he is going to behave himself or I'll keep him out of the game for the rest of the Summer. Such disgraceful actions are not going to be permitted, and the sooner he understands it the better.

"The umpires are in charge of the ball games and their authority is going to be respected by every man in the league."

Bambino Is Contrite.

CLEVELAND, June 21 (Associated Press).—Babe Ruth has been banished from the game for the last time for arguing with an umpire, especially over a decision rendered against another player, the champion home-run slugger declared here today.

Previous to today's game between New York and Cleveland, Ruth walked into the umpires' room at Dunn Field and made that announcement to Umpires Bill Dinneen and Dick Nallin. When he entered the room Ruth was not in the least antagonistic nor was he excited or anything he appeared to be repentant, but he offered no apology.

"Bill, do you think I am getting a square deal?" Ruth asked Dinneen, as he sat on a table. He had just finished practicing with his team.

"I have nothing to do with that at all," Dinneen replied.

"When a fellow is down and out it seems to be a case of holding him down," Ruth stated. "Well, you can bet it's the last time I ever will be suspended for wrangling with an umpire. In the future I will keep out of the arguments, especially if they involve another player.

"I do not regret being out of the game because of the money it costs me. I really don't need the money, but I do love to play baseball. For that reason it hurts when I can't get into the game.

"Another thing that hurts is the criticisms. Some persons are saying that I welcome the suspensions because it gives me an alibi for not equalling my home run record of last year. That is ridiculous, as I realize that that is impossible. Others claim I have a 'swelled head.' My friends know different. I want to say in there every minute because I love to play baseball."

GIANTS AGAIN IDLE.

Rain Forces Postponement of Final Game With Cards.

The St. Louis Cardinals left town yesterday no nearer to first place than they were after they had beaten the Giants again on Monday. Yesterday's game, the last of the series, was called off before noon when it became evident that an all-night rain had left the Polo Grounds in shape for nothing but a swimming tournament.

The Giants took the postponement with smiling calmness. They were not visibly distressed by the incident, for the Robins are at the Brush Stadium today, and the champions would like to be widely separated from their late brief losing streak before tackling the enraged Flatbushers. There will be three games in the current set, and old Burleigh Grimes, a traditional jinx, will probably pitch the opener, with Bill Ryan as his opponent.

Leaving the West behind, the Yankees go to Boston today for a four-game series which will end Monday, after which they go to Washington. The Giants play the Braves here Sunday, and then on Tuesday start an engagement of five games with the Phillies at the Polo Grounds.

BUNCHED HITS AID IN RED SOX VICTORY

Boston Batters Fall on Olsen in Two Innings and Defeat Tigers, 9 to 8.

DETROIT, June 21.—Boston bunched hits off Olsen in two innings today, and, aided by Rigney's error, defeated Detroit, 9 to 8. The Tigers' string of victories up to today's game totaled eight. The Tigers rallied in the closing innings, driving Collins out of the box and hitting Russell, his successor, hard, but they could not overcome Boston's long lead.

RUTHLESS YANKEES BEAT INDIANS, 7-3

BREAK EVEN IN SERIES

Special to The New York Times.

CLEVELAND, June 21.—The Yankees are proving the proverb that it's an ill wind which blows nobody good. Deprived of the services of Babe Ruth on Monday they have since won two games in succession and looked more like a championship ball team today than at any time during their visit here. By bunching hits behind some excellent pitching on the part of Sailor Bob Shawkey they defeated the Indians, 7 to 3, this afternoon and left here tonight for the East with an even break in the four-game series.

Moreover, it was Elmer Miller and Whitey Witt, who alternately warm the bench when Ruth is in the game, who furnished the major portion of the batting fireworks for the Metropolitan invaders. Miller got two hits in five trips to the plate and the bow-legged, cotton-thatched Witt produced three safe blows in five chances. As a result Forest City fans are inclined to wonder if the Yanks haven't been handicapped by having a highly-touted player in the line-up who was in a hitting slump, but who was kept in the game because he was a great attraction at the box office.

The record of the season shows that Huggins's team won consistently before Ruth's return to the game and if it continues to win during the five days the Babe is here to combat the home-run king may be given a protracted period of bench warming in which to permit his anger too cool.

Only Eight Hits Off Shawkey.

It was the quiet and reliable Shawkey who was the chief hero of today's contest. Sailor Bob set the Indians down with eight scattered hits and was master of the tribesmen at every stage of the contest. He allowed a run in the third, one in the fifth and one in the seventh inning. The first of these was the initial counter of the game, but Bob had a lead when the other two were pushed across and had he been called upon to do so he might have been even more niggardly with base hits than he actually was.

Tris Speaker, who was forced out of the game because of his bad leg after batting in the first inning, apparently under-rated the Ruthless Yanks and sent a recruit by the name of Edwards to the mound. It was the youngster's first start and he has yet to pitch a full game in the majors, for the Yanks bombarded him from the mound in the sixth.

The invaders gave token of what Edwards might expect at their hands in the fourth inning. Miller caught one of the Cleveland pitcher's left-handed slants squarely and rode it for a single. Emil Meusel who, unlike Ruth, has been content with one suspension so far this season, popped to Sewell. Wallie Pipp singled and Miller pulled up at second. Things were growing rather exciting for Edwards and he passed Aaron Ward, filling the bases. Deacon Scott jolted a long fly to Jamieson in left and Miller scored after the catch. Hofmann, who was in the game for Bob Shawkey, inserted a timely single and Pipp scored, while Ward moved up to third. Shawkey forced his battery mate at second, ending the inning.

These two runs, following on the heels of the Cleveland tally in the third, put the New York team on the lead to stay and it stayed in the lead until what proved to be a bitter end for Cleveland.

Meusel's Double Scores Miller.

The Yankees went on plugging and produced one more counter in the next inning, the fifth. Witt was safe when Sewell fumbled his grounder. McNally turned one of the three sacrifices which marked his afternoon's work and Witt reached second. Miller hit to Sewell, whose throw to Larry Gardner retired Witt at third. Edwards pitched wrong to Irish Meusel and the double which followed scored Miller.

Huggins's gang was at it again in the sixth. Ward opened with a single. Scott struck out, but Hofmann singled moving Ward to second. Witt may not have the best throwing arm in the league, but he can hit them when hits mean runs, and crashed a single into centre which scored Ward and advanced Hofmann to second. McNally also singled, scoring Hofmann and sending Witt to third. That spelled the showers for young Edwards and when while the runners were still footing it around the bases Speaker was waving Uhle into the box. Miller, the first man to face the new flinger, filed out to Joe Wood.

Uhle got by the seventh unscathed, but the Manhattan maulers warmed up to his slants in the eighth and ninth. In the eighth Shawkey opened with a single to centre. Witt also singled, his third hit of the game, and Shawkey reached second. McNally was counted on for a sacrifice and produced it. Miller also fattened his batting average, beating out a hit to Sewell, and filling the bases. Uhle was shaky and walked Meusel, forcing Shawkey home with number six for the winners. Wallie Pipp hit straight to Wamby, who converted the roller into a double play by way of Sewell at second and thence to Stuffy McInnis at first.

The final New York counter developed in the first half of the ninth. Ward singled, thereby equaling Witt's record of three hits for the afternoon. Scott sacrificed him along and Hofmann blasted him home with a resounding triple. So far as scoring went, that was all, but for the visitors it was more than plenty, and served their purposes admirably.

Indians First to Score.

As has been said, the tribesmen started scoring first. Jamieson and Wamby hit in succession in the third and the latter scored when Joe Wood doubled. Wamby reached third on the hit, but was out at the plate when Gardner hit to Ward, whose quick return to Hofmann cut off another tally. Sewell then grounded out to Pipp unassisted.

Speaker's club came again in the fifth. Shawkey got himself into trouble by passing Jamieson and Wood, and Larry Gardner scored the former with a slashing single. Again Sewell ended a potential rally by flying to Pipp.

The last despairing effort on the part of the losers was made in the seventh. Uhle was hit by a pitched ball, but Jamieson forced him at second, Scott to Ward. Then Wambsganss tripled, and Jamieson scored, rounding out the home club's total of three.

Including today's game the Yankees have won seven games out of the sixteen played on their invasion of the West and lost nine. They are to open against the Red Sox in Boston tomorrow.

RAIN STILL TRAILS HARVARD AND YALE

Rival Nines Find Cambridge Just as Wet as New Haven—Will Try Again Today.

Special to The New York Times.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., June 21.—Harvard's ball nine and Yale's ball nine, which rushed back from New Haven Tuesday night, "walked right in, turned around and went right back again" today, for it was as impossible to play ball at Cambridge as it had been at New Haven.

Early in the morning there were grave doubts entertained about being able to get off the game on Soldiers' Field, but Forest City fans are inclined to wonder if the Yanks haven't been handicapped by having a highly-touted player in the line-up who was in a hitting slump, but who was kept in the game because he was a great attraction at the box office.

The record of the season shows that Huggins's team won consistently before Ruth's return to the game and if it continues to win during the five days the Babe is here to combat the home-run king may be given a protracted period of bench warming in which to permit his anger too cool.

Only Eight Hits Off Shawkey.

It was the quiet and reliable Shawkey who was the chief hero of today's contest. Sailor Bob set the Indians down with eight scattered hits and was master of the tribesmen at every stage of the contest. He allowed a run in the third, one in the fifth and one in the seventh inning. The first of these was the initial counter of the game, but Bob had a lead when the other two were pushed across and had he been called upon to do so he might have been even more niggardly with base hits than he actually was.

Tris Speaker, who was forced out of the game because of his bad leg after batting in the first inning, apparently under-rated the Ruthless Yanks and sent a recruit by the name of Edwards to the mound. It was the youngster's first start and he has yet to pitch a full game in the majors, for the Yanks bombarded him from the mound in the sixth.

The invaders gave token of what Edwards might expect at their hands in the fourth inning. Miller caught one of the Cleveland pitcher's left-handed slants squarely and rode it for a single. Emil Meusel who, unlike Ruth, has been content with one suspension so far this season, popped to Sewell. Wallie Pipp singled and Miller pulled up at second. Things were growing rather exciting for Edwards and he passed Aaron Ward, filling the bases. Deacon Scott jolted a long fly to Jamieson in left and Miller scored after the catch. Hofmann, who was in the game for Bob Shawkey, inserted a timely single and Pipp scored, while Ward moved up to third. Shawkey forced his battery mate at second, ending the inning.

These two runs, following on the heels of the Cleveland tally in the third, put the New York team on the lead to stay and it stayed in the lead until what proved to be a bitter end for Cleveland.

Meusel's Double Scores Miller.

The Yankees went on plugging and produced one more counter in the next inning, the fifth. Witt was safe when Sewell fumbled his grounder. McNally turned one of the three sacrifices which marked his afternoon's work and Witt reached second. Miller hit to Sewell, whose throw to Larry Gardner retired Witt at third. Edwards pitched wrong to Irish Meusel and the double which followed scored Miller.

Huggins's gang was at it again in the sixth. Ward opened with a single. Scott struck out, but Hofmann singled moving Ward to second. Witt may not have the best throwing arm in the league, but he can hit them when hits mean runs, and crashed a single into centre which scored Ward and advanced Hofmann to second. McNally also singled, scoring Hofmann and sending Witt to third. That spelled the showers for young Edwards and when while the runners were still footing it around the bases Speaker was waving Uhle into the box. Miller, the first man to face the new flinger, filed out to Joe Wood.

Uhle got by the seventh unscathed, but the Manhattan maulers warmed up to his slants in the eighth and ninth. In the eighth Shawkey opened with a single to centre. Witt also singled, his third hit of the game, and Shawkey reached second. McNally was counted on for a sacrifice and produced it. Miller also fattened his batting average, beating out a hit to Sewell, and filling the bases. Uhle was shaky and walked Meusel, forcing Shawkey home with number six for the winners. Wallie Pipp hit straight to Wamby, who converted the roller into a double play by way of Sewell at second and thence to Stuffy McInnis at first.

The final New York counter developed in the first half of the ninth. Ward singled, thereby equaling Witt's record of three hits for the afternoon. Scott sacrificed him along and Hofmann blasted him home with a resounding triple. So far as scoring went, that was all, but for the visitors it was more than plenty, and served their purposes admirably.

Indians First to Score.

As has been said, the tribesmen started scoring first. Jamieson and Wamby hit in succession in the third and the latter scored when Joe Wood doubled. Wamby reached third on the hit, but was out at the plate when Gardner hit to Ward, whose quick return to Hofmann cut off another tally. Sewell then grounded out to Pipp unassisted.

Speaker's club came again in the fifth. Shawkey got himself into trouble by passing Jamieson and Wood, and Larry Gardner scored the former with a slashing single. Again Sewell ended a potential rally by flying to Pipp.

The last despairing effort on the part of the losers was made in the seventh. Uhle was hit by a pitched ball, but Jamieson forced him at second, Scott to Ward. Then Wambsganss tripled, and Jamieson scored, rounding out the home club's total of three.

Including today's game the Yankees have won seven games out of the sixteen played on their invasion of the West and lost nine. They are to open against the Red Sox in Boston tomorrow.

BEARS WIN AND LOSE.

Take First Game From Stars by 2-0, but Drop Second by 4-0.

Special to The New York Times.

NEWARK, N. J., June 21.—Bill Clymer's Newark Bears made it four in a row by scoring a 2 to 0 victory over the Syracuse Stars here today in the first game of a double-header, but their winning streak was broken in the nightcap affair, the Stars making away with the contest by the score of 4 to 0.

Stellar southpaw hurling featured both contests. In the first Rudy Kneisch pitching for Newark, held the Stars to three hits and in the second game Walter Steward, flipping them up for Syracuse, was just as invincible to the Bears as Kneisch had been to the Stars in the first game, allowing but five hits.

SAYS DEMPSEY WILL ACCEPT WILLS BOUT

PURSE SECONDARY MATTER

Champion and His Manager Wish Assurance of Immunity From Official Interference.

Jack Dempsey, world's heavyweight champion, will sign articles to defend his laurels against Harry Wills, the New Orleans negro who is conceded to be the foremost title contender, just as soon as some promoter steps forward in control of a site where such a battle could be held without danger of interference from agitators or State authorities. Jack Kearns, manager of the champion, made this statement yesterday upon his arrival here from Los Angeles by way of Chicago. Kearns denied that he had signed articles for a Dempsey-Wills bout, or that he had even agreed to terms for such a contest. The champion's manager declared that the bout would not be closed until guarantees of immunity from official interference were forthcoming.

Dempsey's financial terms will be easily settled, according to Kearns. The champion's manager expressed readiness to gamble with any promoter who could secure official sanction for a Dempsey-Wills bout. Just what percentage would be demanded Kearns would not state. The manager indicated, however, that it would have to compare favorably with a guaranteed $500,000, if not in excess of that amount.

In addition to these rather indefinite statements, Kearns divulged some definite information with regard to the champion's immediate plans. Dempsey, Kearns says, positively will defend his title in a ring bout on Labor Day. His opponent will be either Jess Willard, who was battered into a helpless bulk by Dempsey at Toledo three years ago; Bill Brennan, who has twice gone down before the blows of the champion; Fred Fulton, who was knocked out in seventeen seconds or so at Harrison before Dempsey became champion; Tom Gibbons, St. Paul light-heavyweight, or Harry Greb of Pittsburgh, American light-heavyweight champion. Dempsey will fight at Michigan City, Ind., if it is scheduled, ten-round no-decision contests. Articles for this proposed match have not yet been signed by Kearns. He has, however, agreed to terms offered by Promoter Floyd Fitzsimmons, and is prepared to sign when Fitzsimmons selects the titleholder's opponent.

Champion's Exhibitions.

Up to Labor Day Dempsey will be busy with exhibitions. Kearns has arranged a tour which will carry the champion and a score of sparring partners through New England States, the Southwest, Middle West and Canada. Dempsey is en route to this city now. He is expected here either Sunday or Monday. The champion, according to Kearns, looks fine and weighs about 192 or 193 pounds, as a consequence of three weeks' training on the coast. The tour is scheduled to start at Boston either on June 29 or July 4. The champion is booked for Oklahoma City on July 3, Omaha on July 4 and Wichita, Kan., on July 5. Exhibitions are contemplated in five Canadian cities, too.

Kearns plans to see Tex Rickard this afternoon. At the conference between manager and promoter prospects for a Dempsey-Wills match will be considered. The possibility of a return clash between Dempsey and Willard will also be discussed. Rickard plans to arrange a Dempsey-Willard battle for the Fall in Jersey City, despite the fact that boxing critics generally have denounced the proposed match. The promoter said yesterday that he would arrange such a bout if both the champion and ex-champion agreed to fight on a percentage basis. Under no circumstances, Rickard said, would he consent to a guarantee for either of the principals.

Concedes Public Demand.

"I am satisfied that there is a public demand for a bout between Dempsey and Wills, and I am ready to sign articles for the champion," said Kearns in discussing the general situation. "I must first be assured that the match can be held without danger of interference. If a promoter will guarantee a place where he can hold the battle without official opposition I'll talk terms without hesitation. My terms will be easily acceptable, too, in my estimation. I'll consent to the fight on a percentage basis if I get the percentage of which Champion Dempsey is entitled. But before I talk any terms I want to know positively that the match can be held.

"I have been censured for asking $500,000 for Dempsey's end in a fight with Wills. I deny that I made any such demand. But, even if I did, I don't think such a demand exorbitant under the circumstances. Tex Rickard has stated publicly that $1,500,000 in two fights which Dempsey fought under his supervision. For these fights Dempsey received exactly $27,500, an uneven ratio when you take into consideration the fact that Dempsey was the magnet on both occasions and don't begrudge a promoter his profit. He deserves reward for the work and worry incident to conducting a big fight. But we have work and worry and expenses, too. For these reasons, I am determined that Dempsey shall get what I consider a fair reward if he consents to fight Wills. I am the champion's manager and business representative. I would be a poor business man if I agreed to terms which would give a promoter more than the champion practically all the profits accruing from a bout in which his title is at stake.

"As I said before, the one big fight for Dempsey right now is against Wills. But you must remember there are many obstacles in the path of such a contest. The biggest thing is not the purse but the site. It's all right for critics to devote time and newspaper space to articles demanding that Dempsey meet Wills, but it's another proposition finding a place where the bout can be held. Let some of the critics who have been loudest in condemning the champion and myself for evading Wills go and find a place where the men can fight for the title and I'll sign without delay. I'm not dodging Wills. Neither is Dempsey. But I don't intend to sign for a bout and then, like myself and all these fellows over, everywhere throughout the country come out and say the battle cannot be held in his particular State.

"If the New York State Athletic Commission will consent to a meeting between Dempsey and Wills there will not be much trouble in signing the match. We'll be found ready and willing. The New York Commission has notified me of a challenge issued by Wills, accompanied by an embroidered forfeit. But the commission did not notify me that it would sanction such a match if I consented to sign for it. I don't intend to visit the commission with request that Wills's challenge be sanctioned by the authority of the commission in the matter. Neither Dempsey nor myself is licensed under the commission and the commission, therefore, has no jurisdiction over us, as I view the situation."

Whiskaway Beats Olympus In Trial Race at Jamaica.

At Jamaica early yesterday morning, Olympus and Whiskaway, H. P. Whitney's pair of candidates for Saturday's Kentucky Special, worked the full distance of that race, one mile and a quarter, together, and the latter disposed of the former handily. They were timed at the half in 0:45 2-5 and at the five-furlong pole in 1:01. Then Whiskaway began to draw away from Olympus. At the mile, the former was caught in 1:40 3-5 and the latter in 1:41. Whiskaway covered the mile and a quarter in 2:08 3-5, while his stablemate's time was 2:09 2-5. At noon these two, with Calamity Jane, Prudish and Broomster, started for Kentucky to fulfill their engagements there. The two fillies are entered for the Latonia Oaks and Broomster for the Derby.

WILSON HAS CHANCE TO SAVE HIS TITLE

Commission Might Allow Boxer to Defend Crown Against Greb on Old Contract.

Although Johnny Wilson's world's middleweight title, so far as the State is concerned, was automatically vacated by the Hub boxer at midnight on Tuesday because of his failure to sign articles to box Harry Greb in the time stipulated by the New York State Athletic Commission, efforts were continued yesterday to induce Wilson to enter the ring against the American light-heavyweight champion. Frank B. Flournoy, matchmaker for Madison Square Garden and the New York Velodrome, spent most of his time trying to get into communication by long-distance telephone with Marty Killeleas, Wilson's manager, in Boston. Flournoy closed his office without reaching Killeleas, but announced he would continue his quest of Killeleas today.

Flournoy is proceeding with his attempt to close a Wilson-Greb match on the theory that the bout would be sanctioned as for the middleweight title, even at this date, in view of the fact that negotiations for the contest were in progress at the time of the last meeting of the New York State Athletic Commission to pass upon the status of Wilson as champion.

Secretary Harry Burchell, at the offices of the commission, yesterday declared that so far as the commission was concerned, Wilson's career as champion middleweight ended when June 20 passed into history. Wilson, he said, now is in a similar situation to that in which Johnny Kilbane stands as far as the Empire State is concerned. Secretary Burchell added, however, that the commission might possibly recognize a Wilson-Greb bout as for the middleweight title if Wilson consented without delay to go through with his contract to box Greb. This contract was signed last Winter, but Wilson subsequently refused to go through with the Greb match.

No bouts have been arranged for either championship. The failure of Flournoy to get into touch with Killeleas has caused a deadlock in the middleweight situation. When it is definitely ascertained that Wilson does not intend to go through with his contract to box Greb, or if Killeleas does not respond to Flournoy's telephone messages today, efforts will probably be directed toward arranging a match between Greb and Dave Rosenberg, Brooklyn title challenger.

Tommy McGinty, manager of Danny Frush, Baltimore featherweight, communicated by long-distance telephone with Flournoy yesterday and advised thematchmaker that Frush was ready to battle Dundee for the title. Dundee has informed the commission of his readiness to engage Frush. It is likely, therefore, that articles soon will be signed for this contest and the bout arranged for the Velodrome on a date in August.

CLEARS ONTARIO'S BOXING POSITION

Special to The New York Times.

TORONTO, Ontario, June 21.—The Ontario Government Athletic Commission has been described as endorsing the mandate of the New York State Boxing Commission in stripping Johnny Wilson and Johnny Kilbane of their championship titles. As a matter of fact, however, the Ontario commission does not endorse that action. Its attitude is outlined in the telegraphic wire dispatched today to Walter H. Ufinger of Milwaukee, Chairman of the National Association of State Boxing Commissions, of which Ontario became a member at the annual convention in New Orleans last Winter.

Statement that Canada backs action of New York State Boxing Commission in depriving Kilbane and Wilson of their titles is not correct. Canadian commission quite satisfied that some such action should be taken, but is of opinion that it should be done not by one State but through the National Association of Boxing Commissions."

POLO PLAY POSTPONED.

Special to The New York Times.

WESTBURY, L. I., June 21.—The Yale-Princeton polo game, which was scheduled to be played on the international field of the Meadow Brook Club here tomorrow afternoon, has been postponed to Tuesday, June 27. The rains of this week have rendered all the polo fields of the Meadow Brook Club veritable quagmires. The intercollegiate match next Tuesday will start at 4:30, daylight saving time, weather permitting. The Long Island Railroad will run a special train to Westbury, leaving the Pennsylvania stations at 3:30, and returning after the game.

None of the games scheduled for this week in the tournament for the Hempstead Cups, play for which was to have started Monday, has yet been played. Should tomorrow prove a good "drying day" there is a possibility that one game may be played on one or another of the four fields. It is hoped that, at the worst, the tournament can be started Friday.

No further postponement has yet been announced of the special benefit match, with players of the American International team taking part, originally set for last Saturday and put over because of rain, to Saturday of this week. Whether this game can be played will depend entirely on weather tomorrow and Friday.

SALLY'S ALLEY IS AQUEDUCT WINNER

Sally's Alley, W. S. Kilmer's two-year-old daughter of Allunour, surprised a large gallery at the Aqueduct race course yesterday afternoon not only by winning the thirtieth renewal of the Clover Stakes, but by traveling the five furlongs over a muddy track in 59 seconds flat. Only once has the event been run in faster time. That was in 1918, when the Oneck Stable's Edith Queen hung up the mark of 0:58 3-5 on a surface in perfect condition for top speed.

Eight fine fillies followed Sally's Alley home, the field nearest to the winner at the close being J. R. Smith's Silk Tassel and W. J. Salmon's El Dorado. Silk Tassel was so close in fact that it was not until the final strides that a decision was reached. The Smith youngster had essayed first in the sloppy going and made all the running, with El Dorado right at hand. In the rush down the long stretch El Dorado tried to bear out and was shaken off by Silk Tassel.

With victory for the purple and pink Smith racing colors apparently won, however, Sally's Alley, outpaced in the early stages, closed with notable courage to wage battle with the leader, Johnson, riding the Kilmer racer, and Mooney, aprtide the Superman filly, exhausted all their prowess in the effort to gain the verdict. In the final yards Silk Tassel hung a trifle, which enabled Sally's Alley to get her head and her bay neck in front and keep them there as the pair swept past the judges' box. The tired El Dorado lasted long enough to beat J. S. Ceeden's Crochet a length for third money.

A Fine Performance.

It was a sterling performance, especially under the conditions, and the well-filled stands accorded hearty applause to the victor. The most vehement in their approval were those who had liked the Kilmer filly's chances well enough to join the band which played her down from 12 to 1 to 10 to 1 at post time. The favorites, Harry Payne Whitney's Cresta and Dream Days, the latter an added starter, were never prominent. Cresta, the reliance of the Whitney stable, was on the rail all the way going, and this, coupled with her heavy burden of 124 pounds, killed whatever chance she might have had.

The race was worth $4,875 to the winner, while $700 went to the owner of the second horse and $300 constituted third money.

The Fair Play Handicap, a mile test provided a soft spot for the Ronigewald gelding, Comic Song. This three-year-old son of Black Jester was the outsider of the field of five in the initial betting on the affair, but when his price touched 8 to 1 it was bombarded by the sharpshooters until 3 to 1 was the best to be found. A. J. Murphy's filly, Thimble, making an effort to repeat overnight her victory of Tuesday, was the favorite, with Mrs. R. F. Carman's Excuse Me next in demand.

Comic Song shot to the front within the first sixteenth and easily held his opposition safe all the rest of the way. At the close he had a margin of five lengths over Excuse Me, which led Thimble by two lengths.

Raffles an Easy Winner.

Raffles, a Luke McLuke colt owned by J. R. Widener, proved easily the best of a dozen maiden two-year-olds facing the starter in the opening scamper. The youngster broke alertly and showed the way to the others for the entire route of five furlongs, winning by two lengths from Cork Elm in excellent time, under the track conditions, of 59 2-5 seconds. Cork Elm had no trouble in holding the remainder of the contestants safe, although Lady Inez, which stumbled at the start and lost much ground but finished third, might have been closer with good racing luck.

Raffles was the public choice in the speculation on the affair, closing at 3 to 5 from a high of 11 to 5. Cork Elm was played down from sixes to fives, and Lady Inez from 4 to 1 to 7 to 2.

The claiming race at six and a half furlongs, run as the second number on the card, provided only a pleasant outing for Liberty Girl. The five-year-old daughter of Kell Gow took the lead shortly after the break and increased her margin to the finish line where she was five lengths ahead of General Cadorna. The latter fanned the soft going and took Ting-a-ling into camp for the place in the drive down the stretch behind the leader.

Liberty Girl and Beckus, which finished just outside the money, were equal choices in the post betting, although the latter was the opening favorite. Beckus didn't seem to care for the footing and never managed to untrack himself.

JOHN FINN WINS MORVICH HANDICAP

Defeats Lady Madcap by Half a Length in Featured Race at Latonia.

Special to The New York Times.

LATONIA, Ky., June 21.—John Finn, the chestnut colt which finished third to Morvich and Hot Mosie in the Kentucky Derby, today won the Morvich handicap, the featured race at the Latonia track. He won by half a length from Lady Madcap with Yoshimi third.

John Finn was installed a slight favorite over Lady Madcap and rewarded his backers by running a game race. He was rushed through next to the inner rail just before reaching the stretch. He held on gamely and outstayed Lady Madcap. The latter, however, appeared to be much the best of anything in the race but was taken wide at the stretch turn, losing any chance she had to win.

FOOTBALL PLANS CHANGED.

Penn Squad Will Train at Mount Gretna Instead of at Cape May.

PHILADELPHIA, June 21.—Graduate Manager R. R. Bushnell today announced that the University of Pennsylvania football squad will train at Mount Gretna this Fall instead of Cape May. The fact that they will be unable to use Franklin Field until late in the season spoke was a factor in deciding on the Mount Gretna site. They will be at Mount Gretna from Sept. 5 until Sept. 26. Sixty men will be in the squad.

MORVICH WORKS IN 1:54 AT LATONIA

Special to The New York Times.

LATONIA, Ky., June 21.—The mighty Morvich, Ben Block's Kentucky Derby winner, proved here this morning that he had benefited through a change of scene. He worked a mile and a furlong in 1:54 easy up, with a big boy on his back and carrying the full weight that he will pick up for the $50,000 Kentucky Special on Saturday.

There were many in New York who did not enthuse over the public work of Morvich on the day the Belmont stake was run, and it was also reported that there was nothing to enthuse over in a later workout that he had ever at Jamaica track. After these workouts came his defeat by Whiskaway in the Carlton Stakes, and that defeat might have made some believe that this great colt had gone off.

Yesterday both Ben Block, owner, and Fred Burlew, trainer of Morvich, told all inquirers to wait until today before asking them to express an opinion. After today's workout both owner and trainer appeared most enthusiastic and told all who wanted to know their opinion that they had every confidence of winning the big Latonia Special for three-year-olds.

Big Crowd Sees Work.

A big crowd gathered around the barn where Morvich is quartered when this equine prince was led out for his exercise shortly after 7 o'clock this morning. Over in the grandstand and around the judges' stand there also were many visitors, for it had been announced that Morvich was to have his tryout today.

It was a different Morvich from yesterday that came out onto the track. There was none of the rankness noticeable such as he showed yesterday by almost running away with his rider after breezing three furlongs. The same big negro boy who pressed Morvich yesterday walked the colt once around the track to limber up.

When word to go was given Morvich made his usual lunge and then went along with that rhythmic, frictionless stride which has always marked his fast running. Burlew had given orders to the boy never to allow the colt to do his best at any stage of the journey, announcing that he wanted Morvich to work a mile and a furlong near 1:55. But, as he has done so many times in his brief, but well won, career, the colt went one second faster than his trainer had ordered. Up in the grand stand, around the lawn and by the judges' stand were mere spectators then had gathered over on the backstretch along to the barn where Morvich is quartered.

Burlew Waves Sign.

As the colt flashed down from the head of the stretch past the judges' stand he was timed in 0:11 4-5 for the first furlong. He continued on to finish the quarter in 0:28 2-5, the three furlongs in 0:85 flat, the half mile in 0:47 2-5 and five furlongs in a minute flat, after which Morvich began to wave up a bit in the rides to take up the three-quarters were finished in 1:13, the seven furlongs in 1:26 3-5, the mile in 1:40 and the mile and a furlong in a canter in 1:54.

There was not a clocker present who did not think it would have been easy for Morvich to do the mile and a furlong in 1:52 had he been allowed to run as fast as he wanted to. The most pleasing part of it all to Burlew was the fact that the great colt did not show the least sign of fatigue.

After his workout Morvich came in for great praise from many horsemen who had not seen him in the Kentucky Derby and who had not even been him on the track previous to the morning's workout. Major Thomas Clay McDowell, who was recovering from a recent serious illness and is barely able to get to the race course, looked over the black champion with an admiring eye and remarked that he considered him a great thoroughbred. J. Cal Milan, who trained that fleet filly, Miss Joy, last Summer and who thought at the time that the filly might be faster than Morvich, was another admirer of the colt.

Here's the biggest smoking convenience since the cigarette was invented!

KLICKIT is not simply a new cigarette holder—it's a brand new idea in smoking convenience!

First, there's the Automatic Ejector. No fussing with the stub! No burnt fingers! You can smoke every cigarette down to the very tip of the holder—then a simple flip of the hand shoots the stub out clean.

Next, there's the Cripplight Bore. This enables you to clip every cigarette into the holder without mashing it—and know it will stay there right up to the last puff!

Third—a special Cooling Chamber gives you all the fragrance of the smoke and none of the burn. (Note to the diagram how this Chamber differs from the narrow tube of the ordinary holder.)

This Cooling Chamber also condenses the irritating oils from the tobacco and prevents them from reaching the membrane of your throat. That's point four—and a big one!

Klickit will enable you to enjoy your favorite smoke as you've never enjoyed it before! Ask for a Klickit Holder at the nearest cigar store today.

For the Beginner

IN planning and selecting our stock of golf clubs and equipment we have always given due consideration to the beginner at golf, and we have selected from our regular stock an outfit that we believe to be most practical and serviceable for those who are just taking up the game. This outfit consists of 4 Pickwick clubs (one wood and 3 irons) 4½ in. aluminum bottom Buhrke golf bag and Munro golf ball cleaner.

The clubs have shafts of good second growth hickory and are ruggedly made to withstand the extra wear and tear to which a beginners clubs are subjected.

BLOSSOM AT HEAD OF YALE ATHLETICS

TO BEGIN DUTIES AT ONCE

Accepts Position as Organizer Following Unanimous Selection by Committee.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, June 21.—John T. Blossom of Cleveland was today announced as athletic director of Yale. He was selected by a committee of the Board of Control, of which Dr. James C. Greenway was Chairman. The entire Board of Control ratified his selection Monday night. The position was offered to Blossom by telegraph, and today he accepted it. He played shortstop at Yale four years, captaining his freshman team and the varsity in 1913. He went South with the Yale nine this Spring. He has been in the automobile business in Cleveland since graduation.

President Angell in announcing his election at the alumni banquet this afternoon said that Blossom returned to Yale at considerable personal sacrifice. Dr. Angell said that during the last year Yale athletics have been more or less under fire, and that while Yale officials do not feel they have solved all the problems confronting them, they have taken the first preliminary firm steps, and that the Board of Control is at all times open to constructive suggestions.

Blossom will begin his duties at Yale immediately. Professor Clarence Mendell, who will remain Chairman of the Athletic Board of Control, said today that Blossom would be an organizer of athletics, but not a coach. The mention of Professor Mendel's name at the alumni meeting this afternoon was greeted with a warm ovation.

Blossom's appointment relieves a situation which has led to failure of Yale to fully co-ordinate its athletics since the World War. Dr. Albert Sharpe was engaged as athletic director, but his duties were regarded as largely included in acting as head football, baseball and basketball coach.

He retired last year, and it was decided to practically create a new position of director to organize undergraduate athletics and recreational sports. Blossom was offered the position several months ago, but felt unable to accept it at that time.

MRS. JACKSON WINS IN SHAWNEE GOLF

SHAWNEE, Pa., June 21.—Playing in her best style, Mrs. H. A. Jackson, the Greenwich woman who has twice held the national title, defeated Mrs. Ronald H. Barlow of Merion by the narrow margin of 1 up in the first round of the second play tournament at the Shawnee Country Club today. Except for a brief period at the outset and again when her opponent drew level at the fifteenth, Mrs. Jackson always had the better of the argument.

In another match Mrs. G. Henry Stetson, the Huntingdon Valley player who was the medal yesterday, defeated Mrs. G. K. Morrow of Pomonok, 6 and 5. The winner, playing the bye holes, completed the circuit in 87. She will meet Mrs. Jackson in the lower semi-final bracket tomorrow. The contestants in the other semi-final are Mrs. Caleb F. Fox of Huntingdon Valley and Miss Elizabeth Hardin of Baltusrol.

Almost faultless direction and steady putting helped Mrs. Jackson defeat Mrs. Barlow. Off the tee they were about even, but with the irons Mrs. Barlow occasionally found the rough; only once during the match did Mrs. Jackson slip up on the green and that was when she took three putts at the fourteenth. To more than discount that she sank several six and seven footers and one of twenty feet at the fourth.

By winning four holes in a row, Mrs. Jackson gained an early lead of 3 up, and she made the turn, 2 up, going out in 42 to Mrs. Barlow's 49. When the latter got all square at No. 15, it looked like anybody's match. But the Merion woman lost the Binniekill hole over the water, pulling her tee shot to the rough. Mrs. Jackson halved the two last holes, thereby winning by 1 up. She had the round in 89 to 90 for her opponent.

Miss Hardin, driving a long ball and putting steadily, never gave Mrs. William Chetvers of Dunwoodie a chance. Fine approaches also contributed toward Mrs. Chetvera's discomfort. Mrs. Fox defeated Miss Florence McNeely of Merion by a comfortable margin, going out in 44.

Women in field took part in the eighteen-hole putting competition during the afternoon and Miss Hardin won with a score of 18, a stroke better than Mrs. Barlow, who won second prize.

The summary:

First Eight, First Round—Mrs. Caleb F. Fox, Huntingdon Valley, defeated Miss Florence McNeely, Merion, 6 and 5; Miss Elizabeth Hardin, Baltusrol, defeated Mrs. William Chetvers, Dunwoodie, 7 and 6; Mrs. H. A. Jackson, Greenwich, defeated Mrs. R. H. Barlow, Merion, 1 up; Mrs. G. Henry Stetson, Huntingdon Valley, defeated Mrs. G. K. Morrow, Pomonok, 6 and 5.

Second Eight, First Round—Miss C. Matthias, Wyoming Valley, defeated Mrs. E. G. Betz, Philadelphia Country, 5 and 4; Miss Mara Meehan, North Hills, defeated Mrs. Theodore Wiedersein, Huntingdon Valley, 6 and 5; Miss Helen Meehan, North Hills, won from Mrs. M. B. Paterson, Westchester-Biltmore, by default; Mrs. Albert Hayley, Pomonok, defeated Mrs. J. F. Baumgaertner, Cedar Brook, 7 and 6.

Third Eight, First Round—Mrs. S. S. Laird Jr., Wykagyl, defeated Mrs. P. Williamson, Wyoming Valley, 3 and 4; Mrs. J. F. Drake, Morris County, defeated Mrs. F. E. Donohoe, Montclair, 1 up; Mrs. E. C. McMullan, New York Golf, defeated Mrs. R. Clemson, Orange County, 7 and 6; Miss Abbie Lee, Wyoming Valley, defeated Mrs. E. F. Sanford, Essex County, 4 and 3.

SEVEN GOLFERS SURVIVE.

ATLANTA, Ga., June 21.—Seven players won their way into the second round of the Southern amateur golf tournament today, but a violent rainstorm interrupted the match between T. W. Palmer of Miami and M. C. Jones of Atlanta just as the Florida star had squared it on the eighteenth hole. They will settle their contest tomorrow before the start of the second round.

VAN WART WINS MATCH.

Defeats Leggett-Lee in Final of Three-Cushion Tourney.

Walter Van Wart captured the victor in the handicap three-cushion tournament at the Recreation Billiard Academy of Brooklyn by defeating Harry Lee-Leggett last night in the final game by the score of 25 to 20. The game went forty-two innings. Both men were scratch players.

The battle was a tense, see-saw affair from the start, with the lead constantly changing. The winner's best cluster of the evening was 5, with 3 the best collection of the loser.

Lenglen Is Now Uncertain As to Appearance in Singles.

LONDON, June 21 (Associated Press).—Mlle. Suzanne Lenglen, the French tennis star, arrived in London today to prepare for the coming tournament at Wimbledon. She will begin practice immediately, but because of the uncertain condition of her health she has not yet determined whether she will compete in the singles. Mlle. Lenglen, who said she was still under treatment, added:

"I have not yet made up my mind whether I shall play in the singles at Wimbledon. I must wait and see how I feel."

KASHIO DROPS OUT OF MET. TOURNAMENT

Sixteen men remained in the tennis tournament for the metropolitan clay court singles championship at the conclusion of play at the New York Tennis Club yesterday afternoon. This reflects remarkably good work by the club's Tournament Committee in pushing the play despite the handicap of rain, which has fallen every day since the tournament started. A piece of bad news reached Chairman Ostendorf of the committee yesterday in the shape of a telegram from Seiichiro Kashio stating that, because of illness, Kashio would be unable to continue in the singles or to start in the doubles, as scheduled, with Zenzo Shimizu as his partner.

Kashio has been playing so much tennis since the season started that he has heavily overtaxed his strength. His physician yesterday positively forbade the Japanese star to play again for another week. Kashio pleaded to be allowed at least to contest in the doubles, but his request was denied. Last week in the New Jersey championship at Montclair and in his matches in the early rounds of the metropolitan tournament, Kashio showed unmistakable signs of strain. He played as though not far from exhaustion toward the finish of his matches but insisted upon filling all engagements until the doctor laid down the law yesterday.

In the normal progress of the singles, Kashio would have met the defending champion, Vincent Richards, in the semi-finals, and his presence, with that of Shimizu, would have added greatly to the interest of the doubles competition. The effect is to make Vanderbilt A. Ward the favorite to meet Richards in the semi-finals in singles, and, in the doubles, to clear the path in the upper half of the draw for the teams of Walter Westbrook and Fred Anderson and Dr. George King and Elliot H. Binzen.

Hammett Wins Hard Battle.

In the singles matches contested yesterday, Alfred D. Hammett and Dr. William Rosenbaum had a fiercely-fought battle which the former won by scores of 8—10, 6—2, 6—4. The court was heavy and Hammett's chops were exceptionally difficult to dig up. The ball hardly seemed to bound to a height of six inches off some of his low chops, and Rosenbaum expended a vast deal of arduous footwork as well as exasperated mental attention upon some of the more tricky shots. In the opening set, Rosenbaum's excellent work in forecourt, where his overhead hitting was particularly good, offset Hammett's persistency in getting the ball back safely, but in the second and third sessions Rosenbaum lost some of his aggressiveness through an excess of hard traveling to all parts of his court. In the third chapter, Hammett assembled a lead of 5-love and Rosenbaum made a final desperate rally which carried him to within a game of tying it up. Then Hammett steadied again and his refusal to make errors gave him the set.

Percy L. Kynaston's hard driving turned back F. A. Bodkin in another third-round match. Bodkin's contest was not as good as usual and he fed Kynaston exactly the sort of shots the latter liked best. Manfred Goldman won a long three-set encounter with Jerome Minster by 6—7, 4—6, 6—3. Goldman's greater experience was an important factor. Minster, by clever volleying and smashing, took the lead in the third set at 3-love, but Goldman called upon a wider stock of resources and won six straight games.

Richards Beats Winter.

Richards won his third-round match from Norman Winter by about the measure expected—6—1, 6—4—playing well within his ability. He is due to meet Hugh Oakley this afternoon.

A start was made in the mixed doubles. Thirty-five teams are entered. Leading teams in the upper half already have been mentioned. In the lower are Richards and Howard Voshell, defending champions; Francis T. Hunter and Frank T. Anderson, and Leonard W. Knox and Anton F. Von Bernuth.

The summaries:

Metropolitan Clay Court Championship Singles—Second Round—H. W. Hastings defeated Ben Landau, 6—4, 6—2; Ralph J. Sommer defeated James W. Merserau, 9—11, 6—4, 6—3.

Third Round—Vincent Richards defeated Norman Winter, 6—1, 6—4; Hugh Oakley defeated R. D. Golden, 6—3, 6—4; Manfred Goldman defeated Jerome Minster, 6—7, 4—6, 6—3; H. H. Bacharach won from Seiichiro Kashio by default; Charles A. Anderson defeated Seymour Cohn, 6—3, 6—2; Henry H. Beasford defeated Hugh L. Nehring, 6—4, 6—1; H. C. Tremaine defeated R. J. Sommer, 6—3, 6—4; H. W. Hastings defeated Morton Bernstein, 6—4, 3—6, 6—0; Percy L. Kynaston defeated Phillip A. Bodkin, 6—4, 6—3; Alfred D. Hammett defeated Dr. William Rosenbaum, 8—10, 6—2, 6—4.

Double—Second Round (First Round Byes)—Larry Steinger and Steve Sleasinger won from Zenzo Shimizu and Seiichiro Kashio by default; Elliot H. Binzen and Dr. George King defeated C. E. Schoninger and C. L. Bailey, 6—3, 6—3; Samuel R. McAllister and C. R. Smith defeated R. L. Wrigley and E. M. Dixon, 6—3, 6—2; Charles A. Anderson and Walter J. Toussaint defeated Edward Rodgers and A. R. Glore, 6—3, 7—5.

TO START TOURNEY TODAY.

Women Will Begin Play for New Jersey Tennis Championship.

Play will start at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon at the Englewood Field Club in the long-postponed opening of the New Jersey tennis championship for women. The afternoon will be devoted to first-round matches in singles. Holders of first-round byes will begin play tomorrow morning at 11. Entries for the women's doubles championship will be held open until an hour before play starts at 1:30 P. M. tomorrow. The mixed doubles list will be kept open until an hour before play starts on Saturday at 1 P. M. W. F. De Sausure Jr., Chairman of the Tournament Committee, is in charge of the entries.

COAST NET STARS COMING.

Johnston, Davis and Miss Wills to Play in Eastern Tourneys.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 21.—Three Pacific tennis stars, William M. Johnston, Miss Helen Wills and Willis E. Davis, will represent the West in Eastern singles tennis champions this Summer, Dr. Sumner Hardy, San Francisco President of the California Lawn Tennis Association, announced today.

MRS. MALLORY WINS EASILY.

Defeats Miss Dransfield, 6-1, 6-2, in Roehampton Tourney.

ROEHAMPTON, England, June 21 (Associated Press).—Mrs. Molla Bjurstedt Mallory today defeated Miss P. H. Dransfield of England in the third round of the tournament which is being played here. The score was 6—1, 6—2.

MRS. MALLORY IS FAVORED BY DRAW

LONDON, June 21 (Associated Press).—Mrs. Molla Bjurstedt Mallory and Mlle. Suzanne Lenglen are on opposite sides of the draw for the play in the world's lawn tennis championship which begins at Wimbledon June 26. It is generally considered that the American champion has drawn luckily. In her half of the draw will be Mrs. A. E. Beamish and Mrs. Satterthwaite, and neither of these British players is looked upon as likely to beat her.

Mlle. Lenglen in her side of the draw is close to Miss Kathleen McKane, the English star. Miss Elizabeth Ryan of California also is in this half.

G. Colket Caner, one of the American representatives, has been drawn in the weaker quarter of the men's singles. If he can become acclimatized to English conditions, the experts are of the opinion that he has quite a good chance to be a semi-finalist. His chief opponents will be Manuel Alonso, the Spanish champion, and Randolph Lycett, the Australian veteran. The latter is still a doubtful factor, owing to the recent injury he suffered.

In the first round Caner will play R. P. Barbour, the Australian cricketer and varsity lawn tennis player. Dean Mathey will meet a strong opponent in J. Washer, Belgian champion, who is a muscular lefthander and a player of championship standard.

The Americans who will compete in the Wimbledon tournament include:

Men's Doubles—Asthalter and W. C. Crawley; J. C. Masterman, who is an Oxford student, and Gravem and Mathey and Caner.

Women's Doubles—Mrs. Mallory and Miss Sigourney.

In the mixed doubles Miss Ryan will play with the Australian, Randolph Lycett; Mrs. Mallory will be paired with Mathey; Mrs. Rawson Wood will play with G. M. Elliott, and Miss Sigourney will have Caner as a partner.

WANTS SEMI-FINAL MATCH IN ENGLAND

France Will Default in Davis Cup Series if Australia Will Not Consent to Plan.

PARIS, June 21.—The French Lawn Tennis Association is making an official request of the Australian Davis Cup team, conditional upon the latter's defeating Belgium, that play in the semi-finals against the French team be held in England.

A. R. Muhr, Secretary of the association, is leaving for England today to attend the Australia-Belgium matches, which commence tomorrow, with the intention of presenting the request immediately upon the conclusion of the matches. The French tennis officials feel assured that Australia will win, but are refraining from presenting their request until the matches are over, out of respect to the Belgian team.

M. Wallet, President of the French association, declares that if the Australian team refuses to play the semi-finals in England instead of the United States, it will mean that the French team will be forced to default, as the money is not available for the American trip.

BRITISH NET TEAM DEFEATS ITALIANS

ROEHAMPTON, England, June 21 (Associated Press).—The British Isles Davis Cup team today won another match in singles from the Italian team. F. G. Lowe defeated Cesare Colombo, 6—1, 6—2, 6—0.

The remaining match of the series, Count di Roberto against Major Algernon R. Kingscote, was not played, as the Italian player suffered an injury to his foot.

The American player G. Colket Caner defeated J. T. Baines in the third round of the open singles, 6—3, 6—3, 6—3. Caner had a walkover in the second round, Count di Robecco having defaulted. Caner's first game against Baines attracted the attention of the spectators.

MISS BALLIN FINALIST.

Wins in Delaware Tennis and Will Meet Miss Bancroft for Title.

WILMINGTON, Del., June 21.—Miss Florence Ballin, New York, and Miss Leslie Bancroft, Boston, will meet Friday in the final round of women's singles in the Delaware State tennis tournament at the Wilmington Country Club. In the semi-finals today Miss Ballin defeated Miss Martha Bayard, Short Hills, N. J., 4—6, 6—0, 6—3, and Miss Bancroft beat Miss Ceres Baker, Orange, N. J., 6—3, 6—0.

The third round of men's singles was completed today, most of the favorites scoring. Phillip Neer, Stanford University, was given a hard battle by H. R. Guild, Boston, the Californian winning 6—2, 6—2. C. N. White, University of Texas, won an interesting match from William Sherrard, Princeton, 6—3, 6—2.

Play in the doubles is well under way, the women having reached the fourth round and the men the third. An upset in the women's doubles was the defeat of Miss Ballin and Miss Bayard by Miss Baker and Miss Lillian Scharman, Brooklyn, 6—4, 6—3.

DARTMOUTH SQUADS LEAVE.

Golf and Tennis Teams Start for Intercollegiate Tourneys.

Special to The New York Times.

HANOVER, N. H., June 21.—Dartmouth's golf and tennis teams, entered in the intercollegiate tournaments next week, left here today for a few days of practice before the opening matches. The tennis championships will be staged at the Merion Cricket Club, Haverford, Pa., while the golf tourney is scheduled for the Garden City Golf Club, Long Island.

OXFORD WINS ON COURTS.

OXFORD, England, June 21 (Associated Press).—Oxford defeated Cambridge in the singles of the intervarsity lawn tennis tournament here today. The Oxford players won six sets to the three scored by Cambridge. Axel B. Graven of California, who as a student at Oxford represented that college, defeated J. H. Van Alen, New York student at Cambridge in the finals, by the score of 6—7, 6—2, 6—4.

Bicycle Races Postponed.

NEWARK, June 21.—The bicycle races scheduled to be held at the Velodrome here tonight were postponed on account of rain. They will be held tomorrow night.

Middie Plebes Send Their Crew Away to the Echo of 'Four-N'

Special to The New York Times.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., June 21.—Although their old comrades among the midshipmen have graduated or gone on the practice cruise, the Naval Academy oarsmen left this morning for Poughkeepsie with the old navy "Four-N" yell ringing in their ears. The 400 or more plebes, most of whom had been midshipmen less than a week, had been coached by some of the young officers, and gave the ringing yell with much feeling. Before leaving, Glendon, the veteran coach, expressed the belief that his crew would win the big event if conditions were such that the chances were even.

NAVY IN FIRST SPIN AT POUGHKEEPSIE

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., June 21.—If the Navy loses as little time in going out to win the varsity race in the intercollegiate regatta on Monday as it lost tonight in getting on the water after its arrival from Annapolis, then the victory is as good as stowed away in the Middies' duffle bags. The Navy crew dropped off a train at Highland Station at 6:25 this evening and within twenty minutes were on the water and headed up-stream for their first row. It was the fastest piece of work of the kind Poughkeepsie rivermen have ever seen.

The Middies gave every indication of being in the best of condition and when they paddled away from the float they looked much as they did last June when they lined up for the start of the race in which they outrowed the best crews the country had to offer. The crew is not the biggest or the huskiest on the river, but it gave every indication of being that same powerful machine that it was last Summer.

Dick Glendon, coach of the eight, reported an uneventful trip from Annapolis. He said that there was no need of more than four or five days' rowing on the regatta course here for a crew that has the opportunity to get out and row three miles or more on its home course and he indicated that the Navy, in his opinion, had not lost a thing by reason of its late arrival on the course here.

Washington in Fast Trial.

While the arrival of the Navy was the feature of what started to be a drab and uneventful day, yet Washington gave another thrill to the rowing camps by going over the full three-mile course in another time trial and covering the distance in something like 13 minutes 45 seconds. One unofficial watch got the time a few seconds faster than that. The Seattle crew had excellent water and wind today. The trial was rowed just before 4 o'clock when the tide was running out fast and the wind was blowing steadily out of the northeast.

Washington rowed the first two miles with the best at about 32 and raised it to 33 in the last mile. The shell fairly raced along, helped as it was by the tide and wind. It was every bit an satisfactory a piece of rowing as the Seattle eight did yesterday and has convinced all the other coaches that the crew is one to be feared in the big race.

Rain and high winds kept all the crews except Pennsylvania and Washington indoors in the morning. Columbia was out in the afternoon and paddled down over the course in slack water, the varsity showing much better form than previously. Although Jim Rice has kept mum about the time made by his varsity eight in its trial on Tuesday, it has been learned that the new eight just shaded 14 minutes 55 seconds. This may be compared with Pennsylvania's 14 minutes 40 seconds made just a few minutes earlier and with Washington's time of 14 minutes 27 seconds made several hours earlier when conditions were better.

Cornell Hits Lively Pace.

The Cornell crews went over the course in the afternoon and the varsity slashed right along at a high pace, the stroke getting up to 34 and 36 on occasion. The freshman boat was handicapped by reason of the fact that Dollbaum at No. 6 was out because of boils. Bowen took his place and is likely to stay there for a day or two, because John Hoyte will not put Dollbaum back until he is in good shape again.

Syracuse started a time trial but when the varsity crew got down as far as the bridge, the two-mile mark, Coach Jim Ten Eyck called a halt. Pennsy had an easy day of it. Joe Wright let all four crews off with short paddles. He devoted much time to the freshmen in the morning, drilling them in getting away on racing starts.

CANADA'S CHAMPION GOLFER DEFEATED

Thompson Loses to Bredin of Detroit, 3 and 1, in Tourney for Dominion Title.

ANCASTER, Ont., June 21.—Three of Canada's leading amateur golfers—Frank Thompson, Dominion champion; G. H. Turpin, Quebec titleholder, and George Lyon, Toronto veteran—met defeat today in the second round of the Canadian amateur championship tournament on the Hamilton Club links.

Thompson lost to L. L. Bredin of Detroit 3 and 1. Turpin, playing miserably, was defeated by G. M. Jones of Toronto, 13 and 12, and Lyon fell an easy victim of W. J. Thompson 8 and 6.

Besides Bredin, only one other United States player, P. McAuliffe of Buffalo, survived the round. McAuliffe won from W. M. Hodgson, Montreal, 2 and 1. This match was the keenest of the day and was followed by a large gallery. C. P. Paton, Danvers, Mass., was eliminated by C. C. Fraser, Montreal, 4 and 2, and J. T. Cuthbert, Winnipeg, took his match with S. F. Hyde, Buffalo, 4 and 2.

HOOVER ROWS ON THAMES.

American Sculling Champion Practices for English Regatta.

HENLEY-ON-THAMES, June 21.—Walter Hoover, American single sculls champion, preparing for the regatta here, was out for a short while for practice last evening and twice today. His form already has created a favorable impression, but so far he has not attempted any serious work.

To Meet for N. E. Baseball Title.

LYNN, Mass., June 21.—Mayor Harlan A. McPhetres announced today that the baseball team of the Cony High School, Augusta, Me., had accepted a challenge to meet Lynn English High here next Friday in a game for the championship of New England.

ELI CREW ROWS IN SPITE OF RAIN

Storm Hampers Yale and Harvard on Thames—Both Colleges Have Evening Spin.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW LONDON, Conn., June 21.—When the Yale and Harvard oarsmen awoke this morning they found a heavy northeast storm in progress, which did not let up until about noon. Dr. Howe abandoned the usual practice on the river and the Harvard squad spent an hour in callisthenics on the veranda of the freshman quarters. The Yale squad was not deterred the pelting rain, however, and Coach Corderry sent the crews down stream as usual, in short stretches, as far as the submarine base.

This evening, shortly before 7 o'clock, when the storm had subsided to a considerable extent, both Yale and Harvard launched their shells. Harvard's two varsity eights made a bee line from the boathouse for the flag at the upper end of the course, and arrived at the starting stake just as two of the Yale crews reached the spot.

Harvard crews gave way to the Ell men, who immediately got under way and started at a rattling pace down the course. The Harvard contingent watched the work of the rivals at close range. There was a stiff northerly breez blowing, an da strong tide favoring the Yale boats. Harvard, believing the Ells were out for a two-mile race, was getting ready to follow them under the watch when the Nw Haven oarsmen ceased rowing after covering a quarter of a mile.

Harvard Crews Race.

Ten minutes after Yale started down stream, the Crimson varsity crews were having a brush for a mile, and the race ended with the second varsity boat in the lead by about a length. Both crews rowed close to a 34 stroke, and the second varsity's time was 04:57½. Harvard freshmen and combination crews also rowed at high speed from the upper end of the course, but the scrap was stopped by Coach Bert Haines before the half-mile was reached, and no time was taken.

The first races of the year on the Thames River between the two camps will take place late tomorrow afternoon. Yale and Harvard combination crews will be the first to have a battle, followed by the graduate, or gentlemen's, eight. The combination crew, composed of four varsity and four freshmen substitutes, will have a two-mile race and the graduates will struggle for a half-mile only, which distance is generally too long for the veterans, who are out of training. There is a trophy in this event, the Robert F. Herrick Cup. The cup goes to the camp which first wins it five times. Yale now possesses the trophy, having won it last year.

There are very few yachts in the harbor as yet, the heavy fog and stormy weather for the past week having hindered the pleasure craft, which usually begin to arrive a few days before the races. There is practically no betting on the big race, capabilities of the two crews being somewhat of a mystery. Robert F. Herrick, Chairman of Harvard's Rowing Committee, said tonight when asked as to the speed of this year's Crimson crew:

Herrick Non-committal.

"There is no way of telling just how fast Harvard's varsity crew is this year. If I were to guess, I should say the eight is faster than last year's crew. Time trials count for nothing when it comes to the actual work of the men on race day."

Referee W. A. Meickleham, accompanied by Regatta Committee Chairman F. V. Chappell, Robert F. Herrick, Captains Gibson and Appleton, Coach Corderry and Howe, went over the four-mile course in a launch this afternoon and apparently found everything in satisfactory shape.

Judging by appearances around the Yale rowing colony at Gales Ferry, the Ells are by no means discouraged over their prospect in the coming race with their old water rivals from Cambridge. There is a tone of confidence and lighthearterness around the quarters that one would hardly expect, since crews which have been buffeted and cuffed around in early races, and then entirely reorganised and put under a new system less than a month before the big test.

Despite previous happenings and a week of rainy weather dismal enough to discourage any one, there is nothing blue around the Yale quarters but the big blue flag that flaps from the flagpole, and the tips of the oarsmen's sweeps. It is the old bulldog spirit.

Yale's varsity eight has had a tumultuous season. It was defeated by Columbia, Pennsylvania, Princeton and the Navy. It started out under the English system of rowing, as taught by Coach Jim Corderry, and was then suddenly called upon to forget all previous training and assimilate an entirely different system under the leadership of the new Yale mentor appointed less than four weeks ago, George Corderry, who turned the shell topsy-turvy in order to get a combination that would best adapt itself to his ideas. The crew will row without its leader, Captain Langhorne Gibson, who was forced out of the boat because of a strained back.

Rapid Improvement Shown.

Those who have watched the new combination say that the crew has been coming along at a fast pace under his direction. They point out that the advance has been nothing short of remarkable, everything considered, but they are wondering if there has been time enough to weld it into a machine.

Yale and Harvard Captains will toss for positions in the races some time tomorrow. It is reported that Harvard backers have sent a large sum of betting money up to the Yale camp, the greater part of the wagers to be placed even on the Harvard varsity. Yale is slow in covering any bets.

WINS GOLF CUP OUTRIGHT.

PHILADELPHIA, June 21.—Maxwell R. Marston of Philadelphia today won the Lynnewood Hall golf trophy outright by defeating R. E. Knepper of Princeton, 4 up and 3 to play, in the final round of the tournament at the Huntingdon Valley Country Club. Marston won the trophy in 1916 and 1921, the three victories giving him permanent possession of the cup.

Marston and Knepper reached the final round by defeating, respectively, D. G. Corkran and J. Wood Platt. Knepper won from Platt by 1 up in 19 holes and Marston beat Corkran by 3 and 1.

DEMPSEY ON WAY EAST.

THE TORPEDOED SUBSIDY.

President HARDING's yielding to the Congressional leaders on the Ship Subsidy bill was done as gracefully as possible, and his retreat from his former position was "well screened," to use a phrase of his own, but the effect is unmistakable. The bill is dead for this session. To consent to defer action on it by the House until after the Tariff bill has got into conference is really to consent to its defeat. Even if the House were to pass the measure at the end of September or in October, the Senate would surely kill it. And the President himself admits that it will be impossible to pass the Subsidy bill in the short session of Congress beginning in December.

Members of the House are naturally reported to be "enthusiastic" over the President's coming round to their point of view. They have attained their main objects. They have led the President to see that some things can be done in Congress and some can not. His present change of view must have been due to the strongest kind of representations made to him by the leaders of the House. They doubtless assured him that the Subsidy bill could be passed only with the greatest difficulty and at the peril of splitting the Republican Party asunder. Aside from its main provisions, many of them objectionable and unpopular, the measure was loaded with prohibition dynamite. Chairman LASKER of the Shipping Board had placed many members of the House in an excruciating dilemma by linking subsidies and rum. If they voted for a ship subsidy without at the same time enacting that no liquor could be sold on the high seas under the American flag, they would have to face the wrath of their prohibition constituents. Now the whole disagreeable and dangerous matter is shelved indefinitely, and Congressmen may have their little vacations and go back to their districts ostensibly to carry out the President's recommendation that the Subsidy bill be left for the appraisal of the American people. But as the Representatives go they will grin. They will understand perfectly that the withdrawal of Executive pressure for the immediate passage of the bill means its abandonment.

Since the Administration has thus been forced to recast its plans for a shipping subsidy, ought it not to begin to recast its entire policy on that subject? President HARDING is within the facts when he pictures the present plight of American shipping under Government operation as intolerable. Even with economies made, it is losing about $50,000,000 a year. This is a heavy charge on the Treasury. That it might be removed through means of a subsidy to private shipowners was, of course, the hope of the proponents of the bill. But the measure has now gone glimmering. If a subsidy were the only recourse, there could be no reasonable hope of making it available with Congressional sanction before a year from now. Meanwhile, the shipping situation cries aloud for relief. The Administration ought to call in the most expert knowledge to discover if there is not some way out besides waiting for an impossible subsidy. We know what the British Government did with the tonnage left on its hands at the end of the war. It sold the ships virtually at auction, often taking but a fraction of their original cost. Our own Shipping Board has made fumbling attempts of that kind, but has never adopted a resolute policy of cutting to the bone and accepting the necessary losses.

Is something to the wishes of the House President HARDING may say that he merely bowed to the inevitable. He spoke now about desiring to ascertain the popular "reaction" to the Ship Subsidy bill. It had, however, already been manifested. It is because Representatives found the measure intensely and growingly unpopular that they despaired of being able to proceed with it. This hostility coming up to them from their constituents is not likely to abate with the lapse of time or to be lessened by anything that Congressmen out for re-election may say in their campaign speeches. The majority of them will be much more inclined to dodge the bill than to defend it. So that the likelihood of anything being done about it in Congress before the elections is so small that no one will much regard it. The Administration would be wise to conclude that the whole scheme has failed and to ask itself earnestly what alternative plan should be adopted.

MINNESOTA FASHION.

In a temporary lapse from his accustomed geniality, Senator NEW of Indiana remarked a few days ago at Washington: "Stay here and stick to your job and you will surely be turned out of office." But his generalization was built upon too narrow premises. The thing did not work that way in Maine, nor did Minnesota turn her back upon Senator KELLOGG for having stayed in torrid Washington rather than go home to look after his fences in breezy St. Paul. When he announced some months ago his purpose to seek a re-election, he served notice that he would make no personal campaign, for which he said he had neither aptitude nor time. If the Republican voters desired to give him another nomination, they had his record before them and could do about it as they pleased. The result is that he was easily a winner in this week's primary.

Against him the Democrats have nominated an estimable lady. It is only a question of time, of course, when some woman will enter the United States Senate, but it may be doubted if Mrs. OLESON will be the first. She will doubtless receive a "courtesy" vote, and will enjoy the active sympathy of many of her sex in other States. She will need it all, for the political odds against her election are heavy. Senator KELLOGG had in 1916 a plurality of about 70,000 over his Democratic opponent, and HARDING carried Minnesota in 1920 by nearly 400,000. Mrs. OLESON bears herself like a person in whose bright lexicon there is no such word as impossible, but if she should succeed in defeating Senator KELLOGG it would look as if she had a wonder-working Providence on her side. Meanwhile, she has the honor of the nomination, good at least until November, even if it prove empty afterward.

HOW CONSERVATIVE IS LABOR?

When the American Federation of Labor set its face against W. Z. FOSTER's plan of "industrial unionism," word went out that the conservative element had scored a victory. Now we are told that it is in a similar spirit that the Federation has refused to reaffirm its declaration in favor of "public ownership and democratic operation" of railways—in short, the Plumb plan. Jubilation is checked, however, by the fact that the Dual Alliance of last February, under which the United Mine Workers and the railway brotherhoods agreed to act in combination, is rapidly mobilizing.

At Montreal in 1920 Mr. GOMPERS and his supporters fought the Plumb-plan declaration, but were defeated by almost three to one. At Denver last year he made no opposition and the declaration was reaffirmed without a ripple. That the present convention drops the issue may mean simply that it has a more immediate program. Neither Mr. LEWIS, speaking for the miners, nor Mr. JEWELL, speaking for the railway unions, leaves us in doubt. The plan is to hold up the entire nation by paralyzing the two chief basic industries, coal and transportation.

The miners command much sympathy because their industry is badly organized. The railway unions have no just grievance. As the Labor Board points out, their wages are "very considerably larger" than in 1917 or in 1915. They had their chosen representatives on the Railroad Labor Board, and these were the only members to vote against the proposed reduction. Two of them wrote a minority opinion, which distorted and positively misrepresented the majority opinion. Ever since, the railway men have been flooded with similarly false propaganda. The strategy is becoming more and more manifest. So long as the railways operate, a threatened shortage of coal may be averted. Separately, both strikes are doomed. In combination, the workers of the two industries think that they have a strangle-hold on the nation.

When the Joint rail and mine strike was outlined at Cincinnati last Thursday, Mr. LEWIS said, reassuringly, that it was possible to win it "and at the same time give every proper consideration to the welfare of the organized working men and women of the country." In plain words, the nation was to be strangled without strangling the workers in any industry—the old fallacy underlying the general strike. It is to be noted that the leaders of the "Big Four" brotherhoods gave only a halting allegiance last March to the Dual Alliance and have stood silently aloof from the present campaign. Nor are other unions enthusiastic. When the question of the rail strike came up on Tuesday at Cincinnati its reception was significantly cold. If the strike fails, as it eventually must, most of the unions will be shot to pieces. There is still time to bear these truths home to the rank and file. As to their leaders, no doubt remains. Their conservatism is that of Br'er Rabbit; when "he lay low" he was at his craftiest.

TARIFF AND BONUS.

In an all-day session of the Senate a mountain of squabbling brought forth a mouse-like resolution. The Bonus bill is to become the unfinished business as soon as the Tariff bill is passed. The resolution pledges the Senate to remain in session till the Bonus bill is disposed of and to keep it continually before the Senate to the exclusion of other than emergency business. Any Senator can move, and Mr. LA FOLLETTE is expected to move, to set aside the Tariff bill for the Bonus bill. Only a majority vote is needed for that purpose. The bonus Senators are not only in the majority, but apparently they can muster more than two-thirds of the Senators. Will they be permanently content with having made a futile demonstration of their loyalty to the "soldier vote"?

The tactics of the majority of the Democratic Senators are obvious. They will play the bonus against the tariff, the tariff against the bonus. From time to time, as if progress on the interminable tariff weren't slow enough, they will accelerate it by bonus motions and discussions apt to produce heat and fury and long-winded declamation. Mr. LA FOLLETTE, who is best described as a permanent minority of one, eager for the bonus as he is, is going to make things pleasant for his opponent and colleague, Mr. LENROOT, by emitting several "complete speeches" on the tariff. Time wasn't made for Mr. LA FOLLETTE; and the Democrats will be grateful for the large share he is sure to have in delaying the passage of the Tariff bill, which Republican optimists set for some time "in August." The inevitable clashes, interruptions and side speeches will be apt to interfere with that rosy calendar.

The more the Tariff bill is ventilated in the Senate the sicker the country will be of it. The Democrats see that; and they show a malicious skill in protracting the agony, often with Republican assistance, conscious or unconscious. As to the Bonus bill, it serves to emphasize the division between the Executive and the majority of his party in Congress. So long as it is not passed, it remains a growing irritation to the Republicans. To the Democrats it is more than a device for halting the tariff. If it is passed and vetoed, the breach between Mr. HARDING and Congress is made concrete. On the other hand, if he change his mind and consent to it, as the Republican bonus advocates in Congress have assumed all along and now seem to assume with renewed confidence, there is an end to that "leadership" which has hardly begun. It is inconceivable that he should do this; and if he did, he would lose much of that popular confidence which is now depended upon to compensate for the want of confidence in Congress.

The Democratic game is shrewd. It is simply still more to bedevil the Republicans. There they are, sluggishly trying to pass a Tariff bill which the people don't want and many Senators want only half-heartedly, and a Bonus bill calculated for election purposes only and condemned by the majority of public opinion. As our Republican neighbor, The Tribune, once more tells them, they are on "the road to disaster." The Democratic Senators are amiably yanking and pushing them along that road.

CATCHING UP WITH SCIENCE.

Mr. RAYMOND FOSDICK, once Commissioner of Accounts for New York City, has in a commencement address at Wellesley College cast up the accounts of civilization. He finds that the scientific assets of civilization have been enormously increased, but that they are, in large amounts, not immediately available for human betterment. Science has multiplied man's physical powers ten thousand times, but Mr. FOSDICK is not "dogmatically sure" that there has been any substantial improvement in the human stock since the days of the Egyptians or the Greeks. (The present Commissioner of Accounts, who has been devoting his leisure attention to Clio, could probably speak with dogmatic certitude as to this if the former Commissioner were to make application at his old desk in City Hall.) As to the last century, however, Mr. FOSDICK says unqualifiedly that it has not brought about an improvement in human society comparable with the tremendous gain in our mechanical equipment.

With the instinct of a Commissioner of Accounts still upon him, Mr. FOSDICK inquires whether we have liquid "spiritual assets" to counterbalance the new forces which he seems to regard as potential liabilities. Unless we have, the implication is that we shall go bankrupt. He inquires also whether we have developed intellectual and moral capacities that can guide the stupendous machine we have set up. Here is government, for example, which has to deal with "complicated" bond issues, with "subtle" transportation problems, with "involved" plans of taxation and with "technical" educational problems; and yet elections are fought out on issues involving these matters of which the majority of voters have no adequate conception, though we proceed as if we had and sometimes elect men who are as ignorant as ourselves.

The supreme question is whether education can "run fast enough" not only to overcome the lead which science already has, but to move on abreast of science in the future when life will be "speeded up infinitely beyond the present." In certain parts of the world we see the rusting and rotting misery that has come from the lagging of the political, industrial and social system behind man's inventions. All this is but prophetic of what will overtake any democracy that does not let itself be guided by those who are keeping up with science. "Breed a greater average intelligence?" Yes, but with it the sort of prescience, as defined by WILLIAM JAMES, which will help one to knew a good man when one sees him, and then a disinterested patriotism that will let him lead.

THE SENSITIVE TURK.

All news from Constantinople is open to suspicion, so it may not be true that MUSTAFFA KEMAL has refused to allow the international committee to investigate Turkish atrocities. But at least it is plausible. The Turks have never been very enthusiastic about this inquiry. When it was first proposed by the British, the Turks laid down a long list of conditions. Besides the British, French, Italian and American investigators, provided by the original proposal, there must be Turks and Russians as well. Not only Turkish but Greek atrocities must be investigated. Most of these conditions have been or will be met. America has agreed to come in. The Greeks will be investigated, too; though the limiting of the inquiry to the past year will leave out most of the misdeeds charged against them.

Now KEMAL discovers that conclusions drawn "by officers of enemy Governments" are "inevitably biased." Enemy Governments? England could no doubt be classed as hostile to Turkish nationalism, but not France and Italy, whose diplomatic support has been so valuable to KEMAL, and whose citizens have supplied him with a good part of his war material. America's participation was insisted on so vigorously by the Turks that it is unimaginable that KEMAL considers us an "enemy Government"—especially as there is a chance that the American members of the commission may be Turcophiles. But KEMAL now stands on a high plane of national honor, and says that no Government in the world would accept such a proposal, even from friendly States. The Turks seem to feel that they can't stand investigation even by their friends.

A TEMPERAMENTAL JUNE.

June has been this year the despair of poets and the distress of brides. May robed herself in the blue skies and flowery meads of June, was fair at morn, radiant at noon, serene at eve, and seductive under the stars. Unusually, May is temperamental, with more tears than smiles, cold at heart and sometimes sullen. But this year when June came from the wings her part had already been played. She was not herself. She has behaved like a woman scorned. She sulked, paroxysms followed tantrums, and then she cried her eyes out. In her swollen features nobody could recognise the June of honeymoons and the troubadours. "June may be had by the poorest comer," wrote the poet, who added:

Then heaven tries earth if it be in tune,

Earth has been too sodden this June for that sort of thing. Even the Weather Bureau can say nothing sympathetic about the angry beauty. It admits a precipitation of 6.17 inches in twenty days and rain on thirteen. The other seven days June was torrid. The "poorest comer" has had enough of such antics. "Now," said the poet, "the heart is so full that a drop overflows it." It is bad enough of June to have destroyed such illusions and made the poets ridiculous. But she has done worse. She has spoiled one college commencement after another, interfered with the games of the undergraduates, and ruined the finery of sisters and lovers. Nothing would grow according to the calendar. There was not sun enough. Winds were violent. The rain fell like a deluge. Where was a rose garden not rent and stricken? Crops would not mature. In what a state was the strawberry bed! The market-gardeners and the farmers anathematised June. In all an evil record for the queen of months, and there are only shamed promises of the Weather Bureau that she will redeem herself in the days remaining.

The philosophical way of looking at this betrayal is that no one could expect two Junes in one year. May was the June of 1922, and the calendar June was a reversion to the aberrations of the normal May.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Boston Has Some New Terms.

A serious and interesting change of sentiment is revealed by The Boston Transcript in the course of a long discussion of Boston THE DAY—how it was celebrated and by whom, in the past and now.

When the anniversary was established, and for long afterward, it was utilized by the men who had participated in the Revolution or shared in the results of the victory achieved by the colonists as an occasion not only for exulting at success over a powerful enemy, but also for expressing anew the feelings against that enemy which had led to the starting of the war. The celebrators were the people who had resented and resisted foreign domination for reasons which they well remembered. Their grievances against the British were fresh in their minds, and not at all less bitter were their animosities against the part of the Colonial population that had sided with those whom the other part regarded as cruel oppressors—the "better element" which, like all conservatives, antagonized the changing of a system under which they themselves were prosperous and therefore contented.

So Bunker Hill Day was long observed with enthusiasm by the unreconciled foes of England and of the Tories—what we now call the "old stock." According to The Transcript, that is no longer the case, and yet Bunker Hill Day, after a slow loss of public attention and a degeneration into an only partially observed holiday devoted to sports and trips into the country, again is gaining in popularity.

Not only that, but again it is used for the rehearsal of grievances against England and for reviving or perpetuating hatred of her. Now, however, the celebrating is done not by the descendants of the "old stock," but almost wholly by representatives of the new one, Boston's present political rulers. The children of the sometime rebels have learned to look at the English with kinder eyes and have come to occupy, as regards the later arrivals, a position not entirely unlike that of the Tories in other days as regards their own contemporaries and fellow-Colonists. They are not harshly treated, as the "loyalists" often were, but they hear occasional jeers.

Hearers Who Could Understand.

Mr. MARCONI's achievements, except as to their broader results, are so nearly incomprehensible to the great majority of those who hear and read about them that what may be called his fame is, with the generality, rather that of a wizard or miracle-worker than that of the very sober, serious and practical man of science he is. It is only when he has before him such auditors as gathered in Engineering Societies Building this week that his talk about his discoveries is understood in detail, and it is then that he gets the appreciation presumably most valued by him.

That its expression by these experts was enthusiastic and prolonged is convincing proof as to the value of what he has done. But one does not have to be an expert in etherial communication, or even an engineer, to realize the importance of the success attained by him and his fellow-workers in giving at last a fixed and chosen direction to the waves his apparatus sends out over seas and continents. Hitherto there has been an enormous waste of energy because the impulses were propelled in every direction, and apparently now, or soon, there will be the same conservation and concentration of force that take place when a reflector is placed behind a light and a lens before it.

Perhaps the engineers knew before that every internal combustion engine, including all those in our innumerable automobiles, is a "sending station" and that their uncovenanted and unsignificant waves are a bother and a nuisance to the radio workers, but the fact has been concealed from common folk till now.

A Familiar Type Well Painted.

Not all of us like everything said by Mayor HYLAN, but his remarks about public servants who make the mistake of considering themselves the superiors of their employers will meet with general approval and deserve it. He described them as "men who strut about like pouter pigeons, who are puffed up with their own petty importance, and scowl and growl at all with whom they have contact in office hours," and he correctly characterised them as "a nuisance in the department and a continual source of irritation and annoyance to the taxpayer, from whose pockets their salaries are paid."

The picture is easily recognized, not that all either of major or minor public officials are of that sort, but that too many of them illustrate in this way their lack of the sense of relative values.

But it is not only in municipal or other governmental offices that these victims of delusion are to be found. Some of them sell railway tickets, others are in banks, especially savings banks, haughtily handling money not their own, and still others—the very worst, perhaps—in hospitals and the charity organizations, big and little. Imitation of the pouter pigeon is a lamentably common human weakness.

Sometimes even the Mayor himself—but there! Never mind that. What he said was true.

Okefinokee Society Project.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

May I direct the attention of your readers to the activities of the Okefinokee (Georgia) Society, which was organized in 1918 "to give authentic publicity regarding the Okefinokee Swamp; to secure its reservation and preservation for public, educational, scientific and recreational uses"? The Okefinokee is known as "the greatest wonder of Georgia"; it covers nearly 700 square miles and is noted for its historical and literary association, for the beauty and charm of its diversified scenery and its interest as a faunal and floral area. Its existence is threatened by rapidly developing commercial operations. The society I have named aims to secure certain representative portions of the swamp as the nucleus of a reservation to which additions may be made as funds or opportunity permit. Two of the great swamps of the Atlantic seaboard, the Dismal Swamp and the Everglades, have already gone beyond the possibility of preservation in a natural state. It is a great welfare movement this, to save the swamp, and your readers may feel interested enough to participate in what is a national cause.

The Mayor's Music Centre.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Not many months ago I had the pleasure of reading in your editorial columns a somewhat sharp reproach on the idea of erecting a music centre as a peace memorial. However since Mayor HYLAN has set out to top himself "culture," whatever that may be, and for such a fabulous sum, your pen has stirred but once and that in a criticism of the Mayor's method. May I not revive in your memory the passing "dust" you delivered in your former editorial which finishes with a glowing tribute to our dead and stated that their memory was something far greater than art or artists? Surely it is your duty as a great newspaper to follow up your convictions or at least say why you have changed your position.

CONAN DOYLE REPLIES.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I will not answer P. W. Wilson's very prejudiced and one-sided article so far as it relates to myself, but there are some points of fact which I must set right, as otherwise it might seem that I acquiesced in them.

1. He speaks of my rupture with Filson Young as having been because he exposed some hocus pocus at a seance. I quarrelled with Mr. Young because when he was my guest at a seance he himself personated a spirit and played faked tricks on other sitters. He has admitted this. Does Mr. Wilson defend that conduct? If not, what is it that he is complaining of?

2. That I resented some "exposures" by Truth. The medium attacked was a Mrs. Britain. I had sent this woman 100 mourners and in the 100 cases she had given names, particulars and evidential messages from the dead in 80 cases. She had done more, to my knowledge, to console humanity than any one of my acquaintances. Was I not right, then, to resent it when she was abused by an ignorant man who knew nothing of these facts?

3. That mediums I have recommended have been convicted of fraud. Any medium may be convicted, because the mere fact of being a medium is illegal by our benighted laws, but no medium I have ever recommended has been shown to be fraudulent in a sense which could be accepted by any real psychic student. The same applies, I believe, to mediums recommended by Sir Oliver Lodge.

Mr. Wilson seems to be one of these strangely simple skeptics who believe that because a conjurer can make on a prepared stage a colorable imitation of some phenomenon, therefore the same phenomenon when it comes in your own dining room must be a conjuring trick. The world has been fooled long enough by absurdities of this sort. Houdini, Robert Kellar, Herrmann, Jacob and many other of the greatest conjurers in the world have agreed that psychic phenomena are on an entirely different plane to their own tricks, and I can, if challenged, give their words and the references from which they are extracted. How thin, then, is the argument that because Maskelyne in order to draw an audience imitates ectoplasm, therefore the experiments of men like Crawford, Schrenck-Notzing, Geley and others, extending over years and illustrated by hundreds of photographs, are also conjuring tricks! I have had several good photographs of ectoplasm sent me by American psychics since I have been in New York. Are these conjuring tricks also?

I wrote about spiritualism in "Light" in the year 1887, and here I am writing about it still. And yet Mr. Wilson ventures to say that it is some sudden freak of mine and that I may abandon it tomorrow. To pretend that I am a man who has been changeable in his views is most absurd to any one who knows me. However, as I said before, I prefer to ignore all personalities.

Mr. Wilson is annoyed because I consider that Christianity would be in a stronger position if the Old Testament was not admitted to have an authority which could be compared with the new. To many of us the two books seem contradictory in the spirit of their teaching. If Mr. Wilson can really show that the doctrine of an eye for an eye is consistent with the Sermon on the Mount, or if he can make us understand why we have dropped half the Mosaic laws and yet quote the other half as if they were inspired, he would be a real help to earnest and honest minds.

Mr. Wilson says one thing, however, which is profoundly true. It is that all of us who take up this matter lose prestige by doing so. If any man wants prestige or any other worldly advantage let him leave it alone. It is only for those who have the moral courage and the self-sacrifice to care nothing about prestige or the opinion of the world so long as they know that they are furthering the cause of the most precious truth that has ever come to suffering humanity.

Man-Eating Sharks.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In your issue of today commenting on the fatality that happened to the unfortunate young lady on the Florida Coast who was so severely bitten by a barracuda, the West Indian name for that fish, you make a statement: "In the West Indies, where sharks are numerous, they are little feared by those who know their habits best, and many investigations of the subject have failed to find a well-authenticated case of killing or mutilation by them."

You are altogether wrong in the above statement. At Kingston, Jamaica, B. W. I., only as recently as the month of March of the present year a young girl of 14 was attacked by a nine-foot man-eating shark while bathing not far from the shore and had her leg severed at the thigh by the monster, which was afterward killed by an English deep sea fisherman who was at that time on the island. The second instance of my personal knowledge was the case of a young Frenchman at Savanna-la-mar, a seaport in the same island, who, although warned not to go into the water on account of sharks, did so, and was so horribly bitten by a man-eater that he died a few hours after. This occurred in May of the present year.

JUNE ROSES.

The purple iris drooped and died,
That last bright, fragile flower of Spring;
And June has brought her roses in
And makes her offering
Of scented beauty to the year
That sees joy come and disappear.

If you would gather roses, then,
Let nothing make you late.
For none may buy back yesterday
And roses never wait.
Put by your grief and reverently
Do homage to a blossoming tree.

Ugly things may hold you down
Or drive you in some dusty way
With burdens that you may not shirk
Or understand, and yet, today
Here is a perfect thing that you
May love and own an hour or two.

The wind that blows bright petals down,
The breaking, heating rain,
Still visit men and gardens with
Their mystery of pain.
And men and gardens go their way

But beauty is the treasure that
No thief may take from you.
If you've seen roses swaying where
A little wind goes through—
If you have known their scented breath,
Why need you be afraid of death?

Oh, let no lovely thing be lost!
The rose is yours to have and hold,
And you will find it in your heart
When all your ways grow cold.
Beauty shall lead you at the end,
Gently as a familiar friend.

URGES IMPARTIAL CHURCH.

Rhode Island Bishop Wants Both Sides Heard in Labor Troubles.

WICKFORD, R. I., June 21.—The duty of the Church in labor controversies is to hear both sides, "learn what the truth of the situation is, and then face it bravely," said Bishop James De Wolf Perry of the Episcopal Diocese of Rhode Island, in addressing the national conference of Episcopal social service workers here today. The conference is considering industrial problems.

Referring to the strike situation in Rhode Island, Bishop Perry said:

"The chief opportunity and responsibility of the Church in the situation here is a careful and sympathetic study of the entire problem. The right is not all on either side.

"For the Church the duty is to sit down with the representatives of both sides and get the facts; to learn from the manufacturers why they take the stand they have taken, and then to sit down with the intelligent leaders of the unions and learn from them the living conditions they face.

"Then it will be possible to try intelligently to interpret one to the other with truth and sincerity. Then may we hope to bring about a restoration of peace upon the principles for which the Church stands."

Bishop Perry urged rectors not to go before their congregations of workers in the rural districts "and complain of the employers," nor before congregations of employers in the cities and denounce the unions.

KING OF ITALY IN DENMARK.

He and Queen Helena Are Cheered by Copenhagen Crowds.

COPENHAGEN, June 21 (Associated Press).—King Victor Emmanuel and Queen Helena arrived in Copenhagen this morning for a State visit to King Christian, lasting three days. The Italian monarch, wearing the infantry uniform of his country, was greeted by King Christian, in the full dress uniform of the guards, when he alighted from the train. Queen Helena affectionately kissed Queen Alexandrine. The royal family then entered a carriage, and as they drove through the streets were cheered enthusiastically by enormous crowds. A detachment of Hussars, the King's bodyguard, and mounted police officers preceded the royal group. The streets were decorated with Danish and Italian colors.

Early this morning an airplane brought a message for King Victor Emmanuel from the Italian Ambassador in London. It is believed that the message concerns the Mediterranean conference to be held at London immediately after the royal visit here.

A state banquet and numerous other social functions have been planned for the entertainment of the royal visitors. There is to be a luncheon at King Christian's hunting lodge in the Royal Deer Park, a few miles outside of Copenhagen, and a special gala performance at the Royal Opera House.

AUSTRALIA CUTS FORCES.

Naval, Military and Air Defense Arms Are Affected.

SYDNEY, N. S. W., May 17.—(Associated Press Correspondence).—Naval, military and air branches of the Australian defense system are to be materially reduced, according to recent official announcement. Present estimates provide for a cut of about £1,750,000 from last year's expenditures and this is expected to be further reduced.

The army will be hit hardest. Junior cadet training is to be abolished and cadets will be trained only between the ages of 18 and 19. Two quotas of militia will be raised, instead of seven as formerly, with a two-year training course. Altogether the defensive strength of the Commonwealth will be reduced about 25 per cent., entailing the paying off of a large number of soldiers from Generals down and the discharge of many civilian employes.

Only one air squadron will be maintained, but a new system of training will increase the number of available pilots. Every encouragement will be given to civilian aviation.

HOUSE GREETS FILIPINOS.

Independence Commission Present When Appeal Goes Into Record.

WASHINGTON, June 21.—The Philippine Commission which came to Washington to urge independence for its country was received today by the House and entertained at luncheon by Speaker Gillett.

In introducing the members, who occupied seats in the Speaker's Gallery, Chairman Towner of the Insular Affairs Committee referred to the reason which prompted their visit and expressed gratification over the utmost good feeling which long has prevailed between the Filipinos and the people of the United States.

The petition presented to the President last Friday was put into the Congressional Record.

"In response to that appeal," said Representative Garrett, the Democratic leader, "the only difference between Mr. Towner and myself is that I would grant the Filipinos absolute and unqualified independence."

There was a round of applause from the visitors and Manuel Quezon, head of the delegation, who was on the floor.

FORM NEW CHURCH BODY.

Baptist Fundamentalists Hope to Win Other Conservatives.

Special to The New York Times.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., June 21.—Just before leaving this city the Fundamentalist delegates to the Northern Baptist Convention, which ended last night, organized themselves into a permanent body, with the Rev. Dr. J. C. Massee, pastor of Tremont Temple, Boston, as Chairman. They voted to have a "steering committee" of 150 members, with offices in Boston, New York, Chicago and Los Angeles.

The Fundamentalists voted not only to line up as many Baptists as possible on their side, but to try to win to their support the conservatives in theology of the Presbyterian, Methodist, Baptist, Congregationalist and other denominations. They claim they are fighting a battle which is going on in a quieter way in every communion.

GERMAN OFFICERS IN RUSSIA

PARIS, June 21 (Associated Press).—Considerable concern is felt in French official circles over the arrival in Moscow of a German military mission, of which Colonel Bauer, chief aid to General Ludendorff, and Colonel Hentsz, an assistant of Hugo Stinnes, are members. The officials say they have reason to believe the German military men have gone to Moscow to make a survey of the Soviet army with a view to a possible military accord between Germany and Russia.

The presence of German officers in Moscow, and the recent warlike utterances of M. Freunde, Chief of Staff of the Bolshevist army, are regarded by the French officials as significant.

IRISH NUN "VENERATED."

Congregation of Rites Honors Founder of Sisters of Charity Order.

ROME, June 21.—The Cardinals and prelates at a special meeting of the Congregation of Rites in the Vatican today voted for veneration to "the Servant of God" Mary Frances Alkenhead, who founded the Order of Sisters of Charity in Ireland in 1815. The privilege of veneration under such title to a canonized person was granted by Pope Urban VIII. (1623-1644), but has never been exercised until now.

URGES A PERMANENT TARIFF COMMISSION

BOARD OF 10 LIFE MEMBERS

Would Ascertain Conversion Costs to Equal Difference Between Values Here and Abroad.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 21.—The Fordney-McCumber tariff bill is not a scientific measure and the present method of framing bills is not only unscientific but also illogical, according to Senator Frelinghuysen of New Jersey, a member of the Committee on Finance, who spoke in the Senate today.

An amendment to the pending bill which would create a tariff commission of ten members with life tenures of office and salaries of $12,000 a year each, the duty of which commission it would be to investigate conversion costs, differences and report to Congress, was introduced by Senator Frelinghuysen. A fund of $1,000,000 would be authorized to carry out the duties of the commission. There will never be, said the Senator, a tariff that meets the needs of the country so long as the present system of framing revenue bills is continued.

The American public, Senator Frelinghuysen declared, is awake to the abuses of the present system of tariff making and "this awakening," he added, "should be a warning to all of us to take the tariff out of politics by providing legislation setting up machinery for a scientific system of levying tariff duties, and for that purpose I have offered the amendment creating a tariff commission."

"The tariff bill now under consideration," continued Senator Frelinghuysen, "is not a scientific measure. I say this although I did my share as a member of the Finance Committee in framing it. I hold that it is not scientific because of the system on which it is based, a system that is not the product of either the Republican or Democratic Party.

"Our tariffs of the past have been the result of approximation and by reason of the fact that the rates have been fixed by statute, they have been inflexible. Therefore, any rate improperly fixed has not been subject to change or revision because no Government agency has the power to revise by amendment. Any injustice caused by too high or too low a rate must, necessarily, rest imposed on industry until a new tariff bill is written.

"Let us analyze the conversion cost method. An additional important advantage it possesses over the total cost of manufacture theory is found in the fact that ascertaining conversion costs, we ascertain the costs at the source. In obtaining facts regarding the cost of manufacture of any article, totals only are obtained. In determining conversion costs, the cost of each step in the processing of an article, from the raw material to the finished product is determined. These processes in each industry for specific articles are essentially similar. Therefore, in discovering original conversion costs in specific industries, the foundation is laid for establishing the conversion costs of any article in that particular industry.

"The second act in the Republican tariff show was to have been staged this afternoon, but Senator Watson of Indiana, who will have the star part in this act, was unable to be present. The show will be given tomorrow afternoon. Everything was ready, had the Indiana Senator been able to gain recognition. His desk was piled high with foreign-made articles, among the most conspicuous being a hand-painted monkey-doll, a stew pan, a rifle and a clock that runs 400 days without winding."

FEARS GERMAN RIVALRY.

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., June 21.—Warning that business competition of the most dangerous character was coming from Germany was sounded today by V. R. Hawthorne, Secretary of the mechanical division of the American Railway Association, whose convention closed today. Underbidding by Germany of American products was common in Mexico and South America, Mr. Hawthorne said.

"Germany makes very fine goods," he added, "and that, together with the cut in prices, makes her competition dangerous. We must remember that her factories and mills that were formerly used exclusively for war products now are turning out all kinds of supplies. It is a condition that the country would do well to heed."

Secretary Hawthorne's remarks on Germany were made during a discussion of the business situation and tariff.

"The present tariff juggling by Congress," he continued, "is putting the railroads of the country in a muddle. The tariff is a problem that is being weighed in many railroad officials' minds today. It would seem that neither a very high nor an extremely low tariff is desirable. The middle course is the best."

JUDGE SPEAR RESIGNS.

Governor Regrets That Corporations Outbid New Jersey in Salaries.

TRENTON, N. J., June 21.—In accepting today the resignation of William M. Spear of Jersey City, a Republican, as Circuit Court Judge, Governor Edwards expressed regret that New Jersey could not pay members of the bench sufficient to meet the high salaries offered by corporations. Mr. Spear is to join the legal staff of the Public Service Corporation.

"It is unfortunate," said the Governor, "that New Jersey is so situated that the reward held out to its bench is not sufficient to meet the larger inducements offered by some of its corporations, who are apparently in a position to come near paying the actual worth of service rendered." Circuit Court Judges receive $12,000 a year.

Merrill—Van Zandt.

Abner Scott Merrill, a son of F. A. Merrill of Brookline, Mass., and Miss Gretchen Van Zandt of this city were married yesterday afternoon in Trinity Church. The bride's grandmother, Mrs. Cornelius Van Zandt, gave her in marriage and Mrs. William Bradford Freer was matron of honor. The bridegroom's cousin, Mahlon P. Bryan of Philadelphia was the best man. Richard Wade Chanler, a cousin of the bridegroom, and Norman Wadsworth Harris of Chicago were ushers. Dr. Kincaid officiated and a small reception was held at the Plaza. After motoring for several weeks Mr. and Mrs. Merrill will live in New York.

Garvey—Maher.

The marriage of Miss Ruth J. Maher, a daughter of Thomas A. Maher of 1,037 Trinity Avenue, and Ensign Clarence C. Garvey of Wading River, L. I., took place in St. Augustine's Church on Franklin Avenue at 167th Street yesterday noon. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Charles B. Garvey, a brother of the bridegroom.

Miss May Helffrich was maid of honor, and the bridesmaids were the Misses Evelyn McLoughlin, Burnadette Garvey, Lois Geraughty and Frances Maher. George Garvey was his brother's best man and the ushers were Edward Maher, Ward McCabe, Clarence Diller, Harold Treanor and Edward A. Maher Jr. The wedding was followed by a reception at the Waldorf-Astoria.

Mr. Garvey was graduated from the United States Naval Academy at Annapolis class of '21. He and his bride have gone to spend their honeymoon in Montreal and upon their return will be at Wading River.

Toplits—Mendelsohn.

The marriage of Miss Beatrice Mendelsohn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Max Mendelsohn of the Hotel Hamilton, West Seventy-third Street, and Lloyd Lasker Toplits, son of Mrs. Belle L. Toplits of the Assonia Hotel, took place last evening in the Crystal Room of the Ritz-Carlton, the Rev. Dr. Joseph Silverman officiating.

Mrs. Irving M. Caro was her sister's matron of honor, and the Misses Beulah Adler, Lucille Bergman, Beatrice Loewus and Pearl Sheaman were the bridesmaids. The little Misses Ernestine Toplits Lasker and Lillian Edith Lasker, cousins of the bridegroom, were the flower girls. Master Richard M. Caro was the ring-bearer.

Alexander Lasker was best man for his nephew, and the ushers were Irving M. Caro, Arthur R. Foss, Arthur Lasker, Grover Mendelsohn of Cleveland, Bert Moser and Ira R. Schattman.

The ceremony was followed by a dinner for 125 guests, and a hundred additional guests were invited to the reception and dance afterward. All the attendants at the wedding were gowned in rainbow colors.

Mr. and Mrs. Toplits will reside at the Hamilton Hotel after an extended motor trip through the Berkshires and Canada.

Tully—McMorrow.

Miss Mary Perpetua McMorrow, daughter of Mrs. Catherine E. McMorrow of 305 West Seventieth Street and Blue Point, L. I., and Bernard F. Tully of Cambridge, Mass., were married on Tuesday in the Church of Our Lady of the Snow at Blue Point. The Rev. Dr. Lydia Kelleher officiated, assisted by the Rev. Dr. Arthur Craig.

The bride was attended by Miss Nan Gormley and Miss O'Kane was the best man. The ceremony was followed by a reception at Seawhispers, the Summer home of the bride's mother. The couple left to spend their honeymoon in Maine.

MISS SIMMONS ENGAGED.

Daughter of E. H. H. Simmons to Wed Sheldon T. Coleman.

E. H. H. Simmons of 122 East Sixty-second Street has announced the engagement of his daughter, Miss Harriet C. Simmons, to Sheldon T. Coleman, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. W. T. Coleman of 40 East Eighty-sixth Street. Mr. Coleman is a graduate of Williams, class of 1922. Miss Simmons is a graduate of Miss Chapin's School and is a member of the Junior League. Her father is Vice President of the New York Stock Exchange, and among his clubs are the Union, New York Yacht, Racquet and Tennis, Links and Sons of the Revolution. No date has been mentioned for the wedding.

Wemple—Peuch.

Mr. and Mrs. William Yates Wemple of Livingston, S. I., have announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Elizabeth Wemple, to Alfred T. Pouch, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alonzo S. Pouch of Lee Terrace, S. I. Miss Wemple was recently graduated from the Army School of Nursing at the Walter Reed Hospital in Washington, D. C. Mr. Pouch served in the navy during the war.

Herr—Barnes.

Son Born to Mrs. Frank C. Huntoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank C. Huntoon of Rock Island, Ill., are receiving congratulations upon the birth of a son, Richard John Huntoon, in Rock Island yesterday. Mrs. Huntoon was formerly Miss Frances Jordan of this city. She was adjudged the prettiest girl among all those whose photographs were submitted in a competition for a picture which decorates the calendar of the Fire Beat Insurance Bureau by a committee of artists in Washington, D. C.

CHORUS GIRL ASKS $100,000.

Elizabeth Benfield, formerly in the chorus in "The Tulip Girl," testified before Supreme Court Justice Lehman and a jury yesterday in a suit against S. Sternau & Co. for $100,000 damages on the ground that she was so badly burned from the product sold by the defendant that she had to lie in slings in a hospital for nine weeks. She testified that she was marcelling her hair when the explosion occurred that burned her from head to foot.

While Miss Benfield was testifying the attorneys agreed to settle the suit. The amount to be paid was not stated, but counsel for Miss Benfield said that $10,000 had been refused and that she was demanding $17,500.

BARRELS FOR STREET WEAR.

Bathers Take Extreme Precautions Against Shocking Atlantic City.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., June 21.—As a protest against the order of the city authorities that maskless bathers must be worn over bathing suits worn in the street, the guests of a hotel here will parade on the beach clad in barrels.

"If bathing suits are unfit for the streets," declared one guest, "they are unfit for the beach." After the indignation meeting a committee went out and bought the barrels. Men and women will parade to the beach in the afternoon. Each one will carry a placard to the surf in their regulation bathing suits.

FOG KEPT OLYMPIC FROM SPEED RECORD

EDWIN GOULD RETURNS

Expects "Family Law Suit" to Last a Long Time—Zionist Reports Progress.

Delayed fifteen hours by the fog, the White Star liner Olympic docked yesterday morning from Southampton and Cherbourg with 651 passengers. Captain A. E. B. Hambleton, Commander of the vessel, said that had it not been for the dense fog encountered east of Nantucket lightship there was reason to believe the Olympic would have made her record passage. At times the steamer did more than twenty-three knots.

Colonel C. B. Blethen, owner of The Seattle Times, returned with Mrs. Blethen from a tour of Belgium, France and England. He said Belgium was teeming with prosperity: in France the common people believed fearsome days were ahead.

"Taxes in France are enormous and unequally collected," he said. "The people are so dissatisfied that they feel they could be no worse off if things were overturned. I got the impression that France never expects to pay in money any part of her debt to us. Perhaps she may offer bonds, but that will not mature in our generation.

"It is folly to expect Germany to pay the indemnities as fixed by the Reparation Commission. She has no incentive to pay. They feel that no condition could be worse than the present one."

Edwin Gould returned saying that he did not expect the "family lawsuit," as he termed it, would be finished in his lifetime. He said his brother, Howard Gould, was keeping out of the suit by living abroad at his place on the Thames. Mr. Gould said his wife and son, whom he accompanied over to the other side, would spend the Summer motoring on the Continent. Mr. Gould went to his home at Ardsley-on-the-Hudson.

Samuel W. Reyburn, President of Lord & Taylor, reported the retail business in England and France good, but poor in Germany and Austria. Edward Blum of Abraham & Straus said that in Germany and Vienna they depended on the tourists.

S. W. Frankel, publisher of The American Art News, ended a speedy business trip to London, Paris and back in fourteen days.

Bernard A. Rosenblatt, American member of the Zionist Executive Committee, another passenger, said he was pleased over the progress made in Palestine in two years. There has been a 6 per cent. increase in the Jewish population, the newcomers being chiefly Eastern Europeans, he said, "who have passed through the fire and sword of the great war and the bloody pogroms of the Ukraine."

"There must be a partnership between American Jews and these East European immigrants whereby the former will furnish the capital and the administrative skill, and the latter the brains and brawn for the development of Palestine."

Emilio de Gogorza, baritone, arrived with Mme. Emma Eames de Gogorza from Paris and London. They will go to their Summer home at Bath, Me. Robert W. Goelet, accompanied by P. M. Gustier, his brother-in-law, also were on the Olympic. Others on board were Nikolai Rumiantsoff, manager of the Moscow Art Theatre, here to confer with Morris Gest; Charles Scribner, publisher, and Mrs. Scribner; Mrs. W. A. Hamilton, sister of J. P. Morgan; Miss E. R. Delafield and Mrs. Newbold Morris.

PRICES ROSE IN MAY WITH INDUSTRY'S GAIN

Commerce Department Notes a Distinct Upward Trend in Demand for Goods.

WASHINGTON, June 21.—Distinct upward trend of prices more marked in May than in any recent month was noted tonight by the Commerce Department in a survey of the general business situation throughout the country. In most instances the Department declared the rise has not been great but indicates a much firmer demand than heretofore.

Reports received up to June 20, the Department stated, indicate that the business revival is getting on more substantial grounds. Favorable features noted in the general situation were the continued increase in the iron and steel industry, sustained building activity, marked increase in the production of automobiles and trucks, lower interest rates, increasing demand for money, increase in employment and decline in business failures.

The continuation of the coal strike," the Department said, "with no immediate prospect of settlement, constitutes an unfavorable feature which has so far seemed to cause little uneasiness. Stocks of coal are still ample although the demands caused by greater industrial activities are using them up at a more rapid rate."

SUES ON SPRECKELS PEARLS

SAN FRANCISCO, June 21.—A second suit by Tiffany & Co. for $80,350, the value of a string of pearls purchased by Mrs. Sidi Wirt Spreckels in London some time ago, was filed against the estate of John D. Spreckels Jr. in the Superior Court yesterday.

The original claim had been filed here before the Spreckels estate was admitted to probate, and, according to John Manders, the attorney in the case, the present action is brought to make doubly sure that the claims can be lawfully considered by the executors.

This was the string of pearls which figured in international investigation after Mrs. Spreckels stated she had given them to Captain Barrett in London to have them cleaned and they were reported missing.

MRS. FOSTER SEEKS ALIMONY

Court Grants Application for Reargument Pending Suit.

Supreme Court Justice Marsh granted yesterday an application by Mrs. Thelma Helms Foster for a reargument of her application for alimony pending her suit for a separation from Angelo Scarpia Foster, foster son of Mrs. Nona McAdoo Foster, sister of William G. McAdoo. Mrs. Foster is suing on the ground of abandonment, but the court denied her application for alimony because it believed that three telephone calls made by Foster to his wife indicated an attempt at reconciliation, and for this reason she could not prove abandonment.

In asking for the reargument Mrs. Foster said that the telephone calls related to her husband's request that she go to Reno and divorce him, and that he also asked her that she intended to do about her $50,000 alienation suit against his sister mother.

WOMEN WILL DISCUSS UNIFORM DIVORCE LAW

CHAUTAUQUA, N. Y., June 21.—An amendment to the Federal Constitution for a uniform marriage and divorce law will be considered at the biennial convention of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, which opens here tonight.

The tentative draft of the amendment proposes four causes for divorce—physical or mental cruelty, proved infidelity, desertion for one year or more, or habitual drunkenness. It would, prohibit marriage for a girl under 16 years old and a boy under 18, and would require the written consent of the parents for the marriage of a girl between 16 and 18 years and a boy between 18 and 21 years. Medical certificates prior to marriage, publication of bans and the vesting of the custody of the children in the mother are features of the proposed amendment.

Whether the convention shall endorse principles or legislative bills is one of the chief topics of discussion among the delegates. A leading part in the discussion is being taken by women who are opposed to having the Federation depart from precedent in taking up any political problems, and who were against the action which the Board of Directors took yesterday in declaring for the Non-Partisan Tariff League.

Other women favor the discussion of political affairs, but oppose dictation to their legislative representatives. Among these is Mrs. John Dickinson Sherman of Chicago, Chairman of the Committee on Applied Education, and a leader in the movement for endorsement of the Muscle Shoals project.

"I believe that we should tell our Congressmen and legislators what we want, but not how they are to give us what we want," said Mrs. Sherman.

Conferences of department chairmen and a session of the Executive Council filled today and this evening the convention was formally opened by the National President, Mrs. Thomas G. Winter of Minneapolis.

Dr. Arthur E. Bestor, President of the Chautauqua Institution, told the club-women that "America should accept her present magnificent opportunity for leadership in the Near East and not take shelter behind a mistaken plea for isolation."

MORSE'S SON OBTAINS CONTINUANCE OF CASE

BOSTON, June 21.—United States Commissioner Hayes late today continued until Wednesday next the hearing which is to determine whether Benjamin W. Morse, son of Charles W. Morse, shall be removed to New York to answer an indictment charging misuse of the mails. The Commissioner said that before the case progressed further he would need time in which to form a decision on the question of law raised. The Government objected to any continuance.

Counsel for Morse attacked the indictment as faulty, arguing that the Commissioner could not find probable cause in the document as it stood. Assistant Attorney General Dobyns declared that an indictment was in itself prima facie evidence of probable cause and claimed that the objections raised by the defense should properly be passed upon by the court, and not the Commissioner.

The Morse attorneys, asking that the case be continued until certain books could be procured, said the Government's attitude toward the defendant was one of "outrageous persecution." W. Bissell Thomas of Washington of counsel for Morse, said he had been trying since February to see the books in question. "I have been denied access to them," he declared, "and even last Thursday, in Washington, I was denied access to them." Mr. Thomas offered to testify to this effect under oath.

After asserting that at the hearing in Portland, Me., yesterday, Special Assistant Attorney General Fletcher Dobyns had said the books were in New York, Mr. Thomas said: "Today he says they are all in New York. I have no doubt the Government is juggling them from place to place to prevent our looking at them."

WORKERS START FIGHT FOR UNION CLOTHING

Several Thousand Walk Out to Force Makers to Deal With Registered Shops.

In an effort to force the clothing manufacturers to let out their contract work to registered union shops, several thousand clothing workers in the metropolitan district walked out yesterday. Hyman Blumberg, Chairman of the Joint Board of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America, said that fully 50,000 men and women were out. This was denied by employers, who estimated the number at about 10,000. "There are about 1,100 contractors who will be affected by this walkout," said Mr. Blumberg. "We have conferred with a number of the big manufacturers and each of them has agreed to our demand, which is to let out the work only to registered union workers. Tomorrow we will open committee rooms at 621 Broadway, where we will discuss the question with other manufacturers as they come in.

"There is no question of wages, and practically every manufacturer in the city has expressed his willingness to accede to our demands in this matter. The walkout was simply to bring the thing to an issue. We will have it settled, I believe, by the end of the week."

OCEAN TRAVELERS.

Among those sailing yesterday on the Mongolia of the American Line were Mrs. Paul Reinsch, wife of the former Minister to China, who was accompanied by her three daughters; Mr. and Mrs. John N. Sayre, H. W. Morse, Vice President of the New York Trust Company, and Mrs. Morse; Colonel and Mrs. A. C. McComb, and Mr. and Mrs. J. Milton Ryall.

Booked on the Scythia of the Royal Mail Line, sailing today, are Wm. H. ("Pussyfoot") Johnson, prohibition agitator; Dr. and Mrs. Henry Dwight Chapin, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Canard, Mme. Clara Novello Davis, Mr. and Mrs. F. S. Fales, Mrs. James Heckscher, Mrs. L. A. Hoyt, Mr. Thomas and Lady Lewis, Dr. and Mrs. Henry M. Macy Cracken, Arthur Meeks Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Vaughan McGee, Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert H. Young, Dr. and Mrs. Charles A. Richmond, A. P. Gardiner, Alexander Hamilton and the Rev. Robert F. O'Donovan.

RETRIAL OF MURPHY ANNULMENT SUIT ON

NEW MARRIAGE AT STAKE

A retrial of the annulment suit brought by Edward Mallet Prevost Murphy, brother of Colonel Grayson M.-P. Murphy, against Mrs. Gertrude Stickle Murphy began yesterday before Supreme Court Justice Wasservogel. The case was heard by the late Justice Hotchkiss, who excluded all persons from the courtroom except the parties involved. He died before he had decided it.

The testimony before Justice Wasservogel, who conducted it in public, showed that the decision also will determine the validity of Mr. Murphy's marriage to Mrs. Sydney E. Price Johnston, widow of an army officer, which took place in September, 1920, after he had obtained an annulment decree against Mrs. Gertrude Stickle Murphy in Reno. He brought the present action here in order that the marriage to his present wife might be upheld in this State. Mr. Murphy testified yesterday that his first wife, who had been his secretary, had been his wife in name only, and for that reason he alleged he had been deceived and was justified in having the marriages set aside.

Mrs. Gertrude Stickle Murphy denies the allegations and contends that her marriage was brought about because she had been of great service to Mr. Murphy and that he sought to invalidate their marriage because she was not of the social rank of his family. While Mr. Murphy was under cross-examination yesterday he drew an imaginary chart with his forefinger, which he said represented the rise and fall of his affections for his former wife. The peak of the chart was the day of his marriage, but thereafter his affections declined steadily, due to her unresponsiveness, until finally he gave up and left her.

The trial will continue today.

WASHINGTON, June 21.—Secretary Hughes was understood to have taken under consideration today the controversy which has arisen within the ranks of the commission headed by D. C. Collier, appointed to supervise the American display at the coming Brazilian Centennial Exposition. Mr. Collier and three of his colleagues were in conference with the Secretary for half an hour at the department, but Resident Commissioner Frank A. Harrison, who is not in harmony with one or more of his colleagues, was not present.

State Department officials declined to discuss the conference later, but members of the commission said it was primarily for the purpose of discussing exposition matters and the progress made with American exhibits. They added that no action on the petition filed with President Harding by Mr. Collier and his colleagues demanding the removal of Mr. Harrison would be taken by the Administration for several days. It had previously been indicated at the White House that the controversy would be referred to the State Department for adjustment.

There have been authoritative intimations that it might be found necessary to make changes in the personnel of the commission, because of the disagreement that has arisen as to the nature and extent of expenditures made from the fund provided by Congress for the exposition. There are indications, however, that Secretary Hughes plans to get a full understanding of the situation before taking any action.

TO CONTEST BEST WILL.

Five Children Contend Deacon Was Unduly Influenced.

Objections to the probate of Dr. William Newton Best, trustee and deacon in the Clinton Avenue Congregational Church, Brooklyn, will be filed today, according to George W. Tucker, a Manhattan lawyer, who is appearing for five children of Dr. Best by his first marriage. Mr. Tucker said that Dr. Best died leaving an estate worth $500,000 and that the five children receive $1,000 each in the will.

With the exception of the bequests to the five children by his first marriage, Dr. Best's will provides that his estate be placed in trust for his widow with the Title Guaranty and Trust Company. She is to receive the income during her life. At her death, their two children, John, 4 years old, and Nelland, 6, inherit the estate.

"The objection to the will," said Mr. Tucker, "is that Dr. Best is alleged to have been unduly influenced and that he lacked testamentary capacity. It is also our claim that the will filed in the Kings County Surrogate's Court is not the last legal will of the deceased."

Mrs. Annie Best, the widow of the physician, lives at 974 Park Place, Brooklyn. She is now in the Carson Peck Memorial Hospital, recovering from an illness. Dr. Best got a divorce from his first wife. He died at his Brooklyn home at the age of 61 years on April 11. Five days after his will was filed for probate in the Surrogate's office, Brooklyn. The children who are contesting the will are Captain William N. Best Jr., U. S. N.; Viola M. Best and Mrs. Ruth P. Anderson of San Francisco, Ethel M. Best of this city and Ernest Best, a student at Harvard University.

WASHINGTON, June 21.—Henry T. Oxnard, sugar refiner and promoter, who died in New York City on June 9, left an estate valued at about $177,481, according to the petition for probate of his will filed today in the office of the Register. Willis hem by his brother, Robert Oxnard. The debts of the estate are about $27,900 secured and less than $7,000 unsecured.

Mr. Oxnard, who owned no real estate, devised his entire holdings in trust to his brothers, Robert and Benjamin A. Oxnard, for three years, the income to be paid to Mrs. Marie P. Oxnard, the widow. At the end of that period the United States Trust Company of New York City is to take charge, and is directed to pay one-fourth of the estate each to Miss Adaline M. Oxnard and Miss Nadine A. Oxnard, daughters of the deceased, when they reach the age of thirty.

A bequest of $15,000 is made to Eugenie C. Pichon in lieu of any and all debts which may be owing her by the deceased or his widow.

The will is dated May 23, 1922.

"Old Chick" Cushing Found Dead.

VALDOSTA, Ga., June 21.—"Old Chick" Cushing, 75, once nationally known as a jockey, was found dead today at the fair grounds here, where he was in charge of a string of race horses. In his riding days he was seen on almost every race track east of the Rocky Mountains.

EX-PREMIER JONESCU OF RUMANIA DEAD

ROME, June 21 (Associated Press).—Take Jonescu, former Premier of Rumania and one of the best-known of Rumanian statesmen, died here today after an illness of several months. Death was due to angina pectoris.

M. Jonescu, who was one of the most potent influences in Rumania's entry into the war in aid of the Allies, became seriously ill during April while in Naples for a rest, and was removed to a hospital in Rome. His condition at the time, while admittedly serious, was thought not to be grave.

M. Jonescu was a member of the Cabinet which sponsored the Rumanian declaration of war against the Central Powers in 1916, and he became Premier and Minister of Finance in the Cabinet formed in December of last year. This Ministry had only a brief life, however, resigning Jan. 18 of the present year. Meanwhile he had held other Cabinet posts, notably that of Minister of Foreign Affairs during a considerable part of the early period of reconstruction following the war, and represented Rumania in the Assembly of the League of Nations at Geneva.

M. Jonescu played a prominent part in the formation of the "Little Entente"—Rumania, Czechoslovakia and Jugoslavia—and was largely instrumental in bringing about the defensive agreement between Rumania, Czechoslovakia and Poland.

"DINNY" SULLIVAN BURIED.

Tammany Hall Friends Attend Services in Old St. Patrick's.

Funeral services for "Dinny" Sullivan, brother of Representative "Christy" Sullivan and half-brother of Harry Perry, Tammany leader on the lower east side, were held yesterday morning at old St. Patrick's in Mott Street. Sullivan died at the home of a friend in Coney Island on Monday. Hundreds of his friends in Tammany Hall and on the east side attended the funeral. The coffin was banked high with floral tributes to his memory and more lay near-by.

Among those who were there were Magistrates Max Levine and George W. Simpson, Thomas Foley, Judge Conlan, Aldermen Edward J. Sullivan, Ex-State Senator Jacob Koenig and Assistant District Attorney P. F. Marra.

The Rev. Father John A. Walsh conducted the services. Interment was in Calvary Cemetery.

DUMBAULD'S BODY FOUND.

Special to The New York Times.

MIDDLETOWN, N. Y., June 21.—An elastic cord which Professor Charles D. Dumbauld had placed around his left shoulder to hold his landing net while he was fishing caught on a slender twig on the shore of an island in the Neversink River and resulted in the body being found after it had been carried two miles down the stream from where the professor lost his life Saturday.

The body was discovered by Chief J. D. McCoach of this city, one of a searching party of 100. Members of the party had narrow escapes from death in the rescue.

The body will be taken to Somerset, Pa., tomorrow for the funeral. Short services were held here this evening in the Horton Memorial Church.

Gamble Latrobe.

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., June 21.—Gamble Latrobe, 57 years old, for years General Superintendent of the Southern Division of the Pennsylvania Railroad, died here today at a beachfront hotel from uraemic poisoning. He was a victim of years of hard work and overtaxed his strength in the course of duties during the war.

Mr. Latrobe came here early in March suffering from a combination of heart and kidney trouble. He showed encouraging improvement under the care of Dr. Walt Ponder Conway of this city, and was on the boardwalk last Friday with Mrs. Latrobe who was his constant companion at the shore. On Saturday Latrobe was stricken with acute uraemia.

Besides his widow he is survived by two sons. The body will be sent to his late residence at 2,208 Grant Avenue, Wilmington, Del.

Francis S. Phraner.

Francis S. Phraner, President of Baker & Williams, owners of a group of warehouses in this city, died yesterday of heart disease in his sixty-fourth year at his residence, 118 Hobart Street, Summit, N. J. Before his election to the Presidency of the company Mr. Phraner had for many years been Vice President, Treasurer and a Director. He was a trustee and an elder of the Central Presbyterian Church in Summit. Services will be held at 10:30 o'clock tomorrow morning at the residence.

Mrs. Virginia Hamersley Field.

Mrs. Virginia Hamersley Field, widow of Cortlandt de Peyster Field, banker and merchant, died Tuesday night at her residence, 21 East Twenty-sixth Street, one of the few private homes remaining on Madison Square. She is a daughter of John and Julia Hamersley, whose family for generations had been prominent in the social and business life of New York and Virginia. Her husband died in 1918.

Edward Trenchard.

Edward Trenchard, who died yesterday at his home in West Islip, N. Y., at the age of 71, was a son of the late Rear Admiral Stephen Decatur Trenchard, and the husband of the former Mary Cornelia Stafford, who survives him. He was a member of the Sons of the Revolution, the Loyal Legion, Society of Colonial Wars, and Society of Foreign Wars.

ROSENWASSER—

HYLAN SAYS MILLER WANTS TO 'JOB' CITY

He Asserts Governor's Transit Plan Would Cost People $500,000,000.

Charges Mayor With Misstatements and Calls for His Program.

Mayor Hylan, in a statement issued yesterday, criticised the speech of Governor Miller on Tuesday night, in which the Governor defined his attitude on the city's transportation system. The Mayor accused Governor Miller of trying to put over another "job" on the city, and, with the Transit Commission, of seeking to buy a lot of worthless traction property at a cost of $500,000,000.

As soon as Chairman George McAneny of the Transit Commission saw the Mayor's statement he replied to it, pointing out many alleged misstatements. He called upon the Mayor to make public the traction plan which he claims to have, to the end that whatever good there may be in it may be applied to the plan of the commission.

Mayor Hylan, replying to the Governor, said:

"The 'city-owned transportation system' he has reference to is chiefly a system of surface and elevated lines, now privately owned, to be acquired with city money at a cost of about half a billion dollars. The bulk of these surface and elevated lines now privately owned and which the Governor and his commission desire to enable private owners to unload upon the city, is obsolete from a rapid transit point of view and has arrived at or is in varying degrees of approach to the junk state.

"One fundamental difference between the Governor and his State Commission's position and the city administration's position is this: They purpose devoting the bulk of nearly $500,000,000 of city money to the acquisition chiefly of transportation 'junk' and then providing, not city or municipal operation, but private operation by the present private owners of property thus acquired for the city. The city administration's program, however, is to devote the bulk of this vast sum of city money to the constructing of new subways to be joined to present subway lines recaptured under existing rights and then having such a comprehensive city-owned system operated by the city for a single fare of 5 cents solely for the convenience and profit of the public and not an operation by private operators on a city-financed basis for their private profit.

Calls Properties "Junk."

"The fundamental difference is that we purpose devoting the city money to modern transportation facilities municipally operated for the benefit of the city and the traveling public, while Governor Miller and his commission purpose investing vast sums of city money in obsolete and junk properties for the future benefit of private operators and the present benefit of these same present private owners.

"The Governor said that his one system of transportation was planned to be operated for a 'single fare.' He significantly fails to state what the single fare would be. The Governor's weird oscillations upon the subject of fare are making him dizzy. His failure to state what the 'single' fare would be is due to his consciousness that his barometer scheme imbedded in the State Transit Commission plan inevitably means a 'single fare' in excess of five cents, probably seven or eight cents, and adding the present operators in the future an additional sum of $40,000,000 per year from the pockets of the public.

"The Governor and his commission are exhibiting a painful anxiety to buy all the transportation rubbish in the city with city money and then turn it back to the control of these same private operators who sell it under a scheme that will result in a 7 or 8 cent fare as the 'single fare' he refers to. The stimulus of the Governor and his commission in their desires is the financial welfare of the present private owners and proposed future private operators instead of the financial welfare of the city or the traveling public.

"The Governor and his commission will soon have an opportunity to make good on his promise of co-operation. They will soon have tendered to them a transportation plan that will be backed by the unanimous intelligent public opinion of the City of New York, which plan will devote the financial power of the city to modern, not obsolete, transportation facilities, operated as well as owned by the city for the exclusive benefit of the city and public, and not for the exclusive benefit of future private operators or present private owners of 'junk' surface or elevated lines, for whose acquisition the Governor's heart now bleeds."

Mr. McAneny's reply follows:

"The Mayor's latest comment on the Transit Commission's plan for unifying the city's transportation lines and restoring the city-wide five-cent fare consists, in the main, of misstatements of fact that have been many times corrected. The commission is willing, however, to correct them once more.

"It is not proposed to take over a system chiefly of surface and elevated lines to be acquired with city money at a cost of about half a billion dollars.' The valuations placed by the commission's appraisers upon the surface lines of all the boroughs is something like $135,000,000, and the valuation placed upon the elevated lines, including the extensive third-tracking improvements and the various extension lines built as recently as five or six years ago, is $150,000,000. The Mayor's major figure, therefore, is about $215,000,000 out of the way.

"It is proposed, moreover, that the lines to be taken for unified operation shall not be paid for with city money, of which there appears to be very little in sight, but that they should be paid for through the issue to the present owners of a new series of bonds, to be retired from the earnings of the roads themselves, and to be accepted by the owners in return for the surrender by them of the vastly greater bonds and stock issues, upon which interest is now required to be paid. The city, under the commission's plan, would get the ownership of the roads and require their operation practically upon a cost basis, without paying out a single cent.

Wants Mayor's Plan.

"As practically all of the Mayor's statement is based upon this bit of false witness, there is little to be said about the rest of it, except to repeat that the commission proposes to buy no 'junk' of any description; that the purpose and the very clear effect of its plan is to cut down corporation profits and not to add to them, and that, as one of the consequences of the comprehensive study and investigation it has already made, it is prepared not only to retain the five-cent fare where it actually exists today, but to eliminate the doubled and trebled five-cent fares with which the people of every borough have become unhappily familiar.

"It is, of course, impossible to comment upon the Mayor's promised plan until he produces it. He assured the public when the tentative plan of the commission was presented in September last, that it would be ready for them along about then. He has had, for that matter, something over five years in which to produce something; but up to the present moment, as far as the commission has been able to learn, he has produced nothing. The intolerable conditions the people of the city have suffered have continued with little or no abatement until the power of the commission was employed to bring relief.

"At every stage of its effort to secure improvement, either immediate or permanent, the Mayor has offered nothing but obstruction. Needless to say, the appearance of anything like an actual plan of his, with the possibility of helpful suggestions in it, the commission would welcome. That would, at least, indicate a change of policy. It regrets, however, that it has been so long delayed, and trusts that the Mayor will keep his present promise to present it soon."

CITY AGAIN REJECTS SUBWAY CONTRACT

The Committee of the Whole of the Board of Estimate, at its meeting yesterday, again rejected the contract of the Joslin Construction Company for building the connection between the subway and elevated parts of the Fourteenth Street-Eastern District line. After the line had been laid out as part subway and part elevated, and had been approved by the board, residents along the elevated part insisted upon an all-subway line and the board has been supporting them. The Joslin contract is for $1,149,196.

"If the Transit Commission wishes to make available the existing completed construction," said the Mayor, "it may tender a contract which will provide means for placing the cars in the subway and permit of access to them at Meserole Street, Brooklyn, without tying up the subject matter of such a contract to construction involving an approach to an elevated structure, as is done in the Joslin contract.

"This would permit of the putting into immediate or early use the existing subway without regard to whether the construction from Meserole Street is subway or elevated. Only the continuance by the Transit Commission of a policy of obstruction growing out of its persistence in unnecessarily including in a tender contract construction items that are available only in connection with an elevated structure, instead of tendering a contract such as indicated, will prevent use being made of the existing subway."

The contract was sent back to the commission, which was asked later for a comment on the situation. This was given out:

"The commission will have no definite comment to make upon the action of the Board of Estimate in the matter of the rejection of the contract for the connecting link of the Fourteenth Street-Eastern line until some official communication in the matter has been made to it. The board is, however, aware of the fact that the building of that part of the line extending from Williamsburg to East New York as an elevated is required under the contract between the city and the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company, the requirements of which the commission has no power to vary. Sooner or later, of course, the Board of Estimate will be brought to realize that it must carry out the city's contractual obligations."

Corporation Counsel John P. O'Brien told the committee about the legal fight he is making to prevent the New York, Westchester & Boston Railway Company from continuing to benefit by the permission given by the Transit Commission to charge a seven-cent fare within the city limits. The increase from five cents was allowed after an order of the Court directed the commission to act. Mr. O'Brien attacked the commission savagely and suggested that Governor Miller might show his sincerity in the traction problem in this city by ordering the Transit Commission to reopen the hearings on the application of the company for an increase.

A resolution offered by Controller Craig authorizes Mr. O'Brien to challenge the right of the railroad company to charge more than a five-cent fare. It will be acted upon at the meeting of the board tomorrow. As Mr. O'Brien was about to leave he was admonished by the Mayor:

"Keep on watching Miller and McAneny."

Mayor Hylan, referring to the alleged extravagances of the Transit Commission, said that he understood that the commission had used part of its appropriation of $1,500,000 to increase the salaries of its employes. Controller Craig remarked, "They have been increasing salaries right along. I am checking up the payrolls now to find out just who is getting the money."

"How much of the $1,500,000 went for salary increases?" asked the Mayor, and Mr. Craig replied:

"I'll let you know within twenty-four hours."

Last evening the Transit Commission made this reply to the charge of salary increases:

"The amounts vated by the Board of Estimate, under compulsion, to cover necessary expenses for the present year for all purposes will aggregate something under two millions and a half. Of this total, the amount applied to promotions and increases of salary, all of which have been of the routine order, distributed among 155 employes out of a total of 850, is $19,736, or considerably less than 1 per cent."

BROKER SEIZED HERE AS BOSTON FUGITIVE

Charles Knightley of Rye, N. Y., a broker, was locked up at Police Headquarters yesterday afternoon, charged with being a fugitive from Massachusetts. He was taken in custody at the East Twenty-second Street Police Station by Dettotive Dunn and later transferred to Headquarters. Dunn said Detective Donlin, also of the East Twenty-second Street Station, had a warrant for Knightley in connection with the alleged larceny of $5,369 in Boston.

Knightley, who described himself as a welfare worker, as well as a broker, was in a welfare bureau at Twenty-third Street and Lexington Avenue when he heard he was wanted by the police. He went to the East Twenty-second Street Station and gave himself up.

Maurice Hyman of 385 Fifth Avenue, Knightley's attorney, at Police Headquarters said political quarrels in Boston were responsible for his client's arrest. Mr. Knightley will waive examination and return to Boston at once, he added.

BANKERS SUMMONED IN LUMBER SALE CASES

WASHINGTON, June 21.—Subpoenas were issued today by the Grand Jury of the District of Columbia for members of banking firms in New York, Philadelphia, New Orleans and Jacksonville, who will be summoned to Washington to testify regarding sales of surplus lumber by the Government after the World War. The bankers will be required to produce books and records touching on the negotiations with the Government of John Lewis Phillips, Charles Phillips Jr. and John Stevens. Mr. Phillips is the Republican politician in Georgia whose arrest Attorney General Daugherty recently ordered on the charge of having defrauded the Government of large sums in connection with lumber sales.

Major Peyton Gordon, the Federal Attorney for the District, said tonight that he could not recall the names of the New Yorkers subpoenaed, and that he did not think it the proper proceeding, anyway, to reveal these names at this time.

FAVORS RIVER FRONT AS PARKING PLACE

Traffic Captain Says Size of Trucks Also Should Be Reduced to Ease Congestion.

The steadily increasing difficulties attending the movement of traffic, both passenger and commercial, through the streets of Manhattan were discussed yesterday by traffic experts in a hearing before the Transit Commission, and suggestions were submitted for the partial relief. Police Captain William H. Van Keuren, in charge of Traffic Precinct A, presented graphic pictures of scenes accompanying efforts of trolleys, loaded trucks and all other kinds of vehicles trying to make time in some of the thoroughfares. In reply to a question by James B. Walker, Secretary of the commission, who presided at the hearing, the Captain said that the parking places for automobiles were insufficient. He had previously enumerated these places, and then he testified:

"I conditionally recommended the river front all the way up from the Cunard Line pier during certain periods except of course when vessels are sailing. I have had seven (liners) go away in one day, and 5,000 vehicles to be taken care of and moved and facilitated during the sailing of these seven vessels."

The hearing concerned traffic conditions on the Third Avenue Railroad, but it veered off into a discussion of street congestion. Referring to the heavy traffic at the Manhattan ends of the Manhattan and Williamsburgh Bridges, he continued:

"There doesn't seem to be any regulation restricting the size of these trucks. There is no question that there should be some limitation to the size of these trucks so that they won't interfere with the rights of the public to get about."

To further emphasize the condition of the streets Captain Van Keuren told of an alarm of fire coming into the Thirty-third Street fire house, acting Chief Ross and the witness jumped into the latter's automobile and started for the fire.

"I want to tell you," said the witness, "that four different times we had to come to a complete stop. They wouldn't give us the right of way through the heavy vehicles. They simply have no regard for an emergency call."

The witness said that if the drivers of the big automobiles were summoned they would only be fined and that "a jail sentence doesn't seem to prevail." He said he had to be very careful whom he stopped or he would be put out of business. Referring to a certain class of drivers he said:

"They are a class of men, as a rule, that a club does better work with than an olive branch. If they won't get out of the way for the fire apparatus what chance has an ordinary individual got? They buck a street car and get away with it."

Asked if he gave this class of drivers summonses, the witness replied that he had six men out "just driving at it," so that "the Magistrates frequently ask for quarter and beg us to give them a rest."

Some of the drivers simply could not help holding up traffic because they had to unload coal, or the other merchandise. He expressed the opinion that there were enough laws and ordinances to better the traffic conditions, providing there were enough men to enforce them.

Concerning parking places the witness said that there was no real reason why any person should make a public garage of a street. He said he had seen autos parked eight hours on a fire run street and that summonses had been served on the offenders time and time again.

Yesterday morning a list was submitted to him, he explained, from a superior higher than an inspector. It was that of a man who wanted to park his car in Fifth Avenue and had been served with a subpoena. He appealed to the witness, who told him he would have to fight it out before the Magistrate. "I just cite this case," explained the witness, "to show you the attitude of the people. Every one wants to do just as he pleases to the detriment of the others and the devil take the hindmost."

Police Captain Michael T. Ahearn, in charge of Traffic Precinct B, testified that the traffic was "everlastingly increasing" and that the records of the Automobile Bureau of the Tax Commission showed that there was an increase of 20 per cent in automobile registrations in 1922 over 1921. The witness said that his opinion and that of Captain Van Keuren and of Dr. Harris, in charge of the traffic regulations, coincided. The hearing will be continued June 29.

NO OFFICIAL BACKING FOR POSTAL CUT NOW

WASHINGTON, June 21 (Associated Press).—Support of the movement in Congress for reduction of second-class postal rates will not receive the official indorsement of the Post Office Department, according to a statement made at the department today, until a thorough investigation has been completed and the department is assured that such proposed reductions will not impose additional burdens.

Postmaster General Work conferred today with Representative Steenerson, Republican, of Minnesota, Chairman of the House Post Office Committee, and Representative Kelly, Republican, of Pennsylvania, concerning postal rates and Parcel Post matters. Mr. Kelly, author of a bill to reduce second-class mail rates, urged support of his measure, in the "interest of the press of the country" and was assured by the Postmaster General, it was said, that the department was in entire sympathy with the publishers of the country in their efforts to get reduced rates and was anxious to afford every relief possible.

Representative Steenerson said the Administration should increase parcel post rates at the earliest possible moment in an effort to wipe out the deficit resulting each year from the present low rate level. He also told the Postmaster-General that he was convinced that the second-class mail rates in the fourth, fifth, sixth, seventh and eighth zones were much too high.

"The Post Office Department is not unmindful of the great services performed by the press of the nation," Postmaster-General Work said. "Also I feel that, as the press is maintained in the interest of the public as is the Post Office and every other department of the Government, the public should first be considered in all matters affecting legislation."

That second-class postal rates can be reduced with benefits alike to the publishers, the public and the Government, then I am in entire accord with any movement that will bring about this result. Conflicting arguments have been presented to me. When all the facts have been digested and analyzed the department will present its records to Congress and be guided by whatever action that body takes."

Pope Receives Bay State Sailors.

ROME, June 21 (Associated Press).—Pope Pius today received seventy sailors from the Massachusetts nautical schoolship Nantucket. They were presented by the Vice-Rector of the American College. The Pontiff showed great interest in the young Americans and imparted the Apostolic blessing. In an address he urged all of them to be faithful to their religious duties. To each of the sailors he presented a medal.

DECEIVED GIRL HELPS TRAP PRISON FUGITIVE

Wed to Married Man Who Deserted Family, She 'Introduces' Him to Police.

When Howard Perry, 25, of 104 Prospect Avenue, Brooklyn, was arraigned before Magistrate Sweetser yesterday in the Tombs Court and held as a fugitive from the Laurel Hill Penitentiary in New Jersey, the police told of the part played by Miss Mary Luther of West Hoboken, N. J., in helping capture him a few hours before.

Perry escaped from a road repair gang on June 7 near the penitentiary in Secaucus. He was serving a one-year sentence for abandoning his wife and two children.

Perry married Miss Luther on Dec. 12, 1920. She did not know he had a previous wife and two children until he was sent to the penitentiary about eight months ago.

Several days ago she received a letter from him, urging her to meet him at noon yesterday at Brook Avenue and 141st Street, the Bronx, and enjoining her not to tell any one.

She hurried to Lieutenant Murray of the Hudson County (N. J.) police with the letter and agreed to help capture Perry.

Miss Luther stood on the appointed corner for more than half and hour before Perry unexpectedly appeared from a near-by apartment house.

"I watched you from the time you came up the street to make sure you didn't have a policeman with you," Perry said.

"No; I know there is none," rejoined the fugitive, laughing nervously.

"Oh, yes, there are," replied Miss Luther, waving to Lieutenant Murray and Detective Sergeant Kane, seated in a limousine which was drawing to the curb.

Grabbing Perry by the coat lapel, she said: "Permit me to introduce you to Lieutenant Murray and Detective Sergeant Kane."

"Women are causing me a lot of trouble," was Perry's comment. A bigamy charge may be lodged against him.

BRICKLAYERS' HELPERS RENEW WAGE CONTRACT

Continuation of Present Working Conditions Also Insured to Independent Union.

It was announced last night that Master League of Cement Workers of the New York Building Trades Employers' Association had renewed its agreement with the Independent Bricklayers' Helpers' and Building Laborers' Union of America, Inc., insuring the continuation of the present wages and working conditions for 6,500 cement and concrete laborers. The agreement was signed for the union by G. B. Diogiardi, General President, for the Master League of Cement Workers by G. Edward Escher, and for the Board of Governors of the Employers' Association by Christian G. Norman.

Mr. Diogiardi announced that it had been agreed to continue the wages of $7.50 a day for about 1,500 plasterers' laborers. The Independent Union of Building Laborers is given exclusive recognition for both the crafts as well as for the 7,000 bricklayers' helpers. These agreements were negotiated and signed independently of the Building Trades Council, the independent union having been suspended from the council several weeks ago.

Mr. Diogiardi also announced the issuance of a charter to Excavators' Local 14, composed of about 1,000 laborers.

Live Stock Reparation From Hungary.

BUDAPEST, June 21.—The first deliveries of live stock on reparations account were made by Hungary yesterday when 500 horses were turned over to Greece at Szegedin, and 1,000 horses and 1,000 head of cattle and sheep delivered to Jugoslavia at Szekes-Feher. The Hungarian Government had made a quiet purchasing campaign to secure the stock in order not to affect prices. The price paid for the animals totaled 500,000,000 crowns.

MRS. EDISON HAS GRIEVANCE

Resents Publication of "Stolen" Questionnaire of Husband.

CHAUTAUQUA, N. Y., June 21.—Mrs. Thomas A. Edison today condemned the movies, rebuked the newspapers for publishing Mr. Edison's questionnaire and declared that politics in the United States was "pretty bad." Mrs. Edison is here for the biennial convention of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, which opens this evening.

"We feel very badly over the subjects which the movies are putting before the people," said Mrs. Edison. "I do not believe that politically appointed censors will improve conditions. However, at this time I believe the farther we can keep away from politics the better off we shall be."

Mrs. Edison expressed considerable bitterness on the publication of Mr. Edison's questionnaire, which, she said, she had not yet answered herself. "The questions were stolen," she said, "and we resent their publication."

FINDS PRESS BEST FOR ADVERTISING

Sir Charles Higham Praises the Make-Up of American Newspapers.

GUEST OF WOMEN'S LEAGUE

Sir Charles F. Higham, M. P., European Vice President of the Associated Advertising Clubs of the World, was the guest of the League of Advertising Women of New York at luncheon at Keen's English Chop House in West Thirty-sixth Street yesterday.

"We have got to be worthy of the honor which we as advertisers possess, that of molding public opinion," said Sir Charles. "The newspaper is the greatest force there is and the cheapest medium for the advertiser. You reach more people on the same day and can sell goods for less money through the newspaper than you can in any other media. Perhaps my friends who do billboard advertising will disagree with me—but the billboard is only to remind, whereas the press is to instruct.

"We have powerful groups of newspapers in England, some having millions of circulation daily. But I am astonished at the improvement in American journalism, and I have studied your newspapers. We have no newspaper in England superior to THE NEW YORK TIMES, and we think we have good conservative papers without sensationalism.

"You have a great press here. The way in which you arrange your advertising is well done, with news and advertisements well balanced on each page. The make-up of the advertisements and the illustrations you use are marvelous."

Sir Charles then explained the nature of the invitation he carried from Lord Northcliffe to the recent convention in Milwaukee of the Associated Advertising Clubs of the World to hold the 1924 convention in England.

"One or two of the papers have said that we propose to bring you on a ship or ships at our expense," said the speaker. "That may come about, but I know that an American is always willing to buy in order to learn, and that you would be the last to expect that form of hospitality. We expect to bring the cost down to a minimum. I don't believe it would cost more than $300, as against about $600, the regular price at this time.

"I am glad to see so many women engaged in advertising, but what are you women going to do with this powerful medium that you have? Are you going to be amused by it or are you going with your intuition and skill in the profession, going to realize that you have at hand the greatest pulpit in the world. For molding public opinion, advertising surpasses even the church."

The British advertising man was introduced by Helen Hill, the President. Lady MacKenzie and Wayne Williams, representing Northcliffe's publications, were present.

PARIS POLICE CAPTURE WHOLESALE MURDERER

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, June 21.—The police today, under the personal supervision of Commissioner Fabaileo, succeeded in capturing Jean Marie Casteli, whom they regard as the most dangerous criminal in France. At the same time they took into custody Dante Mosca, Casteli's youthful Lieutenant.

Casteli, who under the names of Marius Abbal, Auguste Lemarquis and Jean Pas made himself famous in the annals of French criminal history, has since the imprisonment of Baptistin Travail been the commander of that desperado's band. He is known as a most cold-blooded and businesslike bandit. At the time of his arrest 135,000 francs in cash was found in his rooms, and he admitted possessing a bank account of 800,000 francs. "You will never find it, and some day I'll profit by it," he boasted to the police.

While Casteli's career of crime has extended over all France and North Africa, the most bloodthirsty period was that when he posed along the Riviera as a motorboat pilot. Dealing only with rich demi-mondaines, he would take them out of sight of land and knowing they would not be missed murder and rob them and throw their bodies overboard.

Several years ago he was condemned to death in Morocco for killing a French Sergeant, but escaped. At Toulon in 1915 he robbed the safe of the Fourth Colonial Regiment of 240,000 francs and escaped, though an accomplice was captured. His hand has also been seen in a number of automobile hold-ups in the mountains, in all of which his victims were coldly murdered.

The bandit was recognized by a detective in the Post Office yesterday, and his arrest followed at the same place today, when he called for mail. He admitted he was in Paris to execute a series of carefully planned robberies, and he warned the police to take care, as he would make every effort to escape.

Casteli's long freedom in crime is laid by the police to the fact that he refused to operate with women or have accomplices who had any connections with women. Before he accepted Mosca as an assistant he made him break with a girl with whom he was living in Marseilles.

NIKOLAI RUMIANTSEFF HERE.

Will Arrange for Appearance of Moscow Art Theatre in October.

Nikolai A. Rumiantseff, representing the Moscow Art Theatre, arrived in New York yesterday on the Olympic to make arrangements for the appearance here of the Moscow Art Theatre company next season. The company, headed by Constantin S. Stanislavsky, will give a series of performances here in October.

Mr. Rumiantseff also brought to Morris Gest and Nikita Balieff the thanks of the Russian artists for the aid given them by the performance staged at the Forty-ninth Street Theatre on April 9.

THEATRICAL NOTES.

The Beechwood Players, under the direction of Henry Stillman, will give a performance of Andreyev's "Savva" at the Earl Carroll Theatre on Sunday night. The performance will be in aid of the American Committee for the Relief of Russian Children.

"Mike Angelo," a comedy by Edward Locke, will be produced in Los Angeles on July 31 by Oliver Morosco, with Leo Carrillo in the leading role.

Additions to the cast of "It's a Boy" include Dorothy Mackaye, Joseph Kilgour and James R. Waters. The play will open in Atlantic City on July 17.

Vivienne Segal and Fanny Brice will be among those on the Palace program next week.

THE WEATHER.

WASHINGTON, June 21.—A disturbance of marked intensity had its centre Wednesday night near Block Island, R. I., whence it will move northeastward to the Canadian maritime provinces during the next thirty-six hours. Another disturbance was over the west Canadian provinces.

Pressure was high and rising over the region of the lakes, the central valleys and on the Pacific Coast. There have been general rains within the last twenty-four hours in the Atlantic and East Gulf States and at widely scattered points in the northwest. Elsewhere temperature prevailed during Wednesday generally east of the Mississippi, while abnormally warm weather continued over the plains States and the Rock Mountains and the plateau region.

Observations at United States Weather Bureau stations during the twenty-four hours ending 8 P. M. yesterday:

WOMEN AID MARINO IN THE VEROTTA CASE

The wife and stepdaughter of Antonio Marino testified at his trial yesterday in Judge Talley's part of General Sessions that the defendant was in their home on two occasions when he was alleged by previous witnesses to have been acting as the directing head of the blackmailers who last Summer kidnapped and murdered five-year-old Giuseppe Verotta.

Roberto Raffaelo, under sentence of death for the killing of the boy, testified last week that Marino was introduced to him by Marino's stepson on June 1, 1921, two days before little Giuseppe was alleged to have been drowned in the Hudson River by unidentified members of the kidnapping band. Raffaelo also testified that James Ruggieri, the stepson, met him in Union Square Park on that date, took him to Marino and several other men at the corner of First Avenue and Tenth Street, and that Marino instructed him to call on the parents of the missing boy in their home at 354 East Thirteenth Street and collect $500 for the kidnappers.

Mrs. Mary Baggano, 18 years old, stepdaughter of the defendant, testified that at the time Raffaelo alleged that her brother, Ruggieri, took Raffaelo to Marino, her stepfather was in their home at 349 East Thirteenth Street helping her and her husband pack furniture for removal to Brooklyn.

She also told the jury that the mother of the slain boy called at the Marino home after the finding of the boy's body off Piermont, N. Y., and asked her mother to permit the Marino children, Antonio, John and Joseph, to take part in the boy's funeral, and that immediately before the finding of the body Mrs. Verotta accompanied the witness and her mother to theatres on four occasions.

She admitted that her husband had been arrested and released by the police at the time Marino, Ruggieri, Santo Cusamano, John Melchione and Raffaelo were taken into custody on a charge of attempting to extort money from the Verottas for the return of the boy. Her husband came home in the forenoon of the day following the arrests, she added, and disappeared. She declared she has not heard since from him, but believed he had fled to Italy.

She also corroborated Marino's statement on the witness stand the day before that the defendant visited the Verottas a few days after the kidnapping at the request of the father.

Mrs. Marino's testimony corroborated that of her daughter and the defendant. Miss Mabel Bogenschutz, daughter of Justice Bogenschutz of the Municipal Court in Queens, corroborated that part of Marino's testimony in which he said he was at work on the day Mrs. Verotta testified she had seen him watching the entrance to her tenement home.

Former City Court Judge John Palmieri, counsel for Raffaelo, testified to his client having made a statement connecting Marino with the boy's kidnapping and murder. He said Raffaelo was in the death house at the time. The Court of Appeals had sustained the verdict of the jury which convicted Raffaelo, he added, and Raffaelo sent word to him that he wanted to volunteer a statement for the use of George N. Brothers, Assistant District Attorney, in Marino's trial. The case will be continued this morning.

For those who dance and those who don't

Some like a fox-trot. To others a waltz is still the best. Even the one-step has its followers—and some don't like to dance at all.

What a difference when it comes to drinking Clicquot Club Ginger Ale! They all like it.

There is something bewitching in the sight of tiny bubbles leaping from the bottom and sides of the glass, dancing up through the clear, golden liquid to sparkle and break at your lips. And the taste!—who shall describe the taste of it? The only true description of Clicquot Club is—a drink of Clicquot Club.

Clicquot is made with pure spring water. Only real Jamaica ginger is used. The other ingredients—sugar and fruit juices—are just as pure as can be found. The blend never varies, so that every bottle of Clicquot tastes like the one before and the next. It is a most dependable, friendly, happy drink.

But you needn't be limited

You can give everyone the choice of Clicquot Club Ginger Ale, Sarsaparilla, Birch Beer, or Root Beer. The flavors are as different as their names—the purity of all is the same. Buy Clicquot by the case for home use.

The P-A-X requires no operators. It is ready for service 24 hours each day. It gives instantaneous communication. No one can listen in on conversations.

Time Saved— Money Saved— Errors Reduced— Routines Quickened

These four chief results have followed the installation of the P-A-X in over 1,000 of America's leading business and industrial organizations.

The P-A-X is an Interior Private Automatic Telephone Exchange equipped with various associated services such as the code call, conference, watchman's checking and emergency alarm. The P-A-X gives quick, accurate, secret and convenient service 24 hours every day without the need of an operator.

The P-A-X is similar to the famous Automatic Telephone equipment being so widely adopted for city service, but is especially engineered and adapted to the interior communication needs of financial, commercial and industrial organizations of every type and size. The P-A-X augments and completes, but does not supplant nor connect with the local and long distance telephone service.

With the various interior communication services of the P-A-X in use, every department and section of your establishment will be "at the finger's end" of every man in the organization.

That means 100 per cent co-ordination and makes 100 per cent co-operation possible.

Upon request, one of our New York representatives will survey your establishment and give you an accurate report as to how the P-A-X will pay you. Call our telephone number, Vanderbilt 7520-21-22.

LABOR URGES VETO ON SUPREME COURT

Federation Committee Proposes Giving Congress the Power to Overrule Decisions.

WOULD FORBID CHILD LABOR

ANTI-TRUST LAW ASSAILED

Delegates Warmly Approve Program Recommended, and Are Expected to Adopt It Today.

Special to The New York Times.

CINCINNATI, Ohio, June 21.—Four amendments to the Constitution of the United States and repeal of the Sherman Anti-Trust law were recommended to the convention of the American Federation of Labor today as a means of depriving the Federal Courts of "the despotic powers which they have assumed, and to make our Government in a full measure a government of the people, for the people, and by the people."

The proposal submitted by the Special Committee on Court Decisions urged that labor enlist the aid of all "fair-minded and liberty-loving" citizens in a campaign for the adoption of Constitutional amendments providing for prohibition of child labor, specific exemption from legislative or judicial limitation of the right of labor to organize, to deal collectively, or to boycott, establishment of a Congressional veto over decisions of the United States Supreme Court and "easier amendment of the United States Constitution," the method not being specified.

The program of the committee which is expected to be finally approved by the convention tomorrow, recommended that Congress be urged to enact legislation making more definite certain sections of the Clayton law which, the committee said, was "manifestly ignored or overridden by the Court." Recommendation was also made that the Federation Executive Council be authorized to establish a legal defense bureau.

In urging repeal of the Anti-Trust law the committee, which was composed of America's foremost labor leaders, declared that, through "judicial misinterpretation and perversion," this law had been "repeatedly and mainly invoked to deprive the toiling masses of their natural and normal rights."

Supreme Court Condemned.

The report of the committee was enthusiastically received by the delegates and was approved by half a dozen speakers, who assailed and condemned the United States Supreme Court and the lower Federal courts for "attempting to set up a judicial oligarchy."

Suggestions were made from the floor that the convention go further in the bill of gram and call for the impeachment of Federal Judges who "violate the constitutional rights of the workers."

"Unless labor uses its full industrial and political power," declared Abraham Lefkowitz, of New York, delegate of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union, said it would be necessary to call a general strike to stop the encroachment of the courts upon the rights of organized labor, although such action might not be popular in this country.

Other speakers warned, however, that "observance of law and orderly proceeding must be followed in combating the courts.

"If Congress possessed a backbone and would speak in behalf of the people it could and would place the courts in their rightful place," said Matthew Woll, Vice President of the Federation, "that it would do by re-enacting laws which the Supreme Court declares it had no right to pass. If that were done we would soon find out where the people stand as between a judicial oligarchy and their own constitutional rights.

"The courts are aiding the most colossal conspiracy in history to break down the trades union movement," said George Berry, President of the Printing Pressmen's Union, declaring its decisions aided the radical and revolutionary elements in this country.

Tells of "Judicial Oligarchy."

"A judicial oligarchy is threatening to set itself up above the elected legislators and above the people themselves," said the committee's report. "Profiting by the unsettled industrial conditions of the country and the political apathy of the people which have followed upon the conclusion of the World War, the forces of privilege and reaction have embarked upon a concerted and determined campaign to deprive the citizens of their Constitutional liberties, to break down the standards of life which the American workers have laboriously built up in generations of suffering and struggle, and to emasculate or destroy their most effective weapon of resistance and defense—the labor unions.

"Side by side with the implacable antiunion drive conducted by powerful organization of employers throughout the country, who exercise their own unquestioned right to organize and yet brazenly deny their employes the same right, the unbiushing subservience of many public officials to the dictates of big business and their undisguised contempt for the interests of the workers, the courts of the country, and particularly the Supreme Court of the United States, have within recent years undertaken to deprive American labor of the fundamental rights and liberties which heretofore have been accepted as deeply and organically ingrained in our system of jurisprudence.

"What confronts the workers of America is not one of several casual court decisions favoring the interests of property as against the human rights of labor, but a series of adjudications of the highest tribunal of the land, successively destroying a basic right or cherished acquisition of organized labor, each forming a link in a fateful chain consciously designed to enslave the workers of America."

Complains of usurped Authority.

The committee cited several decisions against labor rendered in the last five years, and said:

"This despotic exercise of a usurped power by nine men, or a bare majority of them, over the lives and liberties of millions of men, women and children is intolerable. With the immortal Lincoln we believe that the people of these United States are the masters of both Congress and courts, not to overthrow the Constitution, but to overthrow the men who pervert the Constitution.'

"We are determined to preserve our rights as workers, citizens and freemen, and we call upon all fair-minded and liberty-loving citizens to unite with us in a determined effort to deprive the courts of the despotic powers which they have assumed, and to make our Government in full measure a government of the people, for the people and by the people.'

"To this end the committee presented the recommendation for amendments to the Constitution of the United States, and added:

"Your committee further recommends that in conjunction with the campaign for the adoption of the suggested constitutional amendments, Congress be urged to enact:

"A child labor law which will overcome the objections raised by the United States Supreme Court to the laws heretofore passed by Congress and voided by the Court.

"A law which will make more definite and effective the intention of Congress in enacting sections 6, 19 and 20 of the Clayton act, which was manifestly ignored or overridden by the court.

"A law repealing the Sherman anti-trust law, which was intended by Congress to prevent illegal combinations in restraint of trade, commonly known as 'trusts,' but through judicial misinterpretation and perversion has been repeatedly and mainly invoked to deprive the toiling masses of their natural and normal rights."

The committee proposed that "in the meantime and in order to adequately meet the concerted and increasing onslaughts against the fundamental rights and vital functions of organized labor," the executive council of the federation be authorized to establish a legal defense bureau to combat all laws and judicial decisions on the rights of labor.

Investigation of the report that Harvard University contemplates placing a restriction on admission based on religious and racial grounds was ordered by the convention and the Executive Council was instructed to take such action as it may deem feasible to remove "the discrimination contemplated and assure to all, regardless of race and religious affiliation, equal opportunities."

Radical Element Routed.

The radical element was routed today in an effort to frustrate adoption of a resolution ordering the Executive Council to investigate the financial and news policies and methods of The Federated Press, a labor news service, which, it was alleged, was "undermining the trade union movement." This organization, charged with distributing communistic propaganda, has as one of its officials William Z. Foster, former steel strike leader, who now is advocating radical industrial union as practiced in Soviet Russia.

The Lusk laws of New York were condemned by the convention as "infamous manifestations of stupidity and bigotry," and officials of the Federation were ordered to take all steps possible to obtain the repeal of the measures and prevent enactment of similar legislation in other States.

The Education Committee warned the convention that while agitation for "singling out of teachers for subjection to insulting requirements of oath of loyalty and the processes of secret tribunals" was receding, conditions in many localities are still so intolerable that the situation is fraught with danger to public education." The convention called upon the forces of labor to fight such legislation.

"No matter what the outcome of existing industrial conflicts, or conflicts which may come, one thing is sure: The American trade union movement, despite its antagonisms and all the bitterness of financial sacrifice, when all is over will be standing on its feet hurling defiance into the teeth of the bitterest and strongest of our enemies."

For the first time in the history of the Federation the question of Independence for India came before the International Relations Committee today. Taraknath Das, International Secretary of the Friends of Freedom for India, presented India's case. British fraternal delegates took part in the discussion.

Anti-Gompers Men Active.

Decision as to whether the anti-Gompers administration forces will put up a complete slate for federation offices, including the Presidency, is expected within the next forty-eight hours. Caucuses were under way here tonight among the delegates of the railroad unions and the United Mine Workers, building trades, printing trades and Federal employes' organizations in an effort to agree upon such a ticket.

While John L. Lewis, President of the miners, continued to maintain that he was not a candidate in opposition to Gompers, close friends of the miners' chief said he would enter the contest if he could be shown sufficient votes to insure his election.

It was learned that the groups in search of a candidate to oppose Gompers had offered the nomination to George Berry, President of the Printing Pressmen's Union, but he had declined to run.

TWO MEN HELD FOR ATTEMPTED SWINDLE

Miss Eva Rappaport, who had advertised a diamond bracelet for sale, trapped two men last night at the Great Northern Hotel, where they were arrested by detectives on a charge of attempted to pass a forged check with a forged certification in exchange for the jewel. What purported to be a certified check for $2,500 was found on one of the men.

The prisoners, John Byrne, 55, of 601 West 185th Street, and Michael de Carlo, 27, of 422 West 165th Street, had called on Miss Rappaport previously, had inspected the bracelet and had promised to pay $2,500 in the form of a certified check on the Chatham and Phenix National Bank.

After they had gone, Miss Rappaport took the precaution to communicate with the bank. She notified the police that the bank had reported that neither man had an account. The trap was thereupon arranged.

Detectives George Ferguson and Stephen Love waited in the hotel lobby and watched when Miss Rappaport met the two men. Miss Rappaport was to have turned over the bracelet and accept the check, but she was unwilling to run the risk and did not close the deal.

Apparently becoming nervous, one of the men put the check back into his pocket and the two started to leave the hotel. They were then arrested. Both men insisted that they were acting in good faith, intended to pay cash for the jewel and carried about the suspected check merely as "a badge of good faith."

3 GUILTY IN CHECK PLOT.

Court Accepts Attempted Forgery Pleas.

Justice Ernest I. Edgecomb yesterday, in the Special Criminal Term of the Supreme Court, accepted pleas of guilty of attempted forgery from three men indicted several weeks ago in connection with a plot to defraud many banks in this city. The defendants—William V. April, 24, a printer, and his brother, Herman Harvey April, 26, both of 1148 Longfellow Avenue, the Bronx, and Saul Rogers, 27, a shoe salesman, of 378 East Seventh Street—were remanded for sentence on June 29.

Counsel for the three told the Court they were the tools of ex-convicts who forged the checks and sent them to the Chatham and Phenix National Bank and the Commercial Exchange National Bank to pass them.

Yacht Club Members Object To Lorraine Dance Steps

The Bayside Yacht Club will not stand for the Lorraine dance. James B. Moore, Chairman of the House Committee, in a notice to members calls attention to the fact that some have been disturbed, "and rightly so, over certain exhibitions of types of dancing practiced by some of the younger elements in our organization."

"Cleopatra in her prime," says Mr. Moore's notice, "must have come far short of measuring up to the suggestions insidiously conveyed in what some of the youngsters contortioned on our opening evening. Apostles of this Broadway Lorraine dance should remember that the Bayside Yacht Club is not the Great White Way."

HEARST RETURNS FOR THREE-DAY STAY

LITTLE TO SAY ON POLITICS

Says England Is In Good Shape, but Hears France May Have Trouble Any Time.

William Randolph Hearst returned from Europe yesterday on the White Star liner Olympic, bringing home the body of Guy Barham, publisher of The Los Angeles Herald, who died soon after the Hearst party, of which he was a member, reached England. Mrs. Barham and her daughter Louise, George L. Willson, George Thompson and John and William Randolph Hearst Jr. accompanied the publisher.

Mr. Hearst, who went immediately to his residence at 137 Riverside Drive, said he would sail on the Olympic Saturday to rejoin Mrs. Hearst in Paris. He said he had had enough of a vacation but Mrs. Hearst wanted to remain longer abroad. Because of the nature of his return Mr. Hearst was reluctant to be interviewed, saying his sole object in returning was to accompany Mrs. Barham and her husband's body to America.

When told that W. J. Conners, Buffalo Democratic leader and publisher, had predicted that he (Hearst) would be a Presidential candidate two years from now, the publisher smiled and said:

"Mr. Conners may be a good prophet but personally I have no reason to believe that he is." Then after a pause he added, "I am not disposed to do any talking until I get ashore and read the newspapers. If there is anything to say I will issue a statement."

Informed that Westchester women had repudiated his candidacy for Governor, Mr. Hearst remarked that "they had better wait and see if I am nominated."

Mr. Hearst affirmed that he held the same political views as expressed when he left here for Europe on May 24. It was recalled that at that time he said Mayor Hylan was the logical choice for the Governor and he had no second choice.

Speaking of the reported breakdown in health of Lord Northcliffe, Mr. Hearst said:

"I was indeed sorry to hear of it. Lord Northcliffe is a tremendous dynamo for work. No man could work as hard as he did. He not only managed his newspapers but did a great volume of personal work."

Concerning his impressions abroad, the publisher said:

"England seems to be in good condition and the people there are very confident. Like us in the United States they feel they are entering on a prosperous era. France has a certain surface indication of prosperity, but obviously the country is not as sound financially as England. Generally speaking, I would say that the situation is not very stable and the average man in the street feels that there may be trouble any time in France."

Mr. Hearst said his party were taken off the Olympic on a tug at Quarantine yesterday morning. A Public Health officer and a customs official were assigned by Washington to facilitate the progress of the Hearst party at Quarantine. Joseph Willicombe, secretary to Mr. Hearst, who made the arrangements for landing, met the party at Pier A, the Battery.

Mrs. Barham and her daughter will leave today for California with Mr. Barham's body.

Democratic women who prefer Alfred E. Smith to William R. Hearst as the party candidate for Governor are "misguided" tools of the "international bankers who have their clutches on the Government at Washington" and the "public utilities and corporate interests which are in control of the State Government at Albany," according to Mayor Hylan.

Mayor Hylan made this attack on the Democratic women who oppose Mr. Hearst in an interview yesterday at the City Hall. In deference to a request made this week by William J. Conners, custodian of the Hearst Gubernatorial boom, Mayor Hylan issued a call to women, regardless of party, to rally to the Hearst banners.

"I am interested," said the Mayor, "in having the women of this State as well as the men, both Democratic and Republican, realize that the contest in the State campaign for the Governorship will be between the public utilities and corporate interests which are in control of the State Government at Albany on one side and the people and the home rule interests on the other.

"These vicious interests are prepared to put millions into the campaign to continue their control and are now organizing to send out misguided women to viciously attack those whose names have been prominently mentioned for this high State office.

"The women must stand for principle and the right of the masses should organize so that the people will not be misled by those misguided women who are being used by the very interests that are robbing the public."

The Mayor seemed considerably disturbed over the action of the Democratic women of Westchester County who on Tuesday adopted resolutions denouncing Hearst. The occasion was a luncheon to Mrs. Daniel O'Day and Miss Harriet May Mills of Syracuse, Chairman-Coadjutor of the Democratic State Committee, given at the Westchester-Biltmore Country Club.

William J. Conners, Mr. Hearst's fellow publisher and principal political promoter, also commented on the attack.

"Mrs. O'Day, if I read the papers aright, said at this luncheon that Governor Miller was a man of high intellect and great ability," said Mr. Conners. "To my way of thinking such kind of Republican, especially when uttered in a gathering of Democratic women. Anyhow, the women on whose votes we will depend to make Hearst Governor don't belong to the Westchester-Biltmore Country Club set. I take it every one of these women came in limousines. Hearst's support will come from the women, regardless of party, who have got to ride on street cars and pay an increased fare and from the housewives who find it hard to make both ends meet with enlarged gas bills and the higher cost of everything for the household."

Governor Miller left the city early yesterday and returned to Albany, where he will remain until the week end, which he will spend at the "Summer Capitol," at Lake George. The Governor expects to put in a great deal of his time during the month of July at his Summer home, resting up for the Fall campaign, provided he heeds the party call and accepts a renomination. Republican leaders are almost unanimous in the belief that he will run and expect an announcement from him to that effect within the next two or three weeks.

It is expected that the definite statement regarding the Governor's intentions will about synchronize with the prospective meeting of the Republican State Committee by which runs are held about July 15 to issue the formal call for the Republican State Convention. This in all likelihood, will be held in Albany on Sept. 27 and 28.

A request from Chicago yesterday to arrest Edward A. Aaron for postal thefts in Chicago furnished the police with a possible explanation of many mail box robberies on Washington Heights which have puzzled them for more than a month. Aaron was found living at 567 West 191st street, and in his pockets were money orders and checks which, the police say, he admitted taking from boxes in apartment houses.

A will was found on Aaron, according to the police, which is believed to have been extracted from a letter box. It was the will of Jacob Baehr of 501 West 187th Street and had been carried about for some time. Whether it had been mailed to a lawyer for probate was not learned.

Aaron said he was an automobile salesman, and had been in New York since May 9. He had operated for a time in Cleveland and Detroit after leaving Chicago and before coming to this city. Letter box robberies on Washington Heights have been reported to the police for some time, and when word was received yesterday from Chief of Detectives Michael Hughes of Chicago to arrest Aaron Detectives Mullins and Geiger thought they had the man they had been looking for.

They stopped Aaron as he was leaving his home yesterday and searched him. They found checks for amounts ranging from $35 to $100, and money orders for small sums. There were also receipts for furs left in storage by women in Cleveland, and from checks made out by Aaron to a woman it is thought he had a woman confederate who aided him in reclaiming the furs.

He was held by Magistrate Oberwager in the Washington Heights Police Court yesterday in $10,000 bail on a charge of grand larceny for examination on Friday.

WAINWRIGHT NAMED FOR CONGRESS SEAT

ENDORSE WARD PROSECUTOR

County Committee Approves Woman for $10,000 Job as Judge of Juvenile Court.

Special to The New York Times.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., June 21.—J. Mayhew Wainwright of Rye, Assistant Secretary of War and former State Senator, was designated this afternoon as the Republican candidate for Congress from this district to succeed James W. Husted, the present incumbent, who will not seek another term in the House of Representatives. The designation took place at the regular meeting of the County Republican Committee, held publicly at the Palace Theatre here. William L. Ward, county leader, presided.

Whether Mr. Wainwright will be willing to resign from President Harding's "baby cabinet" of assistant secretaries to become Congressman is not certain.

In indorsing Mr. Wainwright and other Republican nominees, among them District Attorney Frederick R. Weeks, who is also Mayor of White Plains, Mr. Ward said, in part:

"We come before the people of Westchester this election without apology."

Political gossip had it that public opinion concerning the Ward killing mystery and the length of time taken by Mr. Weeks to return an indictment for murder in the case might hamper his chances for renomination to become District Attorney.

In indorsing Mr. Weeks, County Committeeman Earl P. Hite cited Mr. Weeks as "as an absolutely fearless official, who will not be swayed for fear, favor or personal or public opinion while in office."

Walter W. Westall of White Plains, now serving in the State Assembly, was indorsed for State Senator to fill the vacancy to be created when the present incumbent, George T. Burling of White Plains, carries out his announced intention to retire.

Other indorsements were William F. Bleakley for County Judge, Miss Ruth Taylor, now assistant Commissioner of Charities and Corrections, for Judge of the New Children's Court; Louis N. Elrodt for County Clerk, George A. Taylor for Justice for Supreme Court to succeed Martin J. Keough; V. Everit Macy for Commissioner of Charities and Corrections, and Dr. Fred A. Snowden for Coroner. Harry R. Barrett continues as City Chairman and indorsed Miss Taylor's endorsement for Judge of the Juvenile Court at a salary of $10,000 a year was heartily approved by the women members of the party present. She lives in Scarsdale.

MRS. OLESEN STATES CAMPAIGN PLATFORM

PHILADELPHIA, June 21.—In a copyrighted dispatch to The Public Ledger, Mrs. Anna D. Olesen, who has been nominated my Minnesota Democrats for United States Senator, says:

"The Democratic Party has a good fighting chance in Minnesota. While the odds are against us, hard work can win success.

"In my public speeches I seldom made any plea for votes for myself. I am more interested in presenting the truth about present political conditions than in my own political fortunes. My campaign till November will be made mostly in a Ford sedan car which the ladies of Minneapolis have generously given me. The people of Minnesota are very hospitable and will entertain me gladly in their homes, cutting down the usual campaign expenses.

"In the campaign this year I shall stand for the basic American doctrines and policies brought up to date. This Government was organized for the general welfare; therefore, I am against a millionaire bloc in the Senate. I want to work for a people's bloc there. In other words, I stand for equal rights for all and special privileges for none.

"I believe the present tariff should be lowered in order that we may have a market for the products of the farmers abroad. The Esch-Cummins bill should be repealed. The policy of giving special aid and subsidies for special interests is unsound economically and is wrong politically.

"I am against a sales tax. I am for a soldiers' bonus to be taken out of excess profits. I consider the seating of Mr. Newberry one of the great political crimes of our history and am in favor of reopening the case in the Senate.

"My campaign was made absolutely in the open. I was more interested in giving the platform to the people than in furthering my own candidacy. Women's influence should strengthen the forces of unselfishness in both parties. Courage and absolute honesty will win."

WILL RUN AGAINST LODGE.

Ex-Speaker Joseph Walker Assails Senator as a Reactionary.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, June 21.—Joseph Walker, former speaker of the Massachusetts House, took out his papers today as a candidate for the Republican nomination for United States Senator, and in an attack on Senators Lodge declared that in all of the thirty years of his public service Senator Lodge could not point to a single piece of constructive legislation initiated by him for the benefit of the rank and file of the people he was chosen to serve.

Mr. Walker declared that Senator Lodge was part and parcel of the vicious political machine which was controlled and dominated by Boies Penrose for the special interests of organized plutocracies and powerful corporations and which broke down the young men in political life who dared to oppose them.

Mr. Walker says that the senior Senator represents the reaction as was demonstrated by his vote for Newberry and by "unscientific and unjust tariff making."

BREAKS JAIL THRICE, CAUGHT AMID SHOTS

PLANS SEPTEMBER FLIGHT

"Olly" Rockford, 22, with a penchant for jail-breaking, was recaptured yesterday after having been missing from the Welfare Island Penitentiary since May, 1921. Rockford promises to escape again in time to bask in the sunshine of September.

The fugitive was caught on the roof of the tenement at 257 Avenue C after detectives from the East Twenty-second Street Station had fired a dozen shots in a chase that led past hundreds of girl employes in the plant of the New England Pie Baking Company, at 531 East Fifteenth Street.

Rockford first was sent across the East River to serve a term on Aug. 5, 1919. He was in the penitentiary just about a week and then escaped in mysterious fashion. He was re-arrested and returned to prison on May 14, 1920, and five days later fled again. The police picked him up once more on Sept. 13, 1920, and it was not until the following April that he tried a dash for liberty. This attempt failed.

On Decoration Day, 1921, while the holiday baseball game was in progress, Rockford and another prisoner fled in a rowboat and were close to the Manhattan shore before the escape was discovered. Keepers were just getting under way from the island when the escaping rowboat was overturned. Rockford came to the surface, swam to the waterfront and escaped. His companion was drowned.

Detectives Gilman, Donlin and Lambert of the East Twenty-second Street Station, who knew Rockford well, have maintained a watch on Rockford's haunts and have trailed his friends. Word came to the detectives yesterday that Rockford had appeared in the vicinity of Avenue B and Fifteenth Street. Gilman, Donlin and Lambert climbed into a police auto and hurried there. Midway between Avenue B and Avenue C in Fifteenth Street they saw their quarry, and at about the same instant Rockford saw them. He turned and sped for the Avenue C corner—the shouts of the detectives stirring the dwellers in the crowded houses and bringing the girl pie-makers to the windows. Followed by a throng the detectives reached the corner in time to see Rockford dart into the hallway of a tenement. As the fleeing man turned into the doorway the three detectives each fired four shots—all missing.

Donlin and Gilman dashed upstairs, while Lambert ran to the house next door and went to the roof. Back of a chimney the pursuers found Rockford, who offered no resistance. His only remark was in the station house when he said to Detective Gilman:

"You must be sore on me to take me in, but never mind, I'll be out again by next September."

SEES REAL PROGRESS IN PROHIBITION HERE

'Pussyfoot' Johnson Tells Bowery Mission Cause Will Not Fail—Off to England Today.

In his last lecture in this country before his departure today for another tour of England and New Zealand in the campaign for prohibition, William E. (Pussyfoot) Johnson was frequently applauded by an audience that packed the Bowery Mission last night as he told of the progress prohibition is making in India and other countries throughout the world. Mr. Johnson returned only a few months ago from India, where he got a notable reception in every town and city he visited.

India, he said, was looking to America in its experiment with prohibition. America would not fail, but would demonstrate to the whole world that prohibition was a success. The people of India know that if prohibition in America should fail the prohibition cause would be set back 100 years.

Mr. Johnson referred to the difficulties in enforcement in this country, and declared that in spite of the violations of the law the scandals that had developed, much progress had been made. "Our prohibition law," he said, "is better enforced on the Bowery tonight than the license law ever was after 100 years of trial."

Next he spoke of the "jag cures," some 300 of them, which did a thriving business in the days before the prohibition law became effective. "I have recently been trying to check up and see how many there are left," the speaker continued, "and so far I have been able to find only two or three." He admitted that they did a lot of good, for a victim of drink needs anything that will aid him on the road to get again, but added that "while these 'jag cures' have disappeared from America, they are opening up all over Europe, where there is no prohibition, and are making a lot of money."

When Mr. Johnson concluded his address the audience arose and gave three cheers for him and wished him a successful trip to Europe. He will sail today.

Anson C Baker, Secretary of the mission, who presided, after thanking Mr. Johnson for making his last appearance in America before the mission, remarked that no one who lived on the Bowery five years ago and who lived there now could help but note the big change wrought by prohibition. Drunkenness, he asserted, had decreased 75 per cent.

At the close of the meeting more than half of the audience of 700 men went downstairs, where every night coffee and bread are served to those attending the meetings.

NO LEVY ON OFFICEHOLDERS

Pennsylvania Republican Committee Accepts Pinchot's View.

PHILADELPHIA, June 21.—Agreement that the Republican State Committee will neither levy assessments on office holders nor solicit contributions from them for the campaign this Fall was reached today at a conference among Gifford Pinchot, the party's candidate for Governor; United States Senator George Wharton Pepper and members of the State Committee. Mr. Pinchot declared in an address that such assessments would have to be discontinued or he would not be his own campaign

UNFROCKED PASTOR SEIZED AS BIGAMIST

WOMAN ALSO ARRESTED

Ex-Clergyman, Indicted Here in 1920, Is Said to Have Defrauded Four Women.

The arrest in Los Angeles, Cal., of Donald D. Stewart, an unfrocked Presbyterian minister and former dry campaigner, by Pinkerton detectives and the Los Angeles police was announced by the agency in this city yesterday. He is wanted in Boston, Mass., on charges of bigamy, grand larceny and conspiracy.

It is charged that Stewart is mixed up in at least four bigamous marriages, all of which involved the fleecing of the brides or their families. Stewart's operations extended, it is said, from Boston to California.

When the Aetna Savings and Trust Company of Indianapolis, Ind., reported being defrauded on a check of $1,250 on the Colonial Bank of New York, it was charged that Stewart had married Bertha E. Grannis there in February, 1921, and had induced her mother, Mrs. Agnes L. Grannis, to identify him at the bank. The trail then led to Detroit, where, it is alleged, Stewart defrauded a brother of his Indianapolis bride.

In Detroit, it is further charged, Stewart had two wives, one Ethel M. Turner Osbaldeston, married in March, 1920, and Mary Barbara James of Mount Carmel, Pa., married at Wilmington, Del., in November, 1918. The Osbaldeston woman, who was arrested in Los Angeles with the ex-clergyman, posed in Detroit as "Mrs. Turner," and the James woman was living as "Mrs. Mitchel," it was reported, while in Detroit Stewart courted still another woman, Gertrude van Lopik, and defrauded her uncle of $850.

Later Stewart, accompanied by Mrs. Turner, went to Boston, where the woman is said to have posed as his sister and aided him in marrying Norma Ehrenseller under the name of "Donald Allen McGregor," in September, 1921, and fleecing her parents of $1,000 and stealing $1,500 from the girl. Stewart and Mrs. Turner were trailed to New York and later to Sierra Madre, Cal.

Stewart was indicted here in November, 1920, on the complaint of Mrs. Osbaldeston, who charged that he had posed as his sister and aided in some of the bigamous marriages of which he is accused. On March 6, 1920, it is charged, Stewart married Mrs. Osbaldeston in New York.

Records of the church show Stewart to have been stationed in Texas in 1911. He was in Southern Arizona in 1912 and 1913. Earlier he held a pulpit in Paterson, N. J.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., June 21.—Donald D. Stewart, author of the song "We'll Make California Dry," was arrested near Sierra Madre last night on charges that he has committed bigamy in a number of States and swindled his wives of thousands of dollars. Taken into custody with Stewart was Mrs. Ethel Turner Osbaldeston, who, it was asserted by the police, posed as his sister and arranged his matrimonial escapades.

The couple were brought to the Central Police Station in Los Angeles and booked as fugitives from justice. The man is said to be wanted in Boston on a bigamy charge.

The Pinkerton Agency charges that Stewart is wanted for bigamy in several large Eastern cities, including Indianapolis, New York, Detroit and Boston.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., June 21.—The arrest of Donald D. Stewart in California ends a search conducted since July, 1921, after it was reported by the police that he had defrauded the Aetna Savings and Trust Company of Indianapolis of $1,250 and deserted Bertha Ellen Grannis of this city, whom he married here in February, 1921. According to the authorities, he also defrauded Bruce Grannis, a brother of the Indianapolis wife, of $1,200, and sold a car belonging to another brother.

His real name was declared to be Robert Alan McLaren Browne, and he was said to have been ordained a Presbyterian minister in New York City in 1908, losing his standing in 1915, following mention of his name in connection with the suicide of Mrs. Maude Hendrix at Stockton, Cal.

Stewart is indicted on charges of bigamy and issuing fraudulent checks in Indianapolis in December, 1921.

THREE KILLED, 3 HURT IN MOTOR ACCIDENTS

Mother Saves Her Son, but Is Run Over by Taxi—Policeman Rescues Little Girl.

Hurrying to join boys playing ball, John Crahan, 10 years old, of 783 Eleventh Avenue, was struck by an automobile truck at Tenth Avenue and Fifty-fourth Street. He died a few minutes later in Roosevelt Hospital. Two drivers, Alfred Schweitzer of 305 East Ninety-ninth Street, was arrested on a technical charge of homicide.

An unidentified Italian, about 35 years old, slipped on the wet street and was fatally injured by an automobile truck as he attempted to board at First Avenue and Thirty-sixth Street. He was taken to Bellevue Hospital in an automobile, but was dead.

George Calapothakis, 7 years old, of 41 North Fifth Avenue, Mount Vernon, was killed by an automobile while crossing Fourth Avenue near Stevens Avenue, a block from his home. Clyde R. Schick of 43 North Street, driver of the automobile, was held for the Coroner.

Ambrose J. Haddock, a probationary patrolman, saved a little girl from being run down at Forsythe and Stanton Streets by an automobile which Mark Masta of 96 East Broadway was learning to drive. The officer suffered a broken leg when he was crushed against a fire alarm pillar. He was taken to Gouverneur Hospital.

Mrs. Freda Tolinsky of 99 William Street is in Gouverneur Hospital with a fractured skull and internal injuries. Her son Louis, 7 years old, is confined there with a fractured collarbone. They were hurt on Tuesday night near their home. Louis was crossing the street when a taxicab operated by Harry Schermer of 172 Attorney Street bore down on him. He slipped and fell directly in front of it. The mother darted out, lifted the boy and threw him aside. The wheels passed over her. Schermer was held for examination on a charge of felonious assault.

MILLER CORRECTS PHRASE.

Spoke of "Masses of the People" in Cities.

ALBANY, N. Y., June 21.—Governor Miller today corrected a statement attributed to him in accounts of his speech last night before the Queens County Republican Committee to the effect that "the great masses of people do not understand our institutions or the history of our Government."

"I can't imagine anybody either thinking or saying such a thing," the Governor said. "What I said was that there were masses of the people who congregate in the cities who were unacquainted with our manners, customs, traditions and institutions, and that instead of fooling them and misleading them by false promises we ought to tell them the truth; that we ought to attempt to teach them the benefits of free institutions and accustom them to our manners.

"That is what I said. Somebody transposed a phrase and put in a word, and made me say something that is perfectly ridiculous."

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 21.—Because Congress has provided no funds for the purpose, prisoners awaiting trial for minor offenses in the Police Court Building are forced to go through the entire day without food, unless they are fortunate enough to have money or friends.

Just before leaving the police precinct stations prisoners receive a meagre breakfast of a sandwich and a cup of coffee, and until their cases have been disposed of this is the last food the Government thinks of providing for them. During the noon hour, while court officials and witnesses are out for luncheon, the prisoners are locked in cells in the Police Court Building, where there are not even fans to keep the air in circulation.

"We have been trying for several years," said Judge Robert N. Hardison today, "to persuade Congress to feed the prisoners, who are compelled to wait from early in the morning to sometimes late in the evening for something to eat. It is a shame that the Federal Government is so negligent."

LA FOLLETTE ASSAILS BUTLER IN SENATE

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 21.—Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, President of Columbia University, was denounced in the Senate today by Senator La Follette as "the handy man of privilege" and as a "bootlicker of men of fortune." The Senator's wrath was due to a speech Dr. Butler delivered in Atlantic City last week in which he charged that Mr. La Follette is preaching doctrines that are anti-American and inimical to liberty and justice. Dr. Butler's remarks were directed at the speech which Mr. La Follette made before the American Federation of Labor in Cincinnati last Wednesday.

In that speech Senator La Follette criticised the courts of the country, including the Supreme Court, a speech that Dr. Butler characterized as an attack upon the very cornerstone of our American political system, which is the "judicial protection of individual liberty and private rights." Extracts from Dr. Butler's speech were placed in the Congressional Record last Monday by Senator Edge of New Jersey, and it was that action of Senator Edge's that precipitated today's three-hour wrangle in which Senators La Follette, Edge and Kellogg did practically all the talking.

Senator La Follette charged yesterday that the action of Senator Edge in putting into the Record an article reflecting upon another Senator had violated the courtesy rules of the Senate in that he had not given Senator La Follette notice of his intention. Today Senator La Follette read into the record the text of the speech he delivered in Cincinnati last week.

The controversy was opened by Senator Edge who insisted that his action in inserting the Butler speech in the Record was entirely proper. He declared it was unethical "to bring to the attention of the country a clearly expressed opposition to the constitutional theory of the Senator from Wisconsin, thank God I am unafraid."

When Senator Edge concluded Senator Kellogg was recognized and made a speech defending the courts and declared that if the La Follette theories were accepted it would mean the destruction of the liberties of the American people.

Senator La Follette was quick to reply. He called attention to the fact that yesterday, when he agreed to an adjournment it was the understanding that he would be recognized as soon as the Senate convened today.

"When I rose in my seat," said Senator La Follette, "rather expecting to be recognized the Senator, the famous 'trust buster' from Minnesota, bobbed up and was given recognition. It was instant recognition, as though the wires had all been charged to insure it. He said something about making a tariff speech, and so I went to my room to do some work. Then word came to me that this famous 'trust buster' was attacking the speech I made in Cincinnati, a speech that has never been published and that nobody knows anything about excepting as to certain extracts printed in the newspapers."

Senator La Follette then attacked Dr. Butler, adding that he "happens to be at the head of Columbia University, sustained by private contributions, a bootlicker of men of fortune in order that he may continue to obtain endowments to that institution to serve privilege."

Senator La Follette declared that some of the most distinguished of the men who have served in the Supreme Court have been its most severe critics, among them being, he said, Justices Day and Holmes and the late Justice Harlan. The Supreme Court, he said, has been gradually encroaching upon the legislative branch of the Government until the court has "well-nigh destroyed the scheme of this Government prepared and carried out for us by our fathers in establishing this Government."

"Justices Harlan, Holmes and Day, he declared, said that the Supreme Court violates the Constitution when it assumes to legislate when "the founders of the Government said that the Congress should legislate and that the Supreme Court should administer the law as written." The Supreme Court, he said, has departed from the position allotted to it by the founders of the Government and has become "in large measure a legislative body injecting their views into the acts of Congress and modifying those acts in plain violation of the purpose and intent of Congress."

BOY SHOT CHEERING FIGHT.

Another, Watching Combat, Arrested—Blank Cartridge, He Says.

His cheers for a pal engaged in a fist-fight last night with another boy to decide which was the "better man" caused William Laakso, 14 years old, of 340 East Forty-second Street to be taken to Bellevue Hospital with a gunshot wound in his right side.

Twenty or thirty boys were in a vacant lot on Thirtieth Street, near First Avenue, watching the combatants grin and take. Young Laakso cheered loudly for the youth who had his sympathies. One of the group warned Laakso to stop, but he cheered louder.

Andrew Lepak, 14 years old, of 334 First Avenue, who brought the wounded boy to the hospital, told the police that when Laakso continued cheering, the boy who had warned him drew a revolver and shot him. The other boys, including the gunman, scattered and fled. Detectives Carlson and Blasi arrested Angelo Altimal, 16 years old, of 312 East Thirty-third Street. According to the detectives, a revolver loaded with blank cartridges was found in Altimal's possession. Altim

FINANCIAL MARKETS

As a financial landmark, yesterday's lowering of the Reserve Bank rediscount rate from 4½ per cent. to 4 was the event of the day. The change was plainly enough recognition of the fact that 4½ per cent. at the bank was wholly out of touch with the open market's 3¼ per cent. on rediscountable bankers' acceptances, and largely so with the prevalent 4¼ per cent. street rate on merchants' paper. When the Reserve Bank made its last reduction in November from 5 to 4½, acceptances were ruling in the open market at 4⅜ per cent. and commercial paper at 5⅛.

On that occasion, therefore, the Reserve Bank led the way in the lowering of rates; the open market followed the bank, though only slowly. Since the open market had itself led the way to yesterday's reduction at the bank, it does not follow that a further decline in street rates will result. That depends on the market's own position; which, however, presumably ensures somewhat lower rates in the later Summer. What the change at the Reserve Bank really accomplishes is, first to put the bank in a position where resumption of its normal rediscounting function is possible, and, second, to exert such moral effect on financial sentiment as official recognition of easy money conditions is always bound to do.

The Reserve Bank's announcement was not made until after the close of business. On the Stock Exchange, the action of prices showed that the "panic of the short interest," in consequence of the virtual cornering of Mexican Petroleum stock, had run its course. The other industrial shares which had risen 2 to 6 points in the commotion of the day before, lost half of that advance yesterday. Mexican Petroleum itself continued to rise; its extreme advance of yesterday was 9½ points, making 45½ points total rise since Thursday of last week. The sequel, so far as the market is concerned, will very possibly depend on the whim or plan of the persons responsible for this utterly unnatural movement of the price. At the close, the stock market's changes were irregular, but with declines largely predominant in active stocks.

Railway shares fell back wit hthe rest, though the day's news was not unfavorable to them. Car loadings for the week ending June 10 matched the year's highest weekly showing, that of the week before the coal strike. Considering that 204,000 cars of coal were put in commission during that week as against only 94,800 in the week now reported on, the achievement is notable. The greatly enlarged movement of general merchandise, of which the car loadings of this last report were 94,000 above the same week in 1921, an increase of 30 per cent., explains the comparison and shows what is going on in traffic. Liberty bonds were again conspicuous in yesterday's market; two of them reaching new high figures for the year, one selling at the previous highest figure and another establishing a new record.

By the estimates of the midweek steel trade reviews, average present output of all the works in the Pittsburgh district ranges from 70 to 75 per cent.; with some Middle Western mills falling still further behind in deliveries, most mills sold ahead for several weeks and labor scarcity developing at various producing points. This last-mentioned development, in the one manufacturing industry which has thus far struck the pace of vigorous recovery, raises interesting questions as to what would be the status of labor supply in the event of general and emphatic trade revival. Except for 1919, when the highly artificial circumstances of wartime had not disappeared, the country has as yet had no opportunity of testing adequately the results of the new restrictions on immigration.

MONEY.

WEDNESDAY, JUNE 21, 1922.

Call money renewed on Stock Exchange at 3½ per cent., lowest rate for renewals since Oct. 11, 1917. Just before close rate advanced to 3. Ease was also evident in fixed date market, small lots of 30-day money lending at 3¼, with 60-90 day funds bid at 3¼, offered at 4, later advances ruling 4@4¼. A moderate amount of choice merchants' paper discounted at 4 per cent., local institutions taking the paper, but bulk of business still goes over 4¼@4½, which is range most attractive for country bankers. Demand rate against acceptances dropped another quarter to 2½, but bills are holding at previous levels.

London Market.

Money on London market unchanged at 2 per cent.; short bills unchanged at 2⅛ per cent., and three months' unchanged at 2⅛ per cent.

Gold bullion is 3d lower at 93s 5d. Taking the British Mint standard price of 85s per fine ounce as par, the market quotation for gold would represent a price of 109⅞ at London. On the same basis the highest London price for gold for the year to date was 115⅝, on Jan. 5. The lowest price since open trading in gold was resumed at Lancaster in September, 1918, was 110⅝, on Feb. 9, 1920; the lowest 107⅝, on June 7, 1922.

Clearing House Exchanges.

PRICES OF STEEL ADVANCE.

Uncertainty of Coal Situation Reacts on the Market.

With the uncertainties of the coal situation figuring more largely in the steel industry this week than at any time since April 1, according to The Iron Age, the upward tendency of prices is accented and the steel trade is more alert for developments. The threat of a railroad strike has not actually entered into the calculations of producers or consumers as yet, the analysis finds, but it is recognized that in the event of Government action to maintain transportation there would be stronger pressure for Federal interference to end the coal strike.

"Both makers and users of pig iron and steel products are declining to speculate on the future of the fuel situation and to that fact is due a somewhat lessened volume of new buying," it is pointed out. "Mills generally are sold for some weeks ahead, and in the main buyers are provided for well into the third quarter. It is the moderate and natural run of early delivery needs on which prices advances occur.

"Over 5,500 railroad car and car body purchases came to light in the last week, and contracts were closed for the repairs to 4,000 cars.

"The week's business in fabricated steel was fully 30,000 tons in sizable projects, not including 18,000 tons for oil tanks for the Sinclair company. The May total proved larger than expected, amounting to 42 per cent. of the country's capacity and greater than any May record."

DENIES NEW HAVEN RUMOR.

E. J. Pearson Says Road Is Making No Attempt to Control B. & M.

The New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad is making no attempt to control the Boston & Maine Railroad or to interfere in any manner in the handling of matters between this company and those in the territory which it serves, according to a statement yesterday by Edward J. Pearson, President of the New Haven, in answer to recent statements of this character. Mr. Pearson's comment was prompted by the "misunderstanding in some quarters" as to United States Judge Mayer's decision to the effect that the New York, New Haven & Hartford was entitled to five Directors on the board of the Boston & Maine. The New Haven owns 25 per cent. of the stock of the Boston & Maine.

Concerning the rumored attempt at control of the New Haven or of the New England situation by the Pennsylvania Railroad, Mr. Pearson quoted the statement of President Rea of the Pennsylvania that there had been no change during the last ten years in the holdings of New Haven stock by the Pennsylvania, which approximates 3 per cent. of the total, and that no arrangements had been made to secure control of the New Haven.

Newton Steel Declares Dividend.

The Newton Steel Company yesterday declared an initial dividend of $1.50 on the common stock and the regular quarterly dividend of $1.75 on the preferred stock, both payable July 1 to stock of record June 20.

Wheeling and Richmond Seeking Funds for Improvements Totaling $8,750,000.

White, Weld & Co. are offering a new issue of $3,085,000 Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railway equipment trust 5 per cent. gold certificates, series A. They are due $539,000 annually from July 15, 1923, to 1927, inclusive, and are offered at prices to yield 5 per cent. for the 1923 maturity, 5.10 per cent. for the 1924 maturity, 5.15 per cent. for the 1925 maturity, 5.20 per cent. for the 1926 maturity, 5.30 per cent. for the 1927 maturity and 5.40 per cent. for maturities from 1928 to 1937. The certificates are issued under the Philadelphia plan and are guaranteed by endorsement by the railroad. The Trustee retains full title to the equipment so long as any certificates are outstanding.

Bonbright & Co., Inc., and W. C. Langley & Co. are offering a new issue of $3,000,000 of the Kansas Electric Power Company 15-year non-callable first mortgage 6 per cent. series A gold bonds at 97 and interest, to yield more than 6.30 per cent. These bonds will be secured by a direct first mortgage on the entire property of the company, and all stocks of the subsidiary companies, with the exception of the qualifying shares, will be pledged under the mortgage. The proceeds from the sale of the securities and from the sale of $750,000 par value of preferred stock will be used to refund bonds, for the acquisition of properties and for the building of additions, extensions, improvements, &c., to the present plant and transmission lines. Gross earnings for the twelve months ended April 30, 1922, were $1,565,210. The corporation serves prosperous communities in Leavenworth, Emporia, Lawrence, Parsons and fourteen other communities in Kansas with electric light and power. Electric light and power are furnished to sixteen communities in Indiana, Pennsylvania and Ohio through its subsidiaries.

A syndicate headed by Stacy & Braun, and including the First National Bank, Redmond & Co., Kissel, Kinnicutt & Co., Eldredge & Co. and B. J. Van Ingen, is offering a new issue of $2,000,000 City of Wheeling (W. Va.) 5 per cent. water works bonds at prices to yield 4.40 per cent. They mature serially from 1932 to 1952. B. J. Van Ingen & Co. are offering $500,000 City of Charleston (S. C.) 4½ per cent. port utilities bonds at 4.40 per cent. They are due Jan. 1, 1962, and are optional Jan. 1, 1942.

The Equitable Trust Company and Hallgarten & Co. are offering a new issue of $1,750,000 City of Richmond (Va.) 4¼ and 4½ per cent. bonds. FOREIGN EXCHANGE

The market yesterday showed a much steadier tendency than that which prevailed in the two preceding sessions, and although rates slumped in the forenoon, in keeping with weakness in the foreign centres, a later rally made up some of the earlier losses. Scandinavians were a feature, advancing beyond Tuesday's levels.

In the final analysis sterling at 3.42¾ showed a loss of 1¾ cents, which was a recovery of one cent from the day's low, while French at 5.62¼ cents and Rome at 4.86½ were weak but an improvement from low. Holland, German and other Continentals move sympathetically.

In the subjoined table the quotation on sterling represents dollars and decimals of a dollar; all others represent cents and decimals of a cent. Quotations preceded by the decimal mark indicate a price measured in fractions of a cent.

RESERVE BANK CUTS REDISCOUNTS TO 4%

The Federal Reserve Bank of New York yesterday reduced its rate on rediscounts and advances of all classes from 4½ per cent. to 4 per cent. The new rate supersedes one which has been in effect since Nov. 3, 1921, and marks the sixth time, during the course of liquidation, that a cut has been announced. The maximum was 7 per cent., which prevailed from Feb. 5 to May 4, 1921.

The following notice was mailed last night to all member banks:

"To Member Banks:

"You are advised that, effective from the opening of business on Thursday, June 22, 1922, until further notice, and superseding all existing rates, this bank has established a rate of 4 per cent. for all rediscounts and advances. Very truly yours,

"BENJAMIN STRONG, Governor."

The lowered discount rate did not occasion any surprise in the financial district. In fact, it has been freely predicted since the lowering of the Bank of England rate last week that the New York Federal Reserve Bank would soon take similar action. The position of the New York bank has made such a course possible for several weeks.

The rate has come down by easy stages from the maximum of 7 per cent. to the present one of 4 per cent., each decline reflecting, in the opinion of bankers, another step in the course of liquidation and the strengthening of 6,300 member institutions of the New York bank. The first decline was on May 5, 1921, when the rate was reduced from 7 per cent. to 6½ per cent. This was followed on June 16 with a cut to 6 per cent. On July 21 the rate of 6½ per cent. was announced, and on Sept. 22 it was further reduced to 5 per cent. The last reduction, prior to that of yesterday, was to 4½ per cent., and occurred on Nov. 3, 1921.

A comparison of the last Federal Reserve Bank statement with the one issued in November, 1921, offers an interesting view of the improvement which has taken place in the bank's position. This comparison follows:

One of the reasons the 4% per cent. rate has been maintained since last Fall has been the fear of Reserve officials that a sudden reduction might induce another era of inflation and speculation. All danger of such a development evidently has passed.

WASHINGTON, June 21.—The New York Reserve Bank is the only one so far to have advised the Federal Reserve Board of its intention to reduce its rediscount rates. It was said today at the Treasury. It was indicated, however, that other reserve banks might follow the example of New York.

San Francisco has been reported to be considering a rate reduction but thus far, it was said, has sent no definite advices.

Whether borrowings would be stimulated by lowering of the Federal Reserve rediscount rate officials would not predict, but the action of the New York bank following upon the recent rate cut by the Bank of England would make it appear, it was said, that reductions were in the air.

Regular and Extra Dividend.

The Directors of the Mechanics and Metals National Bank yesterday declared an extra dividend of 2 per cent. and th eregular quarterly dividend of 5 per cent. Both are payable July 1 to stock of record June 24.

EARNINGS EXPLAIN MEX. PETE'S JUMP

Profits Last Year $22,449,426, a Gain of $6,979,693 Over 1920.

A record of earnings unsurpassed in the history of the company was shown yesterday in the annual report of the Mexican Petroleum Company for 1921, and furnished a basis for the recent sensational advance in the stock. While the volume of business was about the same as in 1920, the profits from operations were $22,449,426, compared with $15,469,733 a year ago. After charging off $6,267,776 for depreciation and depletion and setting aside $3,000,000 to cover income and profits taxes and contingencies, there was a net profit for the year of $12,540,684, equivalent, after providing for preferred dividends, to $26.82 a share on the common stock. This compares with a net of $9,773,800 available for dividends in the preceding year, which, when applied to the common stock, was equal to $20.50 a share.

Balance after dividends	6,348,784	*4,040

The balance sheet shows current assets of $36,410,894 and current liabilities of $10,369,898. This shows working capital of approximately $16,000,000. In the preceding year current assets totaled $26,253,470 and current liabilities of $10,885,007. Whereas the statement of the surplus account showed $18,810,787 at the close of 1920, surplus at the end of last year amounted to $25,151,521. In commenting on the report yesterday, Edward L. Doheny, President of the company, made amazing predictions as to the potential production of the corporation's properties in Mexico. He said:

"It is conservative to say that all our wells coculd produce at least 1,000,000 barrels of oil a day if run to capacity. Some people have from time to time attempted to fix a date when our production will be exhausted, but there never has been a time since our Cerro Azul 4 well came in in February, 1916, when we could not have taken at least 250,000 barrels a day. We took less because we did not have the tank steamer facilities to move that much oil.

"In Cierro Viejo, which we own jointly with the Mexican Eagle Oil Company, we are taking 82,000 barrels of oil daily from one well. One other well is completed, but shut in, and another is being drilled. The oil is being run by the Mexican Eagle Oil Company for its account, as they need it, but we have a one-half interest in the property.

"All of our production at the present time is coming from our wells on the northern border of Cerro Azul in what is known as Totoco-Cerro Azul district. We are not taking any oil from our wells No. 4 and No. 5, which are further in the interior of the Cerro Azul tract. Our Cierra Blanca No. 2 well, which came in early this month, is capable of producing over 100,000 barrels of oil daily, and further proves up our reserves."

Present Earnings $9 Per Share.

In commenting on current earnings of the company, Mr. Doheny stated that they were running at approximately the same rate as in the last quarter of 1921, which was $9 a share for the period. At present the company is taking about 140,000 barrels of oil a day from its wells. Some idea of the heavy taxes which the company pays both here and in Mexico is to be found in the remarks of Mr. Doheny in the annual report. During 1921 the taxes paid to the Mexican Government amounted to $6,700,000, or over $15 a share on the outstanding common stock. In addition the amount set aside to pay taxes to the United States Government is the equivalent of nearly $7 a share on the common stock, thus the combined taxes in the two countries equal $22 a share as against $13 a share distributed as dividends to holders of the common stock. The report asserts that the Mexican Petroleum Company and its subsidiaries are the largest taxpayers the Mexican Government has ever had.

During last year the Mexican Petroleum Company expended approximately $18,500,000 on capital improvements in Mexico, the United States and elsewhere. Of this total, $8,770,000 was in Mexico. The only comment in the report regarding the salt water question is contained in the following paragraph which follows a statement showing the successful drilling campaign which was carried on during the year. This reads as follows:

Salt Water Stories Denied.

"Each one of these successful wells drilled throughout this extensive hitherto undeveloped region is a refutation of the false reports circulated by various so-called geologists and experts during the past year, and proves the correctness of the statements and the accuracy of the predictions made by our management in its last report. In addition to the large amount of oil which has been and which will yet be delivered from the Cerro Azul-Toteco pool, there has been developed by the wells already drilled by your company an area which is at least ten times as great and no doubt will be at least ten times as productive as the Cerro Azul-Toteco pool. This may seem incredible, but it is a true reiteration of opinions that we have expressed in your annual reports during the past sixteen years."

The annual report of the Pan-American Petroleum and Transport Company, which controls $58,827,465 par value of the common and preferred stock of the Mexican Petroleum Company, was issued in conjunction with the Mexican Petroleum report. Earnings of this company amounted to $18,162,213 after provision for depreciation, depletion, taxes and other deductions. This compares with $12,887,732 earned in 1920 and $6,591,421 in 1919. The increase in earnings over 1921, it is asserted, was due principally to the greater earnings from steamship operations and the increased earnings of the Mexican Petroleum Company and its other controlled companies. Net profits for the year were the equivalent of $12.84 a share, or nearly 26 per cent. on the entire capital stock outstanding.

With relations to the company's California property, the operating profit derived therefrom was approximately the same as in 1920. During the year, however, the report asserts that $3,000,000 was expended in the acquisiton and development of new property. At the end of the year the company held in fee or under lease 31,000 acres of land in California, Oklahoma and Louisiana, of which 25,000 acres were situated in California. It is asserted that the prospect for production from these fields makes the Pan-American Petroleum Company rank as fourth in importance among the oil companies of California.

The balance sheet shows investments of $63,250,846 in the stocks of the Mexican Petroleum Company, the Caloric Company and affiliated company, the British Mexican Petroleum Company, and the Bankers and Shippers' Insurance Company. Current assets at the end of the year were $4,722,390 and current liabilities $4,702,897. Surplus account at the end of the year stood at $25,457,433. At the close of 1920 the surplus was $18,660,970.

MEX PETE SALES ORDERS.

Brokers Require That Stock Be on Hand for Delivery.

Odd lot brokers, acting on their own initiative, yesterday sent out notices to all of the large commission houses that they will not accept any selling orders in odd lots for Mexican Petroleum unless the customer has the stock on hand to deliver. On receipt of this notice, practically all of the houses advised their customers similarly.

None of the odd lot brokers would make a statement about their action. The notice of the announcement acted as a damper on the advance which had been recorded in the stock and it declined from $179, at which price it was selling when the notices were sent out, to $175. The movement in the stock started last Thursday at $133.

The second of a series of oil conferences which began Tuesday between five of the leading American oil producers and Minister of Finance de la Huerta of Mexico was held yesterday, E. L. Doheny, President of the Pan-American Petroleum and Transport Company and Chairman of the Board of the Mexican Petroleum Corporation, who is serving on the committee of American oil executives, said after the meeting that the discussion thus far indicated that the Mexican representatives appeared favorably disposed to grant the guarantees which the American interests insisted must be obtained before they could go forward with any new exploration work. He said:

"The present conferences consist of an endeavor on the part of oil executives to have the Mexican Government adopt a plan which will give security to the companies in relation to the land which they are going to develop as well as to give the Government its share of the benefits of the results of this development.

"The companies represented at these conferences intend to act as a unit in exploration work," continued the executive, "providing guarantees can be obtained, but are not seeking any special favors or concessions. We are planning to furnish the money to find the prize which Mexico may have under her soil, but before such work is undertaken we must know all the facts entering into the case.

"The lawyers representing the Mexican officials and the companies conferred today, planning a basis of procedure, and it seems the earnest desire on the part of both sides to arrive at a mutually satisfactory plan. The American lawyers have some guarantees which they insist must be considered before giving their approval, and the Mexican representatives seem favorably disposed to grant these guarantees.

"What we are seeking to obtain is a workable, businesslike proposition under which we will know just what we are confronted with before we go ahead with any new work. We want to know what burdens, if any, we will have in the way of regulatory laws, taxation, &c., before we start spending money in the search for new oil areas in Mexico. With a suitable agreement arrived at, both sides will have a mutual understanding of what is before them."

APPEALS FOR GOOD SENSE.

"Excelsior" Editorial Says Without Guaranty Oil Men Will Forsake Mexico.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MEXICO CITY, June 21.—An editorial article in Excelsior entitled "Foreign Debt and Oil" says:

"The labor of Señor de la Huerta is not terminated. The second part is lacking which is as important as the first part, that which refers to the oil men. The service of the debt must be satisfied with taxes which the Mexican Government collects from the exportation of oil. Mexico has made definite obligations for determinated dates and when the bankers accepted the propositions of de la Huerta it is evident that they investigated before accepting our means of complying with the agreement. The old camps of our country are reduced almost exclusively to Toteco-Carro Azul, whose fabulous production is at the point of exhaustion, according to experts of the department. Creditors of Mexico extend in discount of such circumstances and would have asked to be Huerta before signing the agreement.

"With the exhaustion of the present oil camps in Mexico, the question of new zones will be assumed. Will the companies risk millions of dollars in the work of exploration in spite of the restrictions of Article XXVII. and if the large companies which dedicate time to the exploration of oil do not think they have sufficient guarantees on the part of the Government) and abandon the Mexican camps, what will the Mexican Government do? What new means of income will it substitute for the income from oil? What guarantee will be used to settle the interest on the debt if we do not have those new coming from oil?

"The companies will abandon the Mexican camps if the difficulties are not arranged satisfactorily to their interests. They will go to Colombia, Venezuela and other parts looking for solid guarantees, and we who have not capital enough for all companies will remain with the oil in the subsoil expropriated by particulars of the constitutional law. We believe, however, that good sense will prevail above revolutionary fanaticism and that Article XXVII., the flag of demagogues, will be modified for the benefit of the Mexican fatherland."

OIL STOCK SALE HELD UP.

Validity of a Loan by Brokerage Firm in Dispute.

Supreme Court Justice Cohalan signed an order yesterday restraining the sale of $750,000 par value of stock of the Stanton Oil Company pledged with the brokerage firm of W. L. Darnell & Co., pending a determination in the United States District Court in bankruptcy proceedings against the oil company as to the validity of a loan by the Darnell firm, which got the stock as security.

The suit was brought by Howard D. Wood, receiver of the oil company, who asserted that the stock had been advertised to be sold by Adrian H. Muller & Son on a claim of Charles A. Stoneham, to whom the stock was pledged by the Darnell company for a loan in July, 1920. Justice Cohalan directed the receiver to file a bond of $66,266 to protect the Darnell firm from loss.

FIVE COMPANIES TO MERGE.

Consolidated Machine Tool Corporation Capitalized at $30,000,000.

The merger of five corporations engaged in the manufacture of tools has been arranged under the name of the Consolidated Machine Tool Corporation of America, which has been incorporated in Delaware with a capitalization of $30,000,000.

Conferences to arrange the merger have been in progress for about one year. Included in the merger will be these corporations: Betts Machine Company of Rochester, N. Y.; Colburn Machine Tool Company of Cleveland, Ohio; Hilles & Jones Company of Wilmington; the Modern Tool Company of Erie, Pa., and the Newton Machine Tool Works of Philadelphia.

RAW SUGAR TOUCHES PEAK.

Cuban raw sugar sold at 3¼ cents a pound, cost and freight, yesterday, a new high for the year, and an advance of ¼ cent from the last previous sale. The new figure represents an advance of 1-16 cent from the previous high of the year registered a week or two ago. The National Sugar Refining Company was reported as buying 24,000 bags of Cuba's prompt June and July loading at 3⅛ cents, cost and freight. This establishes the duty paid spot quotation at 4.78 cents.

The market for refined sugar is now 6 cents with most refining companies, or 5.88 cents net cash, making the margin between raws and refined about 1.15 cents. In many quarters of Wall Street it is felt that this indicates higher prices for the refined product.

Spruce Lumber Up $2 to $5.

Spruce lumber prices have advanced from $2 to $5 per thousand feet board measure, according to advices received from Canada by the Royal Securities Corporation, which adds that the lumber situation looms up in promising manner both as regards demand and prices.

President Cromwell Explains Status of "When, As and If Issued" Transactions.

SPECULATION BY MEMBERS

Ethical If With Their Own Funds, He Argues—Retorts to District Attorney.

In an address made yesterday to the New York Electrical League, Seymour L. Cromwell, President of the New York Stock Exchange, described the economic functions of the Exchange, analysed dealings in securities "when, as and if issued," a practice which recently was condemned by Samuel Untermyer, and discussed the ethics of members of the Exchange speculating for their own account. In his talk Mr. Cromwell said:

"The Exchange is now a market for upward of 700 separate stocks and over 1,100 different issues of bonds, the total value at par of these securities amounting to some $60,000,000,000. A market of this character performs a great public service in that it keeps a vast proportion of the national wealth in liquid form. How efficiently the Stock Exchange performs the functions above referred to may be gathered from the fact that almost any day securities of upward of $100,000,000 par value are bought and sold on the New York Stock Exchange, and seldom are there any disputes over transactions.

"We have heard a great deal concerning the question as to whether or not securities may be properly dealt in on the floor of a securities exchange before the same securities are actually issued in definitive form. Here again a sharp line of demarkation must be drawn between legitimate and illegitimate transactions. The making of contracts for the purchase and sale of securities when, as and if issued is, under certain conditions, absolutely proper. To prevent it would represent a financial hardship. The New York Stock Exchange accordingly does permit trading in securities when, as and if issued under circumstances and conditions which the Exchange considers proper and legitimate.

"Another point that has recently been made is that Stock Exchange members should be prohibited from speculating on their own account. Here again comes into play the problem of what is legitimate and what is not legitimate.

"The New York Stock Exchange recognizes that no broker may be permitted to speculate for his own account with the money or with the securities of his clients. All the rules of the New York Stock Exchange are intended to prevent any such practice, but there is no reason why a broker should be denied the right to employ his capital for the benefit of the country's development through new enterprises, provided that such employment of his own capital does not jeopardize his customers.

"The New York Stock Exchange is now circulating a questionnaire among members inquiring, in a large list of items, concerning their condition, and the data which will be given in response to this questionnaire will disclose any sore spots which may call for appropriate action on the part of the Governors of the New York Stock Exchange in the direction of the better protection of the public, the clients and members of the New York Stock Exchange.

"It has been stated that brokers are now asking their clients to sign a new form of contract to the effect that brokers shall have the right to pledge with the banks securities carried on margin for clients without being restricted in the borrowing upon specific securities to the actual amount of indebtedness still owing by the client to the broker upon those particular securities, and with reference to this form of contract the District Attorney of New York County has recently said:

"'If any customer is foolish enough to sign this contract it would place in the hands of the broker the power to steal securities without a chance of his being prosecuted and convicted for the crime.'

"The truth in plain words is that this agreement merely gives the broker the right to use the securities of his various customers collectively as collateral for bank loans in large amounts. It would be impractical to finance his individual customer's borrowings in any other way. The assertion that this form of agreement gives the broker power to steal securities or protects the broker in any fraud upon his customer is absolutely false and without foundation in fact.

"The Governors of the New York Stock Exchange are constantly studying the possibilities of further reform and improvement in methods. We welcome suggestions from the public. We recognize fully that the Exchange cannot succeed, that it cannot be responsive to the public demands which are made upon it, indeed that it cannot expect to be immune from drastic and unwise public regulation, unless it lives up to the highest possible standard of its obligations to an enlightened public sentiment."

EXPLAINS STOCK INCREASE.

Callahan Zinc-Lead Co. to Add to Holdings in Other Concerns.

The explanation of the proposed increase of the capitalisation of the Callahan Zinc-Lead Company from 500,000 to 1,000,000 shares, John Borg, President of the corporation, sent a letter to stockholders yesterday in which he says:

"The purpose of the proposed increase in our capitalization is to permit your company to increase its holdings in other mining enterprises and to expand its operations in general, although our present plans contemplate the sale of not more than 20 per cent of the new issue this year. Stockholders will be given the right to subscribe to part of the new issue, at par, from time to time, as and when, in the opinion of your directors, additional capital can be profitably employed for the above purposes."

EMPLOYES TO SELL STOCK.

New York Telephone Company's Offer Applies to $25,000,000 Issue.

The plan of enlisting the services of its employes as salesmen and saleswomen for a new issue of its preferred stock, is to be tried by the New York Telephone Co. The issue will be $25,000,000 6½ per cent. preferred and it will be sold through employes at par. Application has been made to the Public Service Commission to issue the stock.

It is the plan to distribute the stock to customers, thus strengthening the link between the corporation and those who use its facilities. An allotment of only twenty shares will be made to each applicant for the new stock. Employes will be permitted to subscribe, for their own account to that many shares. A selling commission of 1 per cent will be allowed to the employes.

Reorganization Plan Progressing.

The Atlantic Fruit Company reorganization plan is meeting with the general approval of the security holders, according to reports from interests affiliated with the reorganization managers. At the Columbia Trust Company, depositary for the stock and bonds, it was stated that deposits were progressing in a satisfactory manner. The time for depositing expires July 1.

A letter to us from Henry M. Miner, President of the Company, is summarized as follows:

BUSINESS

The Company is the largest distributor of American paper clay to the book, news and wall paper trades in the United States. It is the largest distributor of denatured alcohol in the New York territory, and the second largest distributor of wood alcohol in the country. Pyroxylin solutions for split and artificial leather and lacquer trades. Acetates, formaldehyde and other basic chemicals are manufactured. The Miner Edgar Company's own sales organization distributes its products, which are handled entirely within the organization—from raw materials to the consumer.

HISTORY

The Miner Edgar Company started in 1910 in Brooklyn, N. Y. The business has grown steadily since its inception. As it expanded it erected large warehouses, refineries and manufacturing plants. Most of these operations have been built up to the present large proportions on surplus earnings. In January, 1921, these varied interests were combined into one corporation known as The Miner Edgar Company, incorporated under the laws of New Jersey.

PURPOSE OF ISSUE

The proceeds of this issue will be used to refund prior liens, to repay the treasury for plant expenditures, to pay bank loans and to provide additional working capital.

SECURITY

These bonds are secured by a direct first mortgage on all real estate, plants and equipment, including coal, timber and clay lands and the railroad of the company, now owned or hereafter acquired, subject only to $81,500 prior liens now outstanding, to retire which the company has set aside bonds of this issue. A recent independent appraisal by the Manufacturers Appraisal Company values these properties at over $5,000,000.

ASSETS

The financial statement of the Company as of April 29, 1922, after giving effect to the issue of $1,500,000 of these bonds, shows net assets of $6,022,144.13 or $4,014.76 for each $1,000 bond of the amount of this issue.

EARNINGS

Total earnings applicable to bond interest of all the companies now consolidated have been $1,587,892.43 during the last seven years. As the average life of all companies during this period was four years, the actual average earnings were at the rate of $396,973.11 per annum or nearly four times the annual interest requirements of this issue.

For the first four months of 1922 earnings applicable to the bond interest were $163,229.29, or at an annual rate of over four and one-half times interest requirements.

All legal matters pertaining to this issue have been passed upon by Charles M. Mason, Dean of the New Jersey Law School, for the Company, by W. Edwin Florance, Esq., for the Trustee, and by Taylor, Jackson, Brophy & Nash, of New York, for the Bankers. The accounts of The Miner-Edgar Company have been examined by Messrs. Ernst & Ernst as of October 31, 1921, and have been brought down to April 29, 1922, by H. W. Fielden, Chartered Accountant, Philadelphia. The properties and plants have been appraised by the Manufacturers Appraisal Company of Philadelphia and Cleveland.

We offer the above bonds for delivery when, as and if issued and received by us.

Can Your Bonds Be Called?

BECAUSE of declining money rates many entire issues of high interest bearing bonds have recently been called for redemption.

If you own callable bonds selling near their redemption price it may be wise to exchange them now for bonds yielding an equally high return but not so likely to be called.

We have prepared a list of 75 principal bond issues callable during the next 8 years which we will send on request.

CAR LOADINGS SHOW INCREASE FOR WEEK

Total of 846,002, a Gain of 95,357 Over Previous Week and 58,719 Over 1921.

COAL TRAFFIC IMPROVES

Car loadings for the week ended June 10 totaled 846,002, an increase of 95,357 over the previous week and 58,719 more than the corresponding week of 1921. Compared with the corresponding week of 1920, the total represented a decrease of 84,974 cars.

According to the Car Service Division of the American Railway Association, the increase of June 10 over the previous statement was due largely to the fact that the June 3 report included the Memorial Day holiday. The loading for the week of June 10 came within thirty-three cars of the largest loading for any week this year preceding the coal strike.

Coal loadings amounted to 94,824 cars, a figure larger than for any previous week during the strike, but representing a decrease of 67,074 cars against the same week in 1921 and 90,670 cars under the corresponding week of 1920. This was an increase, however, of 8,000, compared with the preceding week.

Merchandise and miscellaneous freight, which includes manufactured products, totaled 568,640 cars, an increase of 93,268 cars as contrasted with a year ago, and 85,702 cars more than the same week two years ago. For the week ended June 3 loadings of merchandise and miscellaneous freight stood at 498,894 cars.

The report by districts shows increases, compared with the corresponding week of 1921, in all districts except the Allegheny and the Eastern districts; while the Pocahontas and Southern districts showed increases compared with 1920.

FEWER IDLE FREIGHT CARS.

Fifteen Per Cent. of Equipment Needs Repairs, Report Shows.

Idle cars for the week ended June 8 totaled 465,637, a decrease of 14,429 cars compared with the previous week. Of the total, 284,189 were surplus freight cars in good repair in excess of current freight requirements. This was a reduction of 21,009 cars against the total on May 31. The remaining 181,648 were freight cars in bad order in excess of the normal number unfit for service.

Surplus coal cars numbered 150,581, a reduction since May 31 of 14,608, while surplus box cars totaled 65,161, a reduction within the same period of 4,853. Of the 2,273,924 freight cars on line, the reports show 340,822, or 15 per cent., in need of repair, compared with 334,106, or 14.7 per cent., on May 15, an increase of 6,714. Allowing 7 per cent. as the normal number in need of repair, would leave 181,648 as the number in bad order and idle because of business conditions.

MUCH BETTER WEATHER IN THE COTTON BELT

Spring Wheat Conditions Are Favorable, Winter Wheat Ripening Prematurely.

The Government's weekly report on conditions in the crop district was as follows:

"The week was warmer than normal in nearly all parts of the cotton belt, and sunshine was generally ample. Precipitation was light to moderate generally, although there was rather heavy rainfall in some Atlantic Coast districts the latter part of the week and there was too much moisture in some sections of Southern Texas. These weather conditions were favorable for cotton in nearly all sections, and substantial improvement was widespread.

"It was also favorable for cultivation, and this work made satisfactory progress, while the high temperatures were instrumental in checking weevil activities, although they continue numerous in most sections. The condition of the crop in Oklahoma ranges from poor to excellent. In Texas it is in fair condition in the southern portion, very good in the north and the northwest, but mostly poor elsewhere.

"Temperatures were unseasonably high throughout the principal Winter wheat belt, and the crop ripened rapidly. It was entirely too hot for wheat in Kansas, where there was much complaints of premature ripening in many central and northern counties, with consequent shriveling of grain. The crop was ripening fairly well in the eastern portion of the belt, but there was some complaint of short and light heads in a few localities, particularly in Kentucky. Harvest was in progress at the close of the week northward to Maryland, Central Indiana, Central Missouri and in the eastern half of Kansas. Spring wheat continued to make satisfactory progress in all sections of the belt under favorable weather conditions.

"Oats were favorably affected by rains in the more northern States from the great plains eastward, but it was mostly unfavorable for oats in the central valley States, where it was too warm and too dry in many localities.

"Corn made good growth in most sections under favorable temperatures and moisture conditions. Temperature was above normal except in the northeast, and there was much sunshine in the central districts. While this crop was not seriously suffering from moisture, need of rain was beginning to be felt on many fields in the central and Southern districts. Condition and progress of corn were good in Iowa and Illinois, although the stand was poor in the dry localities of Iowa. The crop was not being seriously affected by the dry weather in Kansas."

Banks Get Gold From Europe.

The steamship Olympic, from England, brought fifty cases of gold, valued at $1,500,000, consigned to Kuhn, Loeb & Co., from the Bank of England. The Swedish-American liner, Oscar II, brought to the National Bank of Commerce from Sweden seven boxes containing twenty-eight gold and silver bars, valued at $393,000 and one box of platinum, valued at $44,000.

CITIES SERVICE CO. HAS DIVIDEND PLAN

TO ISSUE SPECIAL BONDS

Holders of Stock and Scrip May Take Cash or New Debentures Callable at 115.

The Cities Service Company yesterday announced a plan for a resumption of cash dividends on the preferred stock on Sept. 1 and on the preference stock on Oct. 1. The plan also provides for the redemption of all scrip issued for dividends on these stocks. The announcement was made following a meeting of the Directors yesterday. The suspension of cash dividends was determined upon June 10 of last year, when the Directors voted that future dividends on all classes of stock should be paid at the prevailing rates in scrip instead of cash and stock. It was explained subsequently that the scrip would be non-interest bearing with no maturity date set. The preferred dividend was to have the prior right of redemption.

In the statement which was issued yesterday by the Cities Service Company it was asserted that the holders of the two classes of stock and the holders of scrip would have the right to either cash or, at their option, a special debenture bond bearing 6 per cent. interest, callable at 115 and convertible into 35 per cent. of preference stock and 15 per cent. of common stock. The statement adds:

"The Directors feel this bond will serve as a reward and through the high call price and high interest rate will insure a minimum profit of 15 per cent. to the stockholders who have temporarily foregone cash dividends and that the conversion feature is such as to offer the probability of a profit much in excess of what is provided by the high interest rate of 6 per cent. and the high call price."

Henry L. Doherty, President of the Cities Service Company, in commenting on the action of the Directors, said:

"The action of the board is evidence of the improved earning power of Cities Service Company and its subsidiaries. In the public utility division conditions have improved considerably beyond estimates and earnings are at a rate higher than they have ever been. At this season of the year a decreased demand for electrical energy is expected, due to a smaller demand for electric lighting purposes. The increased demand for electrical energy by the industries in territories served by our subsidiary utility companies has more than offset this seasonal decline.

"It is evident that the corner has been turned and the future looks most promising. Earnings of Cities Service Company have increased steadily since the early part of last Fall. The increase in Cities Service earnings has been consecutive month by month since July, 1921. The earnings statement of the company for the month of May not only showed decided improvement over preceding months but over May, 1921. Net to common stock and reserves earned last month totaled $619,844 and was the best reported since March, 1923.

"In spite of a record production of oil, there is every reason to believe that no great time will intervene before demand for petroleum will again far outrun the supply. The result is obvious, because the Cities Service Company, through its subsidiaries, is one of the largest producers of high-grade refinable crude oil in this country."

The company yesterday declared the regular monthly dividend of one-half of 1 per cent. on the common, preferred and Preference "B" shares, payable in scrip, and 1¼ per cent. on the common stock in common stock scrip. All dividends are payable Aug. 1 to stock of record July 15.

Gross earnings for the twelve months ended May 31, 1922, were $12,926,120. In the corresponding period a year ago the gross amounted to $21,235,766. During May the oil division of the Cities Service Company completed seven new wells with a combined initial production of 1,646 barrels per day.

FOREIGN STOCK MARKETS.

Prices Generally Firmer, but Government Bonds Easier.

LONDON, June 21.—Gilt-edged securities and British industrials were steady on the Stock Exchange today. Oil shares opened firm but later became weaker. Old 2½ per cent. consols ¼ lower, at 57; British 5 per cent. war loan, 99⅝; 4½ per cent. war loan, 94½, both unchanged.

Rand Mines, 2⅝; De Beers Mining, 11⅛, both unchanged.

PARIS, June 21.—Prices were firmer on the Bourse today, but 3 per cent. rentes were 15 centimes lower, at 57 francs 55 centimes, and 5 per cent. war loan, 15 centimes lower, at 77 francs.

Exchange on London, 1 centime higher, at 51 francs 20 centimes per sovereign; American dollars were quoted at 11 francs 55 centimes, against 11 francs 63 centimes yesterday.

GAIN IN BUSINESS SHOWN.

New Jersey Public Service Corporation Reports on Subsidiaries.

A statement showing increased gross earnings of the subsidiary companies of the Public Service Corporation of New Jersey for May over May last year, and also for the year ending May 31, has been submitted to the Directors by President McCarter.

Operating revenue for May, 1922, was $6,276,144, against $6,143,000 for May, 1921. The sum available for dividends and surplus was $271,915, against $241,240, a gain of $30,665. For the year the operating revenue of the subsidiary companies was $76,067,874, compared to $75,276,491. The amount available for dividends and surplus was $4,409,314, as against $2,658,114 for the year before.

Two Steel Dividends Declared.

The Trumbull Steel Company has declared a dividend of 20 cents a share on the common stock, of $25 par value, and the regular quarterly dividend of $1.75 on the preferred. Both dividends are payable July 1 to stock of record June 20. During the last four quarters the company paid 15 cents a share on the common stock.

DECLARE TOBACCO DIVIDEND

Products Corporation Stockholders to Vote on Merger June 26.

Directors of the Tobacco Products Corporation yesterday declared the regular quarterly dividend of 1¼ per cent. on the common stock, payable August 16 to stock of record July 3. This is the first dividend to be declared by the corporation before the merger of Tobacco Products Corporation and United Retail Stores. Stockholders of these corporations will meet on June 26 to vote on ratification of the merger. Sufficient proxies have been received to insure the success of the plan.

Tobacco Products common may be exchanged, according to the plan, share for share, into new 7 per cent. non-cumulative Class A shares. Common holders of Tobacco Products have two other options, which have been offered to United Retail holders. They may exchange half and half for Class A and new common, or may accept share for share in new common.

The Class A shares are quoted at 75¾ on the Curb, and the common, when issued, at around 50. Tobacco Products is quoted around 82 and United Retail Stores around 66.

CALLS PREFERRED STOCK.

New York Trust Company to Absorb Liberty Industrial Corporation.

The Liberty Industrial Corporation, the common stock of which is owned by the New York Trust Company, is to be liquidated. The corporation's affairs will be conducted in the future by the industrial department of the trust company.

Notice that $1,000,000 in preferred stock outstanding has been called for redemption on July 1 at 105 and accrued dividends has been mailed to all preferred stockholders. The business of the corporation as such will be wound up and the remaining surplus distributed to the common stockholders. The New York Trust Company will take over the staff and the equipment of the present organization.

The Liberty Industrial Corporation resulted from consolidation of the Liberty Securities Corporation, formerly owned by the stockholders of the Liberty National Bank, and the Industrial department of the bank. It succeeded to the combined business of the securities corporation and the industrial department at the time of the merger of the Liberty National Bank and the New York Trust Company on April 1, 1921.

The corporation has prospered since its formation, having paid 8 per cent. dividends regularly on the preferred stock in addition to showing substantial earnings applicable to dividends on the common stock.

Six Wrigley Dividends Declared.

Announcement was made yesterday that the William Wrigley Company had declared six regular monthly dividends of 50 cents each, covering the remainder of the year, payable the first of each month up to and including Jan. 1, 1923, to stockholders of record on the 25th of each preceding month. Dividends for the remainder of the year have already been earned, it was stated.

6% Serial Equipment Trust Certificates

Maturing in equal annual instalments from July 1, 1924, to July 1, 1937, both inclusive.

Bearer certificates of $1,000 each with privilege of registration as to principal. Warrants for the semi-annual dividends at the rate of 6% per annum payable January 1 and July 1 in New York City.

H. B. Kooser, Esq., President and General Manager of the American Refrigerator Transit Company, in a letter to the undersigned dated June 13, 1922, writes in part as follows:

"The American Refrigerator Transit Company is a corporation organized under the laws of the State of New Jersey. All of its capital stock is owned by the Missouri Pacific Railroad Company and the Wabash Railway Company. It is, and has been for the last forty-one years, engaged in the business of furnishing refrigerator cars to railroad companies for the transportation of all perishable freight. The Company maintains a soliciting organization for the purpose of securing traffic. The demand for refrigerator cars has always exceeded the supply, and this demand is rapidly increasing due to increased production of various perishable commodities. At the present time, a heavy shortage of refrigerator cars prevails throughout the United States.

The Company's net revenue for the year 1921, after payment of property taxes, available for fixed charges and depreciation, amounted to $495,000. During this year abnormally heavy repairs to cars were made. It is estimated that the net revenue, after payment of property taxes, for the year 1922, without attributing any earning value to the new cars, deliveries of which are to begin in August, available for fixed charges and depreciation, will be approximately $525,000. For the year 1923, giving full consideration to the use of all of the new cars, it is estimated that the net revenue, after payment of property taxes, available for fixed charges and depreciation, will be approximately $1,125,000, or, in each of the three years above mentioned, approximately twice the amount necessary to meet the interest and maturing instalments of its equipment obligations.

These Certificates are to be issued by the Commercial Trust Company of Philadelphia, as Trustee, under an Equipment Trust in form to be approved by you.

There will be vested in the Trustee title to new equipment costing not less than $5,000,000, consisting of not less than 2,000 40-ton capacity steel underframe refrigerator cars, which were purchased, about sixty days ago, at a very advantageous price and could not today be acquired for less than $200 additional per car.

The Company owns 5,400 additional steel underframe refrigerator cars in first-class condition. Against 3,500 of these cars equipment trust obligations are still outstanding in the principal amount of $234,000, maturing on or before May 1, 1923. This Company, however, has undertaken to deposit, at the time of the issue of the new certificates, the funds necessary to retire the above mentioned outstanding equipment obligations. These cars are conservatively valued at $1,300 each, or $6,100,000. The Equipment Trust Agreement will provide that until the payment in full of the principal of, and dividends upon, all of said Equipment Trust Certificates, the American Refrigerator Transit Company will not mortgage, pledge or in any way encumber any railroad equipment now owned by it. Pending the delivery of the equipment, cash equal to the principal amount of the certificates is to be deposited under the Equipment Trust Agreement, to be withdrawn from time to time as equipment is delivered, to the extent of the actual cost thereof. All equipment is to be leased by the Trustee to the American Refrigerator Transit Company at a rental sufficient to pay the Certificates and dividend warrants as they mature.

The principal of the trust certificates and the dividends thereon will be unconditionally guaranteed by endorsement thereon by the American Refrigerator Transit Co.

$338,000 principal, amount, of the certificates are to mature on July 1, 1923, and $333,000 on July 1 in each year, from 1924 to 1937, both inclusive; dividends thereon will be payable in the meantime semi-annually on January 1 and July 1 in each year at the rate of 6% per annum. Both principal and dividends will be payable at the agency of the Trustee in the City of New York, in gold coin of the United States of America of or equal to the present standard of weight and fineness and without deduction for any tax or taxes (other than Federal Income taxes) which the American Refrigerator Transit Company or the Trustee may be required to pay or to retain therefrom under any present or future law of the United States of America, or of any state, county, municipality or other taxing authority therein.

The Company has agreed to acquire and cancel, simultaneously with the issuance of the new Equipment Trust Certificates, the $338,000 Certificates of the proposed issue maturing July 1, 1923.

All proceedings for the creation or issuance of the Certificates are to be subject to the approval of yours counsel.

COTTON SELLS DOWN AS CROP IMPROVES

Favorable Weather Report Offsets Strength Abroad—Prices Lose 28 to 38 Points.

After three hours nervous fluctuations, heavier selling pressure than for some time finally caused a decline of $3 a bale in cotton yesterday. Not for weeks has there been any dissension among prominent operators over the course of the market. But for two days, a growing number not only abandoned the buying side but openly opposed the advance. Steady improvement in crop conditions, uncertainty over the disposition of the local stock on July notice day and the approaching bureau made up on the 25th provided unsettling factors. The weekly summary proved most favorable so far this season. Prices showed a loss of 28 to 38 points.

The reactionary character of the market became more pronounced at the opening when heavy selling in July as well as late months started prices a quarter of a cent off. Contracts were so well taken, however, that recovery soon got under way under the lead of Liverpool. Conditions abroad then became a feature of the morning. After opening slightly lower, foreign contracts gained steadily, closing at an advance of about half a cent on near positions, with quotations the highest of the season. Foreign operators had been slow in appreciating unique conditions at present prevailing in the cotton outlook but demand there now seems to be outrunning American markets.

This is a direct result of improved trade, as contrasted with a year ago at a time when stocks had been reduced. The amount of cotton in and afloat for Liverpool and Manchester aggregates 698,000 bales, against 857,000 last year and 1,032,000 in 1920. Before the war these figures approximated 1,000,000 bales at this season of the year, but owing to financial conditions, diminished export trade and high prices, stocks were allowed to decrease. Now that foreign spinners are growing anxious over the question of supplies for the coming year, active buying of contracts for future delivery is in progress.

This strength abroad served to produce the most erratic fluctuation witnessed in some time. Knowledge that crop conditions are improving steadily, owing to more satisfactory weather, created a feeling of uncertainty in many quarters. Some larger interests took profits and these contracts supplied trade and outside speculative demand. A sharp recovery of 20 points took place before the weekly report. As the summary stated, substantial improvement had been widespread, a wave of selling ran quotations off a quarter of a cent quickly. This in turn was followed by a second recovery of 20 points, with a reaction in October to below 22.70 around midday.

The market moved around uncertainly, apparently undecided whether to move upward under the inspiration of Liverpool or lower in response to crop betterment. Less agreement among professionals prevailed than at any time before this season. One group took cotton aggressively, while another attacked prices on every upturn. This not only produced an erratic course of prices, but tended to restrict outside business.

It was not until afternoon that pressure became heavy enough to turn prices definitely downward. As various holders of cotton throughout the country had an opportunity to read the weekly summary containing a positive statement that the crop was doing better, selling orders were received by wire houses. This movement started in New Orleans, but was slow in spreading to Wall Street and Western sources.

First indications that a change of attitude had occurred among a group of operators appeared when a broker started selling October. All cotton wanted was supplied in blocks up to 5,000 bales. For a time this selling was construed as being an operation for a decline. But when New Orleans weakened and room traders from commission houses in increasing volume room traders attempted to resell. Once under way, the reaction gained momentum. October selling at 22.40, a decline of 40 points, betore demand for December halted the set back. A quantity for July came out with depressing effect. Hitherto July liquidation has had very little influence. But the volume of selling yesterday proved altogether too heavy to be ignored. Pressure on July helped weaken other months, the list closing at about the bottom.

	Open.	High.	Low.	Close.	Previous Close.

If Reparation Demands Menace 8-Hour Day They Must Be Reduced.

LEIPSIC, June 21.—"Hands off the eight-hour day" was the keynote of an address made yesterday by Theodore Leipart, successor to the late Carl Legien as Chairman of the General Commission of the German Federation of Trade Unions, before the eleventh congress of the organization, in session here.

Herr Leipart said that German labor would support the Government in its policy of fulfilling the Treaty of Versailles, but did not purpose to surrender its social prerogatives. If the eight-hour day does not suffice to carry out the reparation demands, the latter must be reduced.

Meeting the criticism of the commission's attitude on the occasion of the recent railway strike, he declared that a railway strike would be defended only if every possible attempt at mediation had been exhausted.

He believed the new order of things in Germany made it incumbent upon the trade unions to occupy themselves with political problems without aspiring to replace the political parties. Organized labor, however, must seek effectively to influence the parties.

Declares Two Quarterly Dividends.

The American Cyanamid Company announced yesterday the declaration of two quarterly dividends of 1¼ per cent. each on the preferred stock for the quarters ended March 31, 1922, and June 30, 1922, both payable July 7 to stock of record June 27.

SALESMEN ACCUSED OF STOCK FRAUDS

SAYS THEY GOT $30,000

Morris A. Jacobs, 26 years old, of 220 Springvale Street, Boston, and Samuel Lewis, 23 years old, of 1,023 Southern Boulevard, the Bronx, salesmen for the Deutsch-Amerikanische Hotel Verkehrs Aktien Gesellschaft, at 300 Madison Avenue, were arrested yesterday in the offices of the company, charged with being fugitives from justice.

A Boston warrant charges them with the larceny of $25,000 in securities and $5,000 in cash from George Gehring of Portland, Me., which Gehring says they were to convert for him into stock of the New England Oil Company. He charges that they kept the money.

No officer of the German company for which they were working was in yesterday, but a man who said he was a brother of William R. Scharton, general counsel of the company, issued a statement in the name of the company, in which he said:

"We wish to explain that Samuel Lewis and Albert Jacobs (the police have his name as Morris A. Jacobs) applied for positions as salesmen in the Deutsch-Amerikanische Hotel Verkehrs Aktien Gesellschaft, and, pending our investigation of their references, they took along with them some of the literature of our company, which was found at the time of the arrest on a matter entirely foreign to our company, but growing out of a transaction which happened some time ago in Massachusetts. It is needless to say that we regret the name of our company mentioned in this matter, because we are particularly anxious to maintain the good name of our company."

The German company, whose main offices are in Berlin, has been advising holders of German marks to convert them into American money and send it to Berlin to be reinvested in hotel stock. The resident depository for the money is given as the Harriman National Bank. John Franklin of Andover, Mass.; Llewlyn J. Lewis of Kingston, N. Y., and Carroll Nicholls of Washington, D. C., are the Directors in this country.

WHAT BRADDOCK LACKED.

Marines Go Over His Problem With Modern Equipment.

WASHINGTON, June 21.—What might have happened had United States marines accompanied General Braddock on his march against the French and Indians was illustrated today when 5,000 marines, on their way to manoeuvres at Gettysburg, deployed near Rockville, Md., on the ground where Braddock first met his enemies.

The forces began the operations, of which Brig. Gen. Smedley D. Butler was umpire, as soon as it broke camp at Bethesda. Two marine Texas planes reconnoitred the redskins' positions and reported to the attacking force of the Fifth and Sixth Regiments, supposedly acting as advanced guard for an army corps. The marine aviators' messages were sent out by a field radio outfit to other diminutive field wireless with the advanced guard. The movement of the tractors drawing the artillery was regulated upon information obtained by the scouts.

Tomorrow, continuing their march toward Gettysburg, the marines will go over some of the problems confronted by Union and Confederate commanders in the Civil War in the territory that Early and Stuart made historic.

MAPLE LEAF MILL'S YEAR.

Drop in Profits May Lead Canada Company to Cut Dividends.

Special to The New York Times.

MONTREAL, June 21.—In its annual statement, the Maple Leaf Milling Company shows a shortage of $200,000 against dividend requirements amounting to $300,000.

Profit and loss account is reduced from $2,080,490 to $1,884,111, and it is expected that the Directors will cut the dividend from the present 12 to either 8 or 9 per cent.

Meanwhile the stock dropped today about twenty points, to 104 in Toronto, with the last offering at Montreal 114. The high for the stock this year was 141.

The company was prominent, during war years, for its heavy speculative accounts in the New York wheat market.

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTIC CITY, June 21.—Mexico is fast becoming stable judging from the enormous amount of railroad supplies she is buying, says W. H. Remmel, general manager of the tool and railroad department of Hubbard & Co. and Vice President of the Hubbard Subsidiary Steel Companies.

"We have during the past six months sold a huge quantity of railroad supplies to the National Railways of Mexico for the first time in about ten years," said Mr. Remmel. "We have received our money promptly and take this as one of the most encouraging signs. We are finding a strong competitor in Germany. Germany is underbidding us, but we know it will be only a short time before the superiority of our goods is established and American railroad supplies demanded, notwithstanding the higher cost."

PRISON FOR 3 BANKERS.

Two Change Pleas to Guilty When Third Is Convicted.

INDIANAPOLIS, June 21.—Following the conviction of George W. Applegate, Vice President of the Corydon (Ind.) National Bank on a charge of embezzlement, Wilson F. Cook, President of the bank, and Ben S. Applegate, also a Vice President, appeared in the Federal District Court today and changed their pleas from not guilty to guilty.

Judge A. B. Anderson sentenced the three men to three years in the Federal penitentiary at Atlanta, Ga.

Guatemala to Seek External Loan.

GUATEMALA CITY, June 21.—The Guatemalan Government has decided that the only remedy for its present financial condition is the negotiation of an external loan, and steps are being taken in that direction. The decision was reached after conferences between the Minister of Finance and leading Guatemalan bankers.

Seek 50,000,000-Mark Loan.

It was reported in the financial district yesterday that negotiations were under way by bankers and officials of the town of Hagen, Germany, for a 50,000,000-mark loan in the United States, similar to the recent loan to Elberfeld. The loan will bear 5 per cent. interest and will be repayable in marks.

BROKERS MUST PAY $6,487 TO MINOR

AGENT PAID HER ONLY PART

Supreme Court Justice O'Malley held yesterday that a broker who handles securities owned by a person under age does so at his peril and will be held responsible in case of a claim being made, because "an infant's appointment of an agent is absolutely void under the laws of this State." The court accordingly directed a judgment for $6,487 in favor of Mrs. Elisabeth Browne Casey against the brokerage firms of E. E. Reid & Co. and Johnson & Wood. She is a granddaughter of former Supreme Court Justice Edward Browne.

The evidence in the case showed that Mrs. Casey, who is now the wife of Leslie J. Casey, a film actor, was known on the stage as Betty Browne. She sued through her mother, Mrs. Julia A. Browne. When she was 19 years old she gave 100 shares of United States Steel stock, worth $11,000 in 1918, to Philip F. Kastel, a broker, because he told her he could dispose of it to good advantage. He gave her $12,500 in a note and turned the stock over to E. E. Reid & Co., who delivered it to Johnson & Wood, and it was sold. Kastel paid the young woman only $4,500 on the note. When she found herself unable to collect more she sued the brokers on the ground that she was an infant and that she had no right to make Kastel her agent in disposing of the stock. She sued for the proceeds of the stock and the income since 1918.

The brokers pleaded ignorance of the young woman's infancy but Justice O'Malley held that all brokers or other persons through whose hands the infant's property passed may be held liable for conversion."

GILLEN LOSES LIBEL SUIT.

The Newark Star Eagle yesterday won the suit brought against it by City Commissioner Charles P. Gillen for $100,000 damages for libel. Commissioner Gillen also sued The Newark Evening News. Both cases were on before Judge Nelson Y. Dungan in the City Court. The Judge on Tuesday dismissed the case against The News. The case against The Star Eagle went to the jury, which, after deliberating over ninety minutes, returned a verdict in favor of the paper.

The suits were based on stories published in both papers in connection with a raid on Schary's Auditorium the day following a dinner tendered to Commissioner Gillen, then Mayor, on Feb. 8, 1921. Prohibition agents made the raid and said they found evidence that there had been whisky drinking at the dinner.

BUSINESS WORLD

COMMERCIAL PAPERS.

Yesterday—3¼ to 4¼% for the best names. Tomorrow—4¼ to 4½% for the best names. The quotations are for six months' paper.

For Clothiers' Convention.

Preparations for the annual convention of the National Association of Retail Clothiers, to be held at Madison Square Garden from Sept. 11 to 15, are going forward. Secretary of Commerce Herbert Hoover will be the principal speaker addressing the 3,000 retailers expected to attend. More than 400 manufacturers in the men's and boys' apparel field will exhibit merchandise at the Garden during the convention. A style show will be one of the features of the occasion. The business session of the retailers will be held at the Garden Theatre. Newspaper and window display contests, in which hundreds of merchants will compete, have also been arranged.

Call for Silk Linings.

Broad silk manufacturers say that thus far there has been only light buying on the part of women's wear manufacturers in covering their lining requirements. The ordering has been of a nibbling character, although a good season is looked for in this particular field. A large part of the buying which has taken place has been in the cheaper linings. They thus far theory is said to be pronouncedly in favor of solid colors. This is a reaction from the figured designs which have been very popular. There has been a stimulation lately in the demand for crepe de chine linings, particularly in silver and seal brown. Satins have also picked up and are looked upon to enjoy a steady growth in call as the season advances. Taffeta linings are quiet.

To Open Tropicals Next Week.

General opening of tropical worsted lines are scheduled for the coming week. One of the largest factors making lightweight worsteds will open its lines either on Monday or Tuesday, and it is believed that others will follow suit. No estimate of prices has been given out as yet by the company in question, but it is understood that there will be an advance of about 10 per cent. over last season's opening. This has been the average advance on some lines that have been selling, although it is understood that there has been some business passing for large accounts at slightly lower prices. Some factors have been doing business quietly for some time, and whether these will open their lines or operate on orders already received is an open question.

Hat Trimmings Are Varied.

One of the outstanding features of the newer hats for midsummer wear that are now seen in the local millinery trade is the diversification of the trimmings. Among those that are frequently seen are touches of fur, floss grapes, suede flowers and fabric quills, most of which are out of the ordinary. Flowers made of a wide variety of materials also are seen, the newest of which are made of pressed and beaten aluminum. For use with satin hats, this metal has been made up into daisies, rose leaves, petals and other small designs. Some of the suede flowers are painted with a narrow hairline stripe of contrasting color. Circular motifs, including owl heads, are made up in the fur trimmings, the skins used for the purpose including ermine, genet, bolinsky and squirrel.

Veiling Demand a Little Better.

Although manufacturers report a slightly increased demand for veilings, the volume of sales continues on a very restricted basis. Not only is this true of current business, but it is feared that the slump will be carried over into the Fall. Buyers have been prone to operate carefully, although the reports from the Continent have indicated the great use of veilings. Chiffon veils, both for sports wear and plain, have had a little spurt. Somewhat of a sales effort is being put forth on plain meshes with chenille dots and embroideries. The high-colored drape veil and novelty fancy meshes have been passing only fairly. Black and white mallines have recently come into considerable popularity as millinery draping for the current season.

Gives Vacation Bonuses.

One of the prominent local department stores has put into effect a vacation arrangement in which length of service is rewarded by what might be called a time bonus. No vacations are allowed under this plan to employes of less than eight months' service, but those who have been with the store that long are entitled to a week with pay. For twenty months' service two weeks with pay are given, while a full two years gives two weeks in Summer and two days in Winter. In the case of employes of three and four years' standing, two weeks in Summer and three and four days, respectively, in Winter are the reward. For five years' service the employe gets two weeks in Summer and a third week that may be taken either in Summer or Winter. The date from which the service periods are figured is June 15.

Gray Goods Market Strong.

The tone of the gray goods market continued very strong here yesterday, with the great bulk of the buying for immediate delivery. Sellers would not meet buyers' bids of current prices for contracts and even at an eighth higher they would not trade past the end of July. Printcloths again dominated in the business actually put through. Spot business in 39-inch, 80 squares, was done at 12 cents, with similar deliveries of 39-inch, 68-72s, and 38½-inch, 64-60s, sold at 9¼ and 6¾ cents, respectively. In the East, early July deliveries of 39-inch, 80-68s, brought 9⅝ cents, with 9⅞ cents paid for Southern spots of the same construction. Sheetings were not as active as printcloths yesterday, but sales were made on the basis of 7½ cents for 4 quick 4 39-inch, 56-56s, and 8⅛ cents for 37-inch, 48 square, four-yard goods. Only a few of the latter construction are now reported available at that price for any delivery.

Will Deliver by Airplane.

Plans have been perfected by N. A. Walsh, traffic manager of the Cloak, Suit and Skirt Manufacturers' Protective Association, whereby deliveries of the garments manufactured by members of that organization will be made by airplane in the event of a general railway strike. A squadron of fourteen planes has been provided for, each capable of carrying from one-half to three-quarters of a ton of merchandise, and negotiations for the use of Mitchel Field were still on yesterday. In the event of their failure, a private field will be arranged for at some nearby point on Long Island. Delivery to the lake-front spot will be made by motor truck, which will also make deliveries in New England as far north as Boston. Philadelphia and Baltimore will also be served by truck. Present plans call for delivery service to the cities to four of the leading cities of the country, from coast to coast. Any serious tie-up of rail transportation during July would have an injurious effect on the ready-to-wear trade, hence the steps taken to meet it.

June Totals Disappointing.

Despite the run on lightweight garments and other seasonable merchandise that resulted from the recent hot weather, it was said here yesterday by men in a position to know that the June sales totals of the retail dry goods stores in the Metropolitan district have been disappointing to date. This is also true of stores catering primarily to men. In both instances the effect is more marked than might otherwise be the case because much had been expected of this month which, coming at the opening of the vacation season, is usually a busy one. The reason for the failure of the month to show up better from a sales point of view is not known definitely, but income tax payments are thought to have something to do with it. The opinion was also expressed yesterday that the unsettled weather of the last week or ten days, which probably has caused many persons to defer their vacations until later in the Summer, also has had a retarding effect on consumer buying.

BUSINESS RECORDS

In Town.

SHUTTLEWORTH, KELLER & CO., INC.—A petition in bankruptcy was filed yesterday against Shuttleworth, Keller & Co., Inc., paper products, at 474 West Broadway, by three creditors: N. Y. Machinery Company $631; Sylvia Miller $7,500, Harry G. Jones $1,000. Judge Manton appointed John O'Connor and Frank Moore receivers, under $15,000 bond. It is stated the liabilities are about $100,000,000 and assets about $40,000. The petition was acted as selling agent for the Kolb Carton Company, Inc., against which a petition in bankruptcy was filed on May 26.

THAT CLOTHING TARIFF.

It Will Add $9.36 to the Cost of a Suit to the Consumer.

In response to the published statement of Representative William M. Morgan that the increased cost occasioned by the proposed tariff on the clean content of raw wool would only amount to 70 cents per suit, after allowing liberal profits, Edgar B. Walters, a prominent clothing importer, has written the Representative a letter in which he asks why the compensatory duty on imported clothing should be so high.

"If the additional cost on a man's suit is only 70 cents," writes Mr. Walters, "why do you advocate a tariff bill that levies a compensatory duty on the suit working as follows: Present Underwood tariff of 55 per cent. amounting to $7 on a $20 suit; proposed Fordney-McCumber tariff, 55 per cent. and 40 cents per pound, amounting to $13.45. Does this not make an added cost to the retailer of $6.45?

"Now the question arises as to how much the retailer must charge the consumer to cover his operating cost and leave a net profit of, say, 5 per cent. A recent investigation by a governmental body disclosed the fact that retailers of men's clothing showed the lowest operating costs of any similar line of retail distribution, namely, 26.02 per cent. on the selling price of goods, and that in order to make a net profit of 5 per cent. they must get a gross profit of 31.02 per cent. on selling price, or 45.56 per cent. on the cost of goods—which in this case will mean an increased cost to the consumer of $9.38 on a suit.

"Will you please explain to your farmer constituents how a tariff increased to 55 per cent. and 40 cents per pound on a suit of clothes works out at a smaller increased cost, and perhaps you will also explain why you favor such high protection on the average man's suit, while you are telling them that 33 cents per pound duty on wool will only cost them 70 cents on their suits?"

It is planned to hold a luncheon in the near future at which the representative clothing importers are expected to take concerted action against the proposed tariff.

Linoleums Ordered Freely.

After a sales trip covering twenty-two cities of the country, the sales manager of a leading linoleum house states that never before has he seen orders placed so freely. All of the mills he represents are easily sold ahead for the balance of the year. A noteworthy feature of the buying is that stocks have rapidly passed to consumers. Orders received up to June 1 heretofore were generally for goods to be used in the Fall, but this year the goods have been utilized shortly after their receipt by distributers. The mills are now getting ready to take care of their Spring business. The opening for these lines is dependent upon what action may be taken by the courts in auction sales. It probably will be around Oct. 1, if the auctions are not held sooner.

Trading in Manhattan Tenement House Properties Features the Market.

Tenants Purchase Two Tenth Avenue Houses—Builders to Improve Dyckman Corner.

Trading in tenement house properties in Manhattan featured activity on the real estate market yesterday, the principal deal being the resale of part of the Astor estate property which was acquired on Tuesday by an operator.

Max N. Natanson resold two of the twenty houses just purchased by him from the Farmers Loan & Trust Company, as trustee for the Astor estate. The houses resold are 705 Tenth Avenue, at the northwest corner of Forty-eighth Street, and 710 Tenth Avenue, at the southwest corner of Forty-ninth Street; each is a five-story solid-water tenement on plot 25 by 100 feet.

The purchaser in each case was the tenant of the store on the premises. The houses were held at $50,000 each and were sold on an all-cash basis. The broker in each transaction was Ashforth & Co.

D. Kempner & Son, Inc., sold to a client for Samuel Fleischman, executor for the estate of Hanchen Rothschild, the five-story flat with store situated at 241 Third Avenue, adjoining the northeast corner of Thirty-eighth Street, on a lot 18.5 by 75. The property was held in the selling family for the last twenty-five years. The same brokers recently sold the northeast corner of Twenty-eighth Street for the Mosher estate.

The same brokers also sold for the Ehemar Van Wagenen estate the two five-story flats at 221 and 225 West Eighteenth Street to Sol Friedus and Morris Steinberg. The property was held at $45,000.

Simon Fink sold 1,624 Amsterdam Avenue, being the northwest corner of 146th Street, a five-story apartment house, 25 by 100, with stores. The property was held at $85,000, and was purchased by an investor. Pierre & Golden Company were the brokers.

The Chesterton Construction Company leased the two six-story tenements, 76 by 100.8, at 690 and 692 East Seventh Street.

The Salol Realty Company sold to Sarah H. Walls the five-story tenement 25 by 80, at 2,151 Fifth Avenue, south of 131st Street.

The five-story tenement, 25 by 46.6 irregular, at 246 East Houston Street, has been sold by Fanny Reider to Esther Harrison.

Leonard Weill sold 893 and 895 East Eighth Street, two five-story tenements, 40 by 82.11, held at $58,000. Julius Lazard was the broker.

Margaret M. Grady sold to Harry J. Nellsen, 161 East Thirtieth Street, a five-story flat, 20 by 98.9.

Joseph Nasanowitz resold for James M. Cruikshank the four-story tenement and two-story rear building at 257 East Broadway, on lot 25 by 100, to a buyer who will make extensive alterations.

Builders Buy Dyckman Corner.

Irving & Chester D. Judin, who recently disposed of seven corner properties in the Burnside and Jerome Avenue sections of the Bronx, contemplate extensive building operations in the Dyckman section. They have purchased from Rose W. Post for immediate improvement the plot of five lots at the northeast corner of Broadway and Academy Street, fronting 198 feet on Broadway and 125 feet on Academy Street. George Ranger was the broker in the sale.

Commercial Leases.

D. Kempner & Son, Inc., leased for Golding Bros. a store in their new building in course of construction on the northeast corner of Ninetieth Street and Broadway to Meyer Tanevitz for a term of ten years at an aggregate rental of close to $50,000. The rental per front foot is in excess of $350.

Geo. Fallon & Kyle Company leased the store at 5 West Forty-second Street to Joseph Cohen of the Pioneer Hosiery Company.

Adams & Co. leased the store at 125 and 127 Fifth Avenue to the Washington Mills, Inc., for a term of years.

Tankoos, Smith & Co. have subleased for the Golden Shoe Company the store in the Cockroft Building at Nassau Street, northwest corner of John Street, to the Times Square Auto Supply Company, which was formerly located at 76 Nassau Street, directly opposite. It will occupy the premises for a branch of its business.

Parkers Buy Block Front.

Drilling 68 Oil Wells in Tampico.

WASHINGTON, June 21.—Consul Simonson at Tampico, Mexico, reported to the Commerce Department today that eighty-five wells are now being drilled in the Tampico oil fields, with locations made for twenty-five more. British interests, he reported, lead the drilling with twenty-one wells, while one company, backed by German and Swiss capital, is drilling its wells with German machinery.

Central Offers Syracuse New Route.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., June 21.—The New York Central Railroad Company formally offered today to abolish Tenth Avenue in this city, abandon its franchise and erect an elevated structure over the West Shore route through the city. The city has urged adoption of a subway program and acceptance of the company's offer is being withheld.

BIG LOANS CLOSED.

Final Papers Signed in $6,000,000 Sermont Centre Loan.

The Title Guarantee and Trust Company closed yesterday a loan of $6,000,000 on the two buildings of the Garment Centre Realty Company, Inc., on the northwest and southwest corners of Seventh Avenue and Thirty-seventh Street with L's around into the adjoining streets.

The mortgage is at 6 per cent. and runs for ten years, subject to amortization during the period. A large portion of the loan has already been disposed of to small investors who have taken shares in the mortgage through the medium of the guaranteed first mortgage certificates. William A. White & Sons negotiated the loan.

The Title Guarantee and Trust Company has loaned on first mortgage to Aqueduct Avenue West Building Corporation $150,000 on the five-story apartment house at the southeast corner of 166th Street and University Avenue. The dimensions of the property are 101 by 147 feet. The mortgage is at 6 per cent. for five and a half years.

Lawrence, Blake & Jewell have placed for M. Schoubrun a first mortgage of $90,000 at 6 per cent. for ten years on the southwest corner of Thirteenth Avenue and Fifty-fifth Street, Brooklyn, for the erection of a four-story apartment house on site 100 by 120.

M. I. Strunsky has placed twenty first mortgage loans on the tenements just sold for the estate of W. B. Astor to the Males Realty Corporation, Max Nathanson, President. The numbers of the premises are 662 to 684 Tenth Avenue and 705 to 710 Tenth Avenue. There are fifteen loans at $16,000 and five loans of $28,000 each, making a total of $410,000. Also placed for the Maypat Realty Corporation a building and permanent loan of $126,000 on the northeast corner of Vermilyea Avenue and Isham Street, and a loan of $55,000 for the M. R. Construction Company on a five-story apartment being erected on the west side of Davidson Avenue about 250 feet south of Fordham Road.

Seventy-eight lots belonging to the L. H. Mace estate in the Bronx were sold at auction in the Real Estate Exchange yesterday by Bryan L. Kennelly. A total of $33,600 was obtained for the 78 lots, an average of $500 per lot. The balance of the lots were withdrawn.

Paul Miller was the first buyer with a high bid of $726 for the plot 37.6 by 100, at the southeast corner of Bronxwood Avenue and East 183d Street. The same buyer also took the adjoining two plots on the avenue, each 37.6 by 100, at $625 each.

The corner of the Bronxwood Avenue block front in East 181st Street, including the corner, a plot of five lots, about 126 by 100, was purchased by B. Millman for $3,250.

The southeast corner of Bronxwood Avenue and East 181st Street, 37.6 by 100, was sold to Peter Kessoll for $600. Bronxwood Avenue lots to the south went for $500 each.

Inside lots 25 by 100, on East 183d Street, between Bronxwood and Paulding Avenues, brought from $425 to $477 each, and on East 181st Street from $375 to $525.

The triangular plot, 75 by 109 by 95, at the southwest corner of Paulding Avenue and 181st Street brought $315. The total price paid for the individual lot was $4,490. The buyer was M. Watsay, and the property 25 by 113 feet, on the west side of White Plains Road, 196 feet south of 241st Street.

Private House Sales.

Samuel Luger sold through M. H. Gallard & Co., Inc., the four-story dwelling at 27 West Eighty-fifth Street, on lot 17.6 by 100.

The purchaser will occupy the house after alterations are completed. The property was held at $30,000.

Norman S. Beisenfeld and Joseph F. A. O'Donnell, operators, purchased from the Gray estate the four-story dwelling at 39 East Thirty-seventh Street, on lot 20 by 100.5, opposite the J. P. Morgan house on Madison Avenue. The property, which had been in the hands of the sellers for many years, was valued at $185,000. William Crulkshank was the broker in the deal.

N. Nelson purchased the five-story dwelling at 441 Madison Avenue from Louis J. Haggin. It has a frontage of forty-five feet and is located between Forty-ninth and Fiftieth Streets. M. and L. Hess, Inc., were the brokers in the sale.

BUYING IN THE SUBURBS.

E. D. DuPaige of 598 Fifth Avenue, New York City, has purchased the John F. Farnham place at Manhasset, L. I. This is one of the show places of the North Shore and was held at $50,000. Thomas O'Connell was the broker. Stanley F. Flint of New York City has purchased the Elizabeth Brown property on Manhasset Bay through the same broker.

H. Frankfort sold for Kate F. Cutner to Piere Wald the dwelling and stream with plot of ground 65 by 158, on the westerly side of Kensington Gardens, 125 feet north of Mott Avenue, Far Rockaway. The purchaser will occupy it as a yearly residence.

Andrew B. Wood sold 25 Market Street, Long Beach, L. I., a two and a half-story stucco dwelling, to Lillie Milch, who after extensive alterations will occupy it as an all-year residence. The Lewis H. May Company were the brokers.

The property at Dobbs Ferry formerly owned by Miss Madelaine Appleton and recently purchased by Mrs. Everett W. English has been resold by Kenneth Ives & Co. to L. R. Whittemore. The property consists of a frame cottage with ground on the summit of a cliff overlooking Dobbs Ferry Station and the Hudson River. It was held at $16,000.

The seller is the John T. Brock Company, who is also the builder. The property was held at $37,000. The broker in the deal was George A. Bowman.

G. Tuoti & Co. with the Husted Farm Agency, sold at Stamford, N. Y., a large dairy farm of about 150 acres, consisting of a large dwelling and complete set of outbuildings. The stock and machinery were included in the sale. The purchaser intends to go into the dairy business on a very large scale.

The Bronx Market.

Cahn & Cahn, operators, bought from the estate of Katherine Bothner, 627 East 146th Street, a five-story apartment house having fifteen families, on lot 37.6 by 100. The brokers in the transaction were R. M. Buse, Charles D. Murch and F. A. Strips.

Scott Brothers sold for the Schwab estate the three-family frame dwelling 1,822 Anthony Avenue to Patrick Carey; the same brokers also sold 295 Reservoir Oval, two-family dwelling, to Miss Burke for conveyance for Patrick Jackson; 2,719 Decatur Avenue, two-family dwelling on plot 50 by 100, for the Carey estate to Bartholomew Schiavone; for William Sharry the two-family dwelling on plot 50 by 100, 269 East 207th Street, to William P. Flanagan for occupancy.

Moses D. Moss and Samuel F. Lehr are the purchasers of the twenty two-family new law apartment, 1,892 Vyse Avenue, on a plot 50 by 245. The Irwin Reid Holding Company was the seller and George Steinman was the broker in this transaction.

The two-family house at 2,049 Valentine Avenue on a lot 25 by 120 feet was sold by Robert Foley, as broker, for A. Beasley to M. Hovey.

Charles W. Wynne and Lewis H. Low, operators, have resold to an investing client of Louis N. Adler the six-story new law apartment house, at 1,758 and 1,760 Bathgate Avenue, containing thirty apartments, on lot 48 by 112.

The sellers purchased the property from the builders, the Rauma Realty Company, who erected it about ten years ago.

Brooklyn Home Buyers.

The Rez Homes Corporation sold to William Spitz a one-family stucco house on a plot 25 by 120, on the northwest corner of Avenue Q and East Seventh Street, for occupancy. The property was held at $14,250. J. Lacey was the broker.

Meister Builders, Inc., sold to Giovanni Liresi and Alfonso Liresi the one-family stucco dwelling, on a plot 20 by 100, at 1,054 Crawford Avenue. M. F. Calicci was the broker in the transaction.

Grocers Acquire Warehouse.

James E. Morris & Co., wholesale grocers, have added another parcel to their present holding at 153 Chambers Street, by acquiring from the estate of Mary M. Miller the six-story and basement warehouse at 156 Chambers Street, having the south side between West Broadway and Greenwich Street, 19.11 by 75 feet. This is the first sale of the property in over sixty years. George R. Read & Co. were the brokers in the transaction.

Business Property Transferred.

CHEAP 3D AV. TENEMENT.
Near 97th St.; thoroughly well built; well planned. Five-story basement with stores; 25x68x100; four families per floor; three and four rooms; rents $12 to $16 per month; hot water supply; rents $3,700; price $25,500; economic conditions are such that it is impossible to produce low rent housing; when it is considered that no tenements of the low rent type have been built for years, it is evident that there will be a heavy increase in the value of the existing buildings; this is as certain as the rising of the sun, for tenement values are far too low. KU KLUX PROTEST HONOR TO LATE DEAN

Special to The New York Times.

PATERSON, N. J., June 21.—Notwithstanding the fact that the Ku Klux Klan wrote him urging against closing the public schools here tomorrow during the funeral of the late Dean William N. McNulty of St. John's Roman Catholic Church, Mayor Frank J. Van Noort issued a proclamation today closing the schools and requesting the citizens of the town to desist from work in honor of the beloved priest. The Mayor likewise ordered all flags in the city at half-staff until after the funeral.

On Monday a delegation of citizens, representing in their number Protestant, Jew and Catholic, called on Mayor Van Noort to request that he honor Dean McNulty's memory by making the day of his funeral a semi-holiday. This morning the Mayor received the following letter from "Paterson Klan No. 15, Knights of the Ku Klux Klan, Invisible Empire, Realm of New Jersey":

"It has been brought to the attention of this organization of the Knights of the Ku Klux Klan that you are about to issue an official proclamation closing the public schools of the City of Paterson at 9:30 A. M. on June 23, 1922, for the funeral of the Very Rev. Dean McNulty. With all due respect to the late Dean, this organization wishes to go on record as being opposed to the closing of our public schools for any sectarian purpose. We, the Knights of the Ku Klux Klan, stand four-square behind the public school system and the Constitution of the United States, which calls for the separation of Church and State. Therefore we strenuously object to the closing of our public schools at this time or in the future for any purely sectarian reason."

In his proclamation Mayor Van Noort pointed out that for threescore years Dean McNulty had been a force in the community for law and order and better citizenship.

FIND INDISCREET PRACTICES

BOSTON, June 21.—The Suffolk County Grand Jury reported today that its investigation of charges of corruption and graft among public officials in connection with the passage of street railway legislation in 1918 indicated that indiscreet practices were indulged in by members of the General Court, but that the evidence submitted did not call for indictments against any person or persons.

The jurors referred particularly to loans made to members of the Legislature by the Fidelity Trust Company and to investments made by legislators in street railway stocks at a time so closely related to the passage of the street railway legislation in question as to afford a basis for reasonable suspicion in the public mind."

Confirm Howell as Minister to Egypt

WASHINGTON, June 21.—The nomination of J. Morton Howell of Ohio to be the first American Minister to Egypt was confirmed by the Senate late today. When nominated for the post he was the diplomatic agent and Consul General in Egypt.
